It occurred near a large bridge and it happened that one car with merchandise fell into the creek and one oil car on the other side of the bank. No one was hurt but the coach only lacked about two feet of going into the ditch which certainly would have caused the injury or death of many as the train was crowded. It is thought it happened by a brake breaking and dropping down, thus causing the car to be thrown off. It broke up many ties and rails were also bent. The oil car was full of oil which was all lost.
