 The press agent for "The Birth of a Nation" says: "When one of fair mind witnesses this marvelous reproduction he cannot believe that Griffith, as has been said of him, has been all these years nursing his wrath against the north and struck with this mighty weapon when he knew he could do the most far reaching damage to the cause of his country's enemies. He will believe, rather, that Griffith, being a great artist, saw his chance to alarm the world with the greatest, most dynamic thing yet and he took it, with the result that all readers today know." The result of his labor and of all this discussion will appear at Germania opera house April 21st and 22d. "The Birth of a Nation" will inspire patriotism, teach history, prolong peace and command respect for the drama and music better than any offering before the public today.
