

BIG DRIVE FOR AMER. RED CROSS

to get into this war, but under the selective conscription law the government has the right to select men for the service. Under this plan the slackers will be drawn in and we will have fewer loafers around the pool halls and street corners, and the government will make men of all these. Those who are not married and are not doing anything for themselves will be the ones that will first be called upon. No better plan could have been chosen. It is the duty of every patriotic citizen to support whatever action is taken by our government.

In glowing terms Mr. Wallace paid respects to the civil war veterans. He told of General Dodge, with whom he was associated in business for five years before his death, and how this noble citizen, while in an interview with Senators Cummins and Kenyon only a short time before his death, urged them to keep the country out of war. Veterans of the civil war, said the speaker, realize the horrors of war and are slow to want the government to take action. Now that we are at war we all should be in it up to our arm pits and there should be no half way business about it. Don't criticize your government, urged Mr. Wallace. President Wilson, it seems to me, was a man almost sent by God to keep us out of this war, who had honor for his people and did everything to keep us out.

"Some of the most prominent men of Council Bluffs," said the speaker, "have enlisted in the officers' reserve corps, and on last Saturday we bid good bye to over thirty of them who left for Ft. Snelling. Among these men were some of German descent. They know it is not a war against the German people we are engaged in, but against a government which places war ahead of everything else."

He told of being in Chicago last week with Dr. Donald Macrae, who had charge of all of the hospitals on the border. Many women were being given lessons in first aid work. Chicago is alive to the situation and is doing everything possible to assist the Red Cross organization.

"Every citizen should make sacrifices and not crowd into a shell and say 'I'll help later on.' Those of us who get through this year and break even will do well. This is no time for patriotic citizens to hoard money and if the people of Denison do their duty they will not.

"Denison has the reputation of being a wealthy city and by whose favor have you become that way? The Lord—and by the use of your ingenuity, a little elbow grease. America has not awakened to the responsibility thrust upon her. Although England and France, now engaged in the greatest war the world has ever known, have given to the relief of Belgium and northern France two hundred and thirty-six millions of dollars, we have only given fifty-four millions for this worthy cause. We all should give until it hurts and unless every one does that they will not know that they are doing anything. In Canada $14.00 per capita has been given for the Red Cross work. Every man, woman and child in Crawford county should belong to your organization and do their bit.

In speaking of the Red Cross work, Mr. Wallace stated that there were only two agencies the government would recognize on the battle fronts and they were the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. In his opinion the American Red Cross society will be the main sinew of this war. It will be the duty of this society to furnish the doctors and nurses to care for the wounded and those at home must keep an endless string of supplies going to the front. In Europe operations are being performed on the wounded soldiers without anesthetics because none were available and it is a fact that bandages are taken from the dead, cleaned and used for the wounded. We should be ashamed of this condition of affairs. Something must be done to awaken the people of the United States so that when our boys are sent they will have the best possible care.

"While the things I have told you are not pleasant, I want to bring this thing right home to you," said Mr. Wallace, "and impress upon every one in this audience the need of co-operation for the Red Cross. Some people are a little backward about subscribing, saying they don't know whether the money will be received or not. They don't understand that the Red Cross society has for its head the president of the United States and the books are all audited by the treasury department at Washington."

Mr. Wallace stated that he did not come to Denison to beg for funds, but that the people here should know that funds were needed for this work. He expressed himself as pleased that a woman here had awakened the people of the community to action.

With a chart he explained the two branches of the Red Cross, military relief and civilian relief. He told of the supplies that must be made up at home for use in the field, such as sheets, pillow cases, bandages, medicines, instruments, etc.

The civilian relief branch is for the purpose of helping families of those who are in the service and also in times of sickness. Most of the doctors and nurses will be called to the front and that means, said Mr. Wallace, that committees will have to look after the welfare of those at home.

Denison's membership, according to Mr. Wallace, should be 1750 in war time, and he expressed the belief that Denison would reach over this mark.

His address was well received by the audience and he explained many details that were not clear in the minds of our people.

Father Farrelly Talks

Rev. Father Farrelly was invited to make a few remarks, and his talk was one of the best of the evening. He stated that he was greatly impressed by the speech made by Mr. Wallace. The United States, said Rev. Farrelly, will fight this war to a finish and will give their best flesh and blood for victory. We here at home who are unable to go to the front must see to it that our boys are well cared for. Members of the Catholic church can be counted on to do their share and they will be found loyal to the cause. The American principles must be upheld in this conflict. Members of the Catholic church are taught to be loyal to the government of the country in which they live. He stated that the people of all churches should put their shoulders to the wheel and assist in the good work of the Red Cross.

Mayor of Manila Speaks

Roscoe Saunders, mayor of Manila, next addressed the meeting, and stated that in the delegation from Manila present at the meeting were the parents and relatives of the thirteen young men who have recently entered the service. He believed that it was up to the people of Manila to do all they could for those boys who have answered the call. Organizations are being perfected all over this country, said Mr. Saunders, to assist the government in every way possible to win this war. In his capacity as an officer of the Iowa Telephone company, he has been enlisting the services of employees to join the signal service. This is no small war we are engaged in, he declared, but it may run into years. We should all make sacrifices, stated Mr. Saunders, and it might be well to endeavor to collect 25 cents an acre from every land owner in this county, which would raise a fund in round figures amounting to $90,000. In his opinion the farmers could well afford to give this amount of money to such a worthy cause when they profit so in war times by selling their products at high prices.

Manila is organizing a labor bureau, said Mr. Saunders, and every business man in the town will on certain days go out into the country and assist the farmers in the field.

In closing he stated that Manila could be counted on for loan and membership to the county organization, and he was loudly cheered.

Money Subscribed Freely

The chairman introduced Judge Conner, who had charge of raising funds for the Red Cross work. Mr. Conner briefly stated the purpose of the organization and said that it was necessary that the society have funds with which to work.

Subscriptions poured in from the very start. Many subscribed for patron memberships to the organization while others took out life memberships and scores joined as regular members. Then others donated for the purchase of supplies and so fast did the subscriptions come in that the committee on the platform, was unable to enter the names and the amounts.

Those who had already sent sons into the service subscribed liberally and as their subscriptions were announced, together with the number of sons, the audience cheered.

Subscriptions totaling $2,800 were received at the meeting, but since then other subscriptions have been received which brings the total close to $3,000. Those who subscribed on Sunday evening are as follows:

Tag Day's Success

Saturday was Red Cross tag day in Denison and no one who happened to be in the business section of the city escaped the bevy of pretty girls who were out after members for the local organization. The young ladies worked in two hour shifts, commencing at 1 o'clock and continued until 10.

Those tagging report that most everyone was only too glad to join the organization, although there were a
