The Review this week is issued in eighteen pages, made up of three different sections. The paper was enlarged somewhat this week in order to accommodate all of the news and advertising matter. It has never been the policy of this paper to eliminate news in order to accommodate advertising and extra pages are printed in order to accommodate both. Every page of this week's paper is a live news page and we urge readers not to overlook a single page.

The Crawford County State bank, First National bank and Farmers State bank of Denison, together with the Arion State bank and the Dow City State bank are publishing their statements in the Review. All of the statements show the banks to be in a healthy condition, which only indicates the prosperity that the people of the county are now enjoying.

"Passing" for insurance. A Philadelphia physician, Doctor Galliard, who has examined great numbers of men for life insurance companies, informs me that "the popular styles in physique have changed," Girard writes in the Philadelphia Press.

When I asked him to elucidate, he replied:

"Not so long ago life insurance companies made a great ado and scanned with care all applicants who were underweight. Now underweight is passed over as of little consequence, while overweight is reckoned as the stumbling block."

In other words, the thin man was once regarded as a poor risk, whereas now he is preferred to the stout man.

When I asked the doctor to tell me the reason for this switch around in the popularity of the two types of the male form divine, he said tuberculosis, once the dread of the thin man, has been far outclassed in fatality by other organic diseases, especially of the heart, which are apt to affect the more rotund.

Truly, every doz has his day.

What Did He Mean?

The minister had eaten a very good dinner and was getting ready to leave for a long time. He happened to glance at the eighteen-year-old daughter.

"Well, well," he laughed. "I suppose that pretty soon I'll be coming back to marry this young woman to one of the interesting young men of the congregation."

The irrepressible eight-year-old son spoke up:

"Oh, no, you won't," he offered. "Mary is going to be an old bachelor."

The family's laugh told him that he had used the wrong word. So straightway he started to make it right.

"I mean an old witch," he asserted more positively than before.

All doubt concerning the number of knockouts Jack Dempsey scored in the first round with Jess Willard July 4th has been removed, because the motion pictures taken during the fight reveal that the dethroned champion was sent to the canvas seven times. There were no knockouts in the remaining two rounds but Willard probably would have been felled if the rope of the ring had not supported him. Dempsey, the pictures reveal, floored Willard with a left hook to the chin for the first four knockdowns. He upset the champion for the other three knockouts with the right and left swings. The first blow that upset Willard was a short right swing to the heart, followed by a left hook to the chin. It is said that Willard who was to get $100,000, win or lose, was paid with $80,000 worth of government bonds and $20,000 in cash. Dempsey received $27,500. The seat sale is reported as $650,000 and concessionaries claim to have lost very heavily.
