MAKING THEM AMERICANS THROUGH GOOD MUSIC

A novel idea in Americanization methods, sponsored by some of the leading figures in the American music world, is that of teaching aliens the love of their adopted country by means of proper music. At Greenwich house, 44 Barrow street, New York city, no less than fifteen different nationalities sing in a "melting pot," where the good music of the Land of the Free brings clean thoughts and undermines the "red" and radical propaganda that the enemies of organized government try to force into the minds of our coming generation.

At the opening of the evening A. P. Moeller, and Miss Kathleen Luke favored the company with two pretty vocal solos, after which each guest found their place at the table, where covers were laid for forty. The menu consisted of three courses and the viands offered were both bounteous and delicious and being seasoned with the spice of wit and good fellowship, it is needless to say that the affair was a very pleasant one. A clever toast program had been provided for the occasion, which was put on between the second and third courses. Miss Anna Mae Bell acted as toastmistress. After dinner the J. R. G. scandal paper was read, followed by the reading of the club prophecy. The remainder of the time was devoted to games and contests, the most interesting being a contest in capturing first prize and Mrs. Ralph Igou the consolation prize, this being the only prize contest held. ## Thought She Had Moved.

Mrs. Clancey was a very sarcastic woman, and it was probably due to this fact that she had a falling out with her friend, Mrs. Murphy, who lived in the apartment just under her.

One day, while Mrs. Clancey was feeling particularly mean, she looked down from her window and saw Mrs. Murphy also enjoying the scenery. She could not resist the temptation to take a shot at her.

"Oh say, Murphy," she called down in deep sarcasm, "why don't you take your ugly old mug out by the windy and put your pet monkey in its place? That'd give the neighbors a change they'd like."

Mrs. Murphy looked up.

"Well, now, Mrs. Clancey," she slowly said, "it was only this mornin' that I did that very thing, an' the polecat man came along, an' whin he saw the monkey he bowed and smiled and said: 'Why, Mrs. Clancey, whin did ya move downstairs?'"

Des Moines Capital: If women are to be a success as voters, and they will be successful voters, they must eliminate sex entirely from politics, and learn to consider matters that affect all citizens alike. If women are to be considered for any office they should stand on equal footing with the men and the same requirements should be made of them before they are elected to fill any office. No woman wants any office as a political sop. She wants it because of the merits she possesses to win it.

Cedar Rapids Republican: At least the breaking heart of Europe was not referred to on Jackson day. That has been relegated as part of the "sob stuff" of which even Hoover says we have quite enough.
