UPRISING PROVES FLAT FIZZLE

Small Outbreak Occurs in the Philippines—Trouble Which Occurs
Controlled by Authorities

POORLY ORGANIZED, NO LEADERS

Situation From All Appearance and According to the Official Statements, Well in Hand.

Manila, Dec. 26—Eight Filipinos have been arrested on the charge of sedition as the result of an abortive rising in Manila and its environs on Thursday night. Further arrests are probable.

From army sources it is learned a general warning was sent to all officers on Thursday afternoon stating that fully 14,000 Filipinos in Manila alone were ready for a concerted attack on Fort Santiago, the Cuartel Espana, the Cuartel Infanteria and the medical depot. The military units were immediately prepared and a street patrol was started at dusk.

Constabulary agents who are members of the secret societies disclosed the plans for an uprising, thus enabling a force of constabulary and police to disperse gatherings at Gumbabayan, Paco and Navotas, near Malabon. At Calocan a squad of American sailors seized chairs when a force of Filipinos approached a dance hall in which they were gathered and, using the chairs as weapons, routed the Filipinos, of whom quite a number were wounded.

The rising was evidently poorly organized and lacked leaders. It was composed for the most part of persons implicitly trusting the word of Arrieno to Ricarte, a revolutionary, who conducts a continual propaganda from Hongkong, to which place he was banished by the American authorities some time ago. Ricarte, it is stated, advised that the anti-American attempt be made on Christmas eve, when the American officers would be expected to celebrate the holiday.

Reports from the provinces tell of minor risings and occasional violence, but details from these sections are lacking.

The situation today, from all appearances and according to official statements, is well under control of the military authorities.

Governor General Francis Burton Harrison happens to be away on an official visit, and Vincent G. Smith, secretary of the interior, is in charge of affairs pending Mr. Harrison's return.

What Iowa Can Do in Apple Industry.
Although the big majority of Iowa farmers pay little attention to apple growing there are a few Iowa apple enthusiasts who are demonstrating year after year that Iowa can do the way of apple production if the business is given serious attention. Apple producers attending the annual Iowa State Horticultural convention all brought reports of a better year than they had anticipated in spite of the fact that the dry weather for the past three seasons had cut short the crop and the apple markets in some of the big districts of the east and south of the west were very poor. These apple growers are producing apples of better quality than are grown in the famous apple regions of the west and this year they had a much better market for them. They are alive to their business and are taking advantage of its opportunities.

Some of the best fruit shown at the annual meeting of the horticultural convention will be put in shape for exhibition at the Panama exposition. There it is expected that Iowa apples will take high rank in competition with apples from all parts of the country and Iowa does not by any means have to depend on her apple crop as do the districts with whose exhibits Iowa apple growers will have to compete. The success of these men in growing apples shows what can be done along this line in this state wherever men give it attention.

C. H. Mincer, of Hamburg, who has about 100 acres in orchards, has won many prizes at the National Horticultural congress with his Iowa grown apples in competition with apples from many parts of the country. A few years ago at this congress he won a sweepstakes prize and was awarded a $400 trophy as a premium. J. M. Bechtel, of Hamburg, raised 12,900 bushels on 65 acres this year and sold them at prices ranging from $3.25 to $5.50 a bushel. Mr. Bechtel was formerly in the railroad business, but he says he has made far more money out of the apple business than he ever could have hoped to make in the employ of the railroad.

Simons & Sons, of Hamburg, also had a good year in spite of the fact that the weather was somewhat against the apple business. Mr. Simons gets out a little circular advertising his apples, which shows that he is alive to the opportunities of his business. Mr. Mincer also gets out some advertising matter, using a post card on the outside and some information about his orchards printed thereon. C. O. Garrett, who has an orchard of twelve acres near Mitchellville, produced on an average of about 100 bushels to the acre this year and marketed the most of them at Des Moines at the rate of $1.50 per bushel. The point that stands out most prominent in Iowa's apple production is that it is not made much of in this state and there are a great many other lines of special farming as well as general

THE ALL-ROUND STATE OF IOWA.

In the commercial world how should Iowa be classed? This is a question that has been asked by one who has given some thought to the resources of this great middle west state. As an agricultural state? Yes, that is the first answer that comes to the mind, yet this is not entirely true, though the term covers comprehensively the varied industries, including stock raising, dairying, truck gardening, fruit raising and the production of corn, oats, wheat, rye, barley and other grains.

While Iowa is an agricultural state, it may be classified truthfully according to the interests of the individual, Iowa is a dairy state, it is a manufacturing state, it is a stock raising state, it is a fruit bearing state. In fact, its resources include practically everything of which other states in the union so loudly boast.

Iowa's butter, and other dairy products, amount to more than the total output of the gold of Alaska, or of California. Alaska is known only as a gold producing country, and California gold is one of the greatest advertising features of that state. In view of these facts, why could not Iowa be termed a dairy state?

What becomes of Iowa's millions of bushels of grain each year? A large proportion is consumed by Iowa cattle, sheep, hogs and other stock, of course; but another large proportion of this grain goes to the great cereal mills of Iowa, there to be made into flour, to help feed the world.

Iowa has the largest cereal mills in the world. Products from these mills may be found in every country on the globe. The packing houses of Iowa rank well with those of other states. These take care of a part of the cattle and hogs that are raised on Iowa agricultural products.

Iowa factories are making leather goods for the British army, most of the hides, from which the saddles, harness and other leather products are made, come from within the state. While Iowa is not classed as a manufacturing state, there are dozens of cities, each with factories aggregating several thousand, which do their share in supplying the world market.

The great states of the west are known as the stock raising states of the union. These states are too arid for successful agriculture and so they have gained national and world wide fame from their cattle. There are no great ranches in Iowa. A section, or half section of land is a big farm. One of these large Iowa farms can support more cattle than some of the great ranches of the west. Stock raising in Iowa is one of its greatest industries. This is manifest at the present time, when the quarantine for the foot and mouth disease threatened to bankrupt communities and even whole counties.

When Iowa farmers and stock raisers cannot move their herds, the whole commercial system is thrown out of balance. Iowa apples are becoming famous. Iowa vineyards and Iowa peach orchards have become widely known during recent years, and the time is rapidly coming when the fruits of Iowa will become a prime factor in the world's market, as well as the market of the nation.

Minerals of Iowa include coal, gypsum and state. These mineral resources, though not as great as some other states, yet form an asset which cannot be overlooked.

Nor has the state yet lost its place as a producer of woods. Recently eastern manufacturers purchased many acres of Iowa hickory trees for the purpose of making handles and articles which necessitated the use of hard wood. Iowa saw mills produce many feet of fine oak, walnut, ash and maple lumber.

After considering the various resources of Iowa, the question still remains: How should Iowa be classed commercially?—(By the Iowa State-Wide Publicity Commission.)

Important Happenings of 1914 In Pictorial Review

JANUARY—GENERAL VILLA—General Villa was active in northern Mexico in January, advancing on Torreon. Lieutenant Becker won a new trial in February, but the gun men he hired to kill Gumbler Rosenthal were condemned to death. Many lives were lost in March by the burning of a tent colony in the Colorado labor war. American marines landed at Vera Cruz April 21, losing seventeen killed and fifty-seven wounded. The steamer Empress of Ireland was sunk in the St. Lawrence by the Stordal May 28, 1,024 being drowned. Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria and his wife were assassinated June 28 by Gavrilo Princip, starting the great war in Europe. Actual hostilities started by the bombardment of Belgrade after Austria formally declared war on Serbia July 28. Louvain, Belgium, was burned Aug. 28. On Sept 3 Pope Benedict XV. was elected as the successor of Pope Pius X., who died Aug. 20. George Stallings and the Boston Braves defeated the Athletics in four straight games in October. During November thousands of Belgians, made homeless by the conflict, sought refuge elsewhere. Hospitals in all the belligerent countries were filled with wounded.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS FOR SCHLESWIG

Wide Awake Little City Passes Proposition for Municipal Owned Electric Light Plant by Big Majority 214 Votes Cast and Only 25 Against the Proposition—Bonds to be Taken by Local Capitalists.

Schleswig, Dec. 28—(Special to the Review.)—The special election for the purpose of deciding whether or not the people of this place were in favor of issuing bonds for the sum of $16,000.00 for a modern municipal electric light plant was held last Tuesday and passed by a big majority and everyone is highly elated over the fact that Schleswig is to own and operate a light plant.

There were 214 votes cast at the special election and of this number only 25 voted against the proposition. The number of votes cast by the women was larger than expected and it certainly demonstrated that the women of Schleswig take a great interest in the town and are among the best boosters. In all they cast 81 votes; 76 for 4 against and 1 spoiled ballot. The men cast 123 votes; 106 for 21 against and 6 spoiled.

The town of Schleswig will be bonded for $16,000.00 and it is intimated that some of our local capitalists will take up the issue.

Schleswig has long been in need of a modern lighting plant and the citizens have come to realize this more and more each year.

LIVED WHERE BUCK GROVE IS NOW LOCATED. DIES AT BRONSON, IOWA

Mrs. Florence Horr, Who at One Time Lived Near Buck Grove is Now Located, Dead.

Born in Alabama in 1861, Mrs. Horr Came to Crawford County in Her Early Girlhood.

Deloit, Dec. 28—Special—Below we give an obituary of one who was long a resident of this county.

Mrs. Florence Horr, who died at her home at Bronson December 20th, was born in Baldwin county, Alabama, in 1861 and moved to Iowa with her mother in early girlhood. Her mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Patton, lived many years near where Buck Grove is now located. Florence was united in marriage to James Horr in the spring of 1875 at Deloit. They lived near Buck Grove and Deloit for several years and in Nebraska a few years, and afterwards went to Odebolt, where they lived a few years and then moved to Bronson, their present home. Her mother, Mrs. Patton, has made her home with them for several years, where she has been made comfortable. Mrs. Horr united with the L. D. S. church in 1879 and was a faithful member until death. Three sons were born to them, Marion, Edward and Clyde, two of whom, Marion and Edward, survive her. She also leaves her husband, an aged mother, two sisters, Mrs. Elliott and Miss Carrie Patton, of Sioux City, and a host of friends, which was shown by the beautiful floral tribute at the funeral, which was held at the M. E. church at Bronson. Elder Booker, of Sioux City, preached the funeral sermon. He was assisted by the M. E. minister. The remains were laid to rest in the Grace-land cemetery at Morningstar. Mrs. Horr had many friends here who extend their sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Schenk and family, of Sioux City, spent Christmas with relatives in the Oak.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Reidsøe and little folks returned to their home in Randolph, Neb., Saturday morning after a visit with the gentleman's parents.

Glen Harris went to Chicago Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Ferguson came from Mason City Thursday afternoon to spend a few days with the lady's mother.

Supt. Mearl Myers was in charge of the evening's program. The program was splendid. Credit is due Mrs. Edna Newcom, Mrs. Bessie Myers and Miss Eunice Dobson for their efforts in making the program a success. The church was most beautifully decorated by Mr. and Mrs. Lacey Myers and Mrs. J. T. Spence. The church was crowded and good order prevailed during the exercises. A treat of candy, apples and nuts was distributed among the crowd after the exercises and all seemed to enjoy the evening.

DIKE—A practical joke of nature was perpetrated on Henningsen Bros., of Dike, when one of their pure bred Polled Durham cows gave birth to a freak calf having five legs. The calf is full sized, fully developed strong and healthy. The extra leg grows out from the neck just in front of the right shoulder. It grows out forward and then bends toward the head like a big hook and having just one big claw on the end of the leg. This claw the calf sucks at times like a child sucks its finger. The extra leg having four movable joints it can move it up and down and it moves it in unison with the other leg when walking. As the calf is of pure bred parentage it is entitled to record in the herd books.

BRILLIANT AFFAIR AT DUNLAP

Marriage of Miss Adah Pearl Crow and Mr. William C. Rannels Solemnized December 23d

MANY BEAUTIFUL PRESENTS

Bride a Teacher in the Dunlap City Schools and the Groom a Well Known Young Farmer.

Dunlap, Dec. 26—The home of W. H. Davis, of Dunlap, was the scene of a very pretty wedding December 23d, at 8 o'clock p. m., when William C. Rannels and Adah Pearl Crow were united in marriage.

At the appointed hour Miss Lillian Raine, of Denison, was seated at the piano and played the wedding march while the bride and groom, attended by Miss Della Fox and Mr. Edward Rannels, followed the officiating minister to their places.

Helena Davis, holding the ring in the heart of a beautiful rose, stood beside the minister. Rev. A. R. Grant pronounced the words that made them man and wife, using the beautiful ring ceremony, which was very impressive. The bride was tastefully attired in a white gown of messaline and shadow lace, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and the groom wore conventional black.

After congratulations a two course luncheon was served. There were nearly fifty guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Crow, of College Springs, Iowa, and is an accomplished singer, having been associated with the Jones chautauqua system for several seasons. She has been a teacher in the public school of Dunlap for more than two years, and has made many warm friends among our citizens. The groom is a well to do farmer of this vicinity. He is a young man of sterling character and highly respected. He is superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school and a leader in church work and in every way worthy of the prize he has won.

The bride was presented many beautiful and valuable gifts. They will be at home to their friends after January 1st in Dunlap.

The best wishes of a host of friends go with them through life.

BENEDICT MET HIGHWAYMEN

Dunlap Farmer is Robbed by Two Fellows to Whom He Offered

Dunlap, Ia., Dec. 26—Carl Benedict was greatly surprised the other evening while on his way home from town by being held up. He was a little later than usual, having remained in town signing some leases on ground he had rented, picking up some groceries and then going to the I. C. Depot after some other stuff. As he crossed the river bridge northwest of town he noticed two men walking in the road ahead of him, but thought nothing of it. He passed several teams in here also and when the last team had passed by he noticed the men stop. In passing Carl greeted them, asking if walking was better than sleighing. To this he received no response but directly the men walked toward the bob, one catching hold of the team and the other jumping into the bob. He grabbed Carl from the back and threw him into the bottom of the bob, demanding him to hand over his money. His clothes were torn open and his pocketbook, containing about $8 was taken as was also some merchandise. The men wore handkerchiefs about their faces so Carl could not distinguish them but thinks he noticed their voices.

He hurried to the Dunlap home and phoned to town but the men had made their escape.

Mr. Benedict also carried a watch and a bill book, but these were not taken.

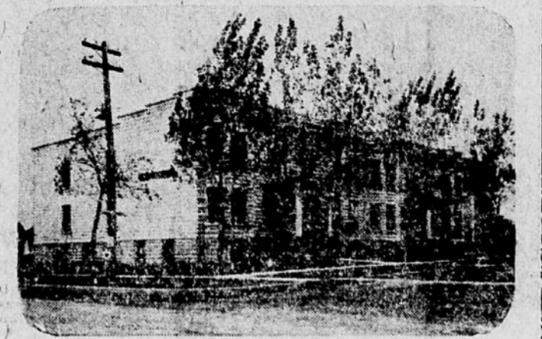

Imposing Fleet to Exposition.
Washington, Dec. 26—Twenty-one modern battleships flying the stars and stripes will follow the Oregon, the "Old Bull Dog of the Navy" through the Panama canal when the Atlantic fleet goes to participate in the opening ceremonies of the Panama-California exposition. Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the fleet, conferred with Secretary Daniels today on this and other subjects. No decision was reached as to whether the flotilla of destroyers also should make the trip; but the battle craft and their requisite colliers, repair and supply ships will make an imposing naval procession.

The Atlantic fleet will leave New York about January 15th for "Inter-manuevers" at Guantanamo, Cuba. Ships in southern waters will join the fleet there. The vessels, which will go to the Pacific, will return to Hampton roads about the last of February.

They feel so poor in Wall Street that it only costs $38,000 to sit down in the stock exchange.

Some people decide that it is immoral to let children believe the Santa Claus myth, and then they go out and buy flimsy tin gifts that go to pieces in a day.

Illinois Has A Lincoln Highway Hospital

There is nothing slow about Illinois and nothing indicates the progressive spirit of her citizens better than the way work has been pushed on the Lincoln highway in that state during 1914. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent on its permanent improvement by the counties, townships and municipalities along the route. Her governor has taken spade in hand and at the head of a gang of bank presidents, professors, doctors, lawyers, business men and school boys has helped in its reconstruction. Sections of concrete road have sprouted, arches have arisen, markers have been placed and artistic lights have illuminated the way. Illinois is determined to have all the latest improvements on her section of the transcontinental road and the latest is a Lincoln hospital, located on the Lincoln highway in Rochelle, a fine little town of 3,000 population, where boulevard lights line the Lincoln highway and an air of prosperity reigns. This first Lincoln highway hospital has 50 rooms and every modern convenience for the care and comfort of patients.
