

She Knows What She Wants

The well informed housekeeper objects to the use of alum in food. She might read in an advertisement or be told that it was all right in the quantities used, but in the end she would merely ask, "Do you mean to say that these baking powders contain alum?"

If the answer, however qualified, were in the affirmative, that would be enough. She would not buy it. Why?

Because she knows that cream of tartar has always been accepted as the most wholesome product for raising cake and biscuit, and she wants a baking powder made of cream of tartar, like Royal.

This conclusion is the result of unconscious absorption, either her own or her mother's, of the opinions of the highest authorities on hygiene and home cooking.

The prudent housekeeper looks at the ingredients printed on the label. She knows what she wants.

Education After One Leaves College. Graduates from school and college have always said a good deal about continuing education after they go to work. As a matter of fact few of them do so. They settle into habits of desultory reading, largely of magazines and novels.

The recent growth of summer schools and home courses of university education, however is encouraging a vast number of young people to keep at it. Columbia university is announcing its summer schools for 1915. Notes that last year 5500 students took these extra courses. And that is only one institution among scores that are doing this work.

Most active young people who have as yet no family ought to expect to take some additional courses of study after their regular education has been completed. Such work can always be done at home by correspondence. It would usually be so different from their daily tasks that it would be no added mental strain. It is simply a question whether they wish to give up time for amusements and sports for the broader equipment.

LIFE WAS A TRAGEDY, SAID IOWA WOMAN

Mrs. William Litzberg, of Montezuma, Iowa, suffered from stomach troubles for a long period. She grew weak as a result of the failure of her digestive processes. She was always tired.

Then came Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and showed her the way back to health again.

The first bottle, the very first dose, put Mrs. Litzberg on her feet. She wrote:

"I have taken four bottles of your Wonderful Remedy. I can't be thankful enough for it. I must say that it is the best medicine that I ever tried."

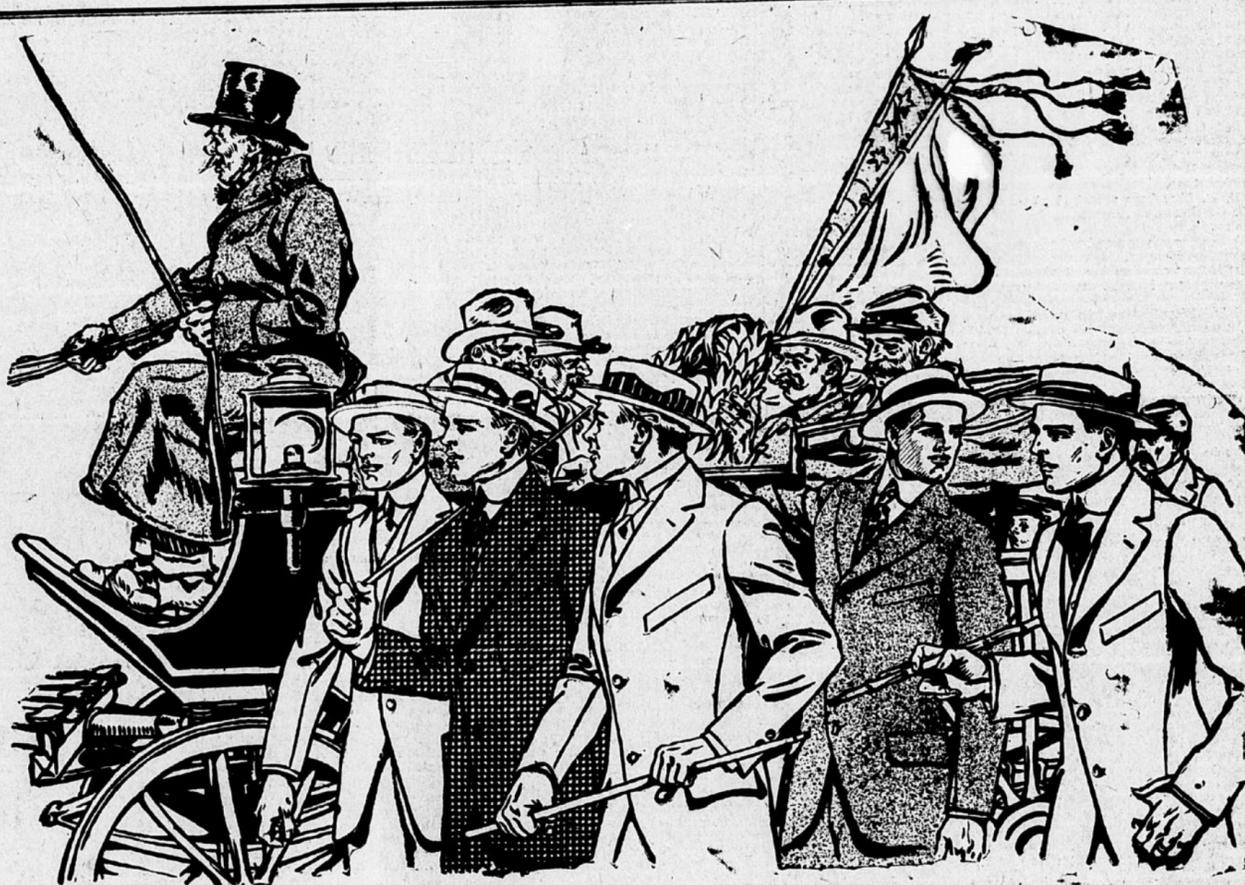

"I was so weak that I did not think life was worth living—had no appetite—everything I ate worked against me, but now I can eat anything at all that looks good. I feel so strong—have been able to do a good day's work ever since I took the first bottle."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—If not satisfactory money will be returned.

"No one really believes that we are going to be involved in the war, unless it is Col. Roosevelt or Capt. Hobson," says the Cedar Rapids Republican.
