

Coming Events Cast their Shadows Before

IT'S the man of farsight and vision that turns the conditions of today to his future advantages. The dollar of today looks mighty small in relation to its buying power and most of us are getting a sufficient number of those dollars to meet our current cost of living and a few dollars over. But the days are not far off when that dollar will grow in purchasing power and when it does the dollars will not be so plentifully or generously circulated. The man who saves those little dollars now and puts them away in a safe Savings bank will find they have grown tremendously in importance and usefulness when dollars are scarcer and when the spendthrifts and improvident have carelessly failed to conserve against future opportunity and need.

Now is the time to save—now while the dollars are easy to get. You cannot "eat your cake and have it too." So let's save the cake for a time when it will be more substantial and harder to procure.

Save those little 1920 dollars. They'll be mighty big dollars in 1925, or before.
