

CARE OF CREAM IN SUMMER MONTHS

State-Wide Publicity Committee Sends Out the Following on How to Care for Cream in Summer

COVERED MILK PAIL IMPORTANT Premium on Sweet Cream Will Continue to Increase and Price Will More Than Pay for Equipment

Because of the general better market conditions, quality is more important than ever before. Whether the butter is made on the farm or at the creamery, its quality largely depends upon the manner in which the cream and milk are handled.

The two important factors in producing good cream are low temperature and cleanliness. If these two essentials are properly employed, there is very little trouble in getting the best price for the dairy products.

When the milk comes from the cow it is absolutely pure but the contamination starts from the time it leaves the teat until placed in the vat at the creamery and cooled. If the cows are on pasture there is less liability of dirt entering the milk during the summer than during the winter.

When the milk is drawn it has a temperature of 65 degrees Fahrenheit, which is just right for the development of bacteria. It is allowed to stand around the barn the bacteria will develop rapidly and thus make it much more difficult to produce sweet cream.

Shot-gun cans offer the best means of cooling cream because of their small diameter and the amount of surface exposed to the water in comparison with the amount of cream contained.

The cream separator as well as the milk utensils used should all be thoroughly washed with a brush. A brush is much preferred to a rag because of the bristles getting into the cracks and crevices and cleaning the milks and cans thoroughly.

One of the most important features in producing clean milk is the covered milk pail. This is simply an ordinary pail with the top partly covered in order to prevent the dirt which drops from the cow entering the pail.

Those who are producing the best grade of cream have constructed small milk houses. These are inexpensive and are located near the pump. The cooling tank, as well as the cream separator, are placed in them, thus concentrating the work and making it easier to care properly for the cream.

Every farmer will be well repaid for constructing a small tank and handling his cream in a sanitary manner. The premium on sweet cream will continue to increase and the price will more than repay for the expense of the equipment and the trouble of giving the products good care.

perfectly equipped men and women, and to that end favor the pensioning of teachers in their declining years after faithful, efficient and continuous service, as one of the independent means.

Schools. We believe in the state of Iowa and in the Iowa boys and the Iowa girl and reaffirm our allegiance to the public school system of this state, but we deprecate to them all, rich and poor, the same educational opportunities, both general and technical, as to equip them all equally well for the battle of life and to furnish to farm, factory and mine skilled and intelligent help so essential to a healthy future development of the state.

Banks. We favor the early revision of the banking laws of the state so as to extend to our citizens their full share of the additional security and benefits granted under the new federal banking laws.

Extravagance. We charge the republican administration of the state of Iowa with extravagant expenditure of public funds, thereby causing unnecessary increase in taxation and pledge the democratic party to an economical and just administration of the officers of the state.

Child Labor. We pledge our support to any legislation that will relieve the children of the state from carrying on their tender shoulders any of the industrial burdens of the times, and would penalize the employment of child labor in such a manner as to abolish the same.

Interstate Commerce. We advocate an amendment to the interstate commerce act, which will restore the common law rule, that a shipper or passenger should only be bound by the limitation upon a value of property or baggage lost or destroyed through the negligence of any railroad when the terms of such limitation are brought to the knowledge of and assented to by such shipper or passenger.

The following resolution of greeting to Hon. Fred White, long time democratic leader, was adopted and was ordered sent by the chairman to Mr. White:

We send greetings to our distinguished leader, Fred E. White, who has rendered his party and the nation great service. We regret his inability to be present and take part in our deliberations, and express our gratification over the fact that he should be on the road to a speedy recovery of his old time health and vigor.

WHY WEAK LUNGS?

The toll of tuberculosis is claiming more than 350 victims every day in the United States, yet few realize their grave condition until the critical period arrives.

Overwork, worry, weakness after sickness, catarrh, bronchitis, tender throats—all exert the weakening influence that invites consumption.

To guard against consumption, thousands of people take Scott's Emulsion after meals because its rich medicinal nourishment strengthens the lungs, puts vigor in the blood, and upbuilds strength to resist tuberculosis. Scott's Emulsion is nature's strength-builder. Refuse substitutes.
