TROUBLE IN NEGOTIATING LOAN

The allies are having a good deal of trouble to negotiate the loan of a billion dollars in this country, which they have been for some time trying to secure. When the matter was first presented it was said that the difficulty would be had to secure the full billion dollars, but of late it turns out that not over five hundred millions can be secured. One trouble has been the opposition which was stirred up on account of a belief that a portion of the money was to be used to purchase munitions of war for the allies. There is considerable sentiment in the country against this view and enough to check the enthusiasm of some of the people who were favorable to furnishing the money in the first instance.

If the purpose of borrowing the money is to purchase food stuffs here for Europeans we are heartily in favor of it and we do not believe there will be objection on the part of any one if this is the purpose of making the loan. We apprehend that if the loan is made it will insure a market for the sale of farm products such as we can not hope to enjoy if the loan is not made. At first the movement seemed to have been confined to New York and the eastern section of the country, but now we discover that an effort is being made to have Chicago join in furnishing the money. The rate of interest will be such that the banks that furnish the money will find a good profit.

ALLIES MOVE FORWARD.

Two things have happened in the European war within the last few days to attract attention. One is the arrest of German progress on the eastern frontier and the other is an awakening of the part of the allies in France. The American people were led to believe that the allies were almost out of reckoning in the war, but of late there seems to have been a determination to make a forward movement. The Russians have turned on their foes and are either holding their own against them or driving them back. This is something of a surprise because the Russians seem to have formed the habit of retreating and it was expected that in a short time they would be showing evidence of a desire to come to terms with the Germans. We do not believe that during all the history of wars a more successful conquest has been conducted than by the Germans in driving the Russians back for the past two or three months. No one imagined for a moment last spring that in so short a time the Russians would be driven out of Galicia and Poland back onto Russian territory. We imagine that so many Germans have of late been called from the western army that they do not present as formidable opposition to the allies as they will be able to present later on. The casualties of both sides have been unprecedented and the ranks of the armies of all nations engaged in the war have been thinned by losses sustained on the battlefield in addition to the prisoners which have been taken. The struggle is still going on and no one can predict what the end will be.

When legislators don't know what to do, they can always get out of the difficulty by having a commission appointed to investigate, which will report in favor of having still another commission look into the matter.

There is at least one time when the motorist is convinced that the farmer is the backbone of the country, and that is when he has to be assisted out of a mud hole with a pair of oxen.

HILLIS' CONFESSION.

There was something pathetic in the confession, recently made by Dr. Hillis to his congregation in Brooklyn, N. Y. This celebrated divine had been looked upon during his ministerial career, covering many years, as a model man in every respect. The state of Iowa, and especially the western portion of it, was proud of the fact that he was reared in western Iowa and was possessed of an ambition which prompted him, at great sacrifice, to secure an education, and after he entered the ministry, as he progressed step by step and mounted higher and higher until he approached the highest round of the ladder of fame as a preacher and orator his admirers included not only the people of Iowa, but the people generally throughout the United States. His friends little thought that the lure of gold attracted him and that he was engaged in speculations that ministers of the gospel should avoid, not only because they lead to temptations which are injurious, but for the further reason that few ministers can expect to amass a fortune by engaging in speculation. We have no criticism against the minister who owns property and is in good financial circumstances, but we do think a minister hurts his influence when he engages in the scramble for wealth as Dr. Hillis seems to have done. It was a manly thing for him to make a clean breast of his faults to his congregation, but it would have been a manlier thing if he had not put himself in a position where he felt it was necessary to make a confession.

The church of which Dr. Hillis is pastor was long the church of Henry Ward Beecher and it seems a little strange that both ministers have been accused of committing acts unworthy of ministers of the gospel.

Some miscreant a few days ago cut a telephone cable running down to the southern part of the city and in consequence the service in that section of Denison has been crippled for a few days. Fortunately the matter was discovered at once, the injuries repaired and proper service restored. The company has offered a reward of fifty dollars for the apprehension of the guilty person and it is to be hoped that he will be found and punished as he deserves to be. No one who has the least sympathy for law and order can feel otherwise than a contempt for a man who will exhibit his malice and depravity by doing such things. The management of the telephone company reports that the company is now installed in its new quarters and that from henceforth service will be greatly improved.

It is surprising how philosophical a motorist becomes about the sufferings of people who have been run over when he is well protected by liability insurance.

Many pictures are printed showing the attitudes of baseball pitchers, but the positions of those who merely pitch useful hay up on the mows is rarely illustrated.

There is a growing feeling in this country that it is not necessary for the fall styles in school textbooks and methods to change quite as often as women's fashions.

Few gardeners follow the injunction to cut the weeds before they go to seed, as that work has to be done right off, while the seeds won't come up until next year.
