The Tamms, Saggatus, Brodersens and Balles are enjoying the summer at their cottages on Iowa beach. The return trip was made by way of Walker, Minneapolis, Mankato and Spirit Lake. The party covered 1125 miles during their absence and the only trouble enroute was two punctures. A visit to Oakland cemetery the first of the week reminded us of the fact that many an old soldier is buried there. There seem to be flags in every direction you turn, marking the last resting place of an old soldier. We noticed, however, that many of the flags are showing the effects of being on the graves since last Memorial day and we suggest that new flags take their place. Hugo Beitzger was the first young man from this town to offer his life on our country's altar of freedom. He was a favorite among all his associates and his grave will continue to be the center of interest for years, as it is the burial place of the first Denison young man who gave his life during the frightful war for freedom's cause. He was called to Camp Dodge in February and died March 28th.

THE "SHOCK TROOPS" Many of our town men have joined the "shock troops" during the past two weeks and gone out in the harvest fields to go over the top in the line of saving the farmers' grain. W. V. Huffman, who is located about three miles northwest of Denison, was sick last week. His eighteen year old son, George, was cutting the grain, but there was no one to do the shocking. The S. O. S. signal of distress was sent out and a party of six members went out, after eating an early supper, and shocked nearly nine acres of barley. The next evening five went out to the same farm and shocked several acres of wheat. Every member of these parties had had previous experience in farm work although some are now county officers, business men and retired farmers. The above men are not the only Denison men who have gone to the assistance of the farmers either. They don't wait to be drafted, they volunteer. These men are entitled to considerable credit and we believe the farmers appreciate the good work the town men are doing. SUMMER SCHOOL NOTES. Prof. Charles A. Fullerton, of the State Teachers' college at Cedar Falls, is expected in Denison on Wednesday, July 31st. Professor Fullerton is head of the public school music department at Cedar Falls and in great demand by teachers' institutes and other gatherings throughout the summer months. A "Community Sing" will be conducted by Professor Fullerton at Washington park on Wednesday evening, at which time popular war songs will be sung. The "Community Sing" has become a most popular amusement as well as an educational feature of many of our cities and this event should not be missed. The entertainment is one of the series of public programs furnished by the Cedar Falls faculty for the pleasure of the teachers and others in Denison. The programs have been highly worth while and greatly appreciated. The singing will commence promptly at 7:45, at which time everyone is invited to join the chorus. The attendance for the last six weeks' term has dropped off about 35 per cent, six or eight names having been added to the roll, however, since the opening of the term last week. There are now about ninety students enrolled. A number of students are expecting to take the teacher's examinations to be held at the court house in Denison the latter part of next week. The student body has been asked to lead the chorus which will furnish the music on Thursday evening of this week. The program has been planned with great care for the entertainment of the drafted men who will leave Denison Friday morning.  DELOIT ITEMS  Rev. T. H.
