REVIEW MAKES TEACHER HAPPY

Miss Birdie Metcalf, Now Studying in New York, Writes Review and Boys and Girls of Crawford County

INTERESTING NEW YORK POINTS Pays Visit to Statue of Liberty, Aquarium, Brooklyn Bridge, Chinatown and "Little Church"

New York City, Aug. 4, 1920.

To the Review,

Denison, Iowa.

Now that I have been located in our greatest city for over two months, I want to tell you how happy I am every Saturday morning when I get the mail box at my home. As there are so many of my school boys and girls I can not write to each, I thought I might be able to tell them something of interest through the Review which they will not find in their books.

The first place I visited was the Statue of Liberty given us by France. It is located on Bedloe Island in East river. Liberty is 151 feet in height, while the base and all its 265 feet. An elevator carries you up part way and you walk the rest, which seems miles before you get down again. The island is guarded by soldiers and some of the officers have pretty little homes which are built of red brick.

Another day we went to the aquarium in Battery Park, where we found a wonderful exhibit of many hundreds of fish and other inhabitants of the sea. Some of the tortoise were so large a ten year old lad could enjoy a ride on their backs.

Then Brooklyn bridge, just like the picture in your books, which was built in 1883. This bridge is 5,537 feet long and 135 feet above the water. It is interesting thing about it is that the man who built it was taken ill and by the aid of a telescope and being placed near the window he directed the men so they could finish it, as he was bedfast.

When we went to Little Italy and Chinatown we passed the New York post office, which is the largest in the United States and cost $3,000,000. In Chinatown we found scores of little black eyed youngsters, but were more interested in the little Italian children. I had my camera and I took a few pictures and they were calling, "Please, lady, take our picture," so the girl who was with me got in all. Here in little Italy the carts are lined up and you can buy anything from a hinge to goods for a dress, besides all kinds of fruits, fish and vegetables. Here we saw a cafe which had a waiter from one side of the street and on this were all kinds of meats and vegetables. Each person paid so much and then began helping himself from one platter and then another and they took his fancy. The counter was about level with their chins, so some of them just "scooped" the food into their mouths. Of course we girls were not doing that and until we reached home for dinner.

Then we have seen the "Little Church Around the Corner," where so many famous people have been married. One day last week I went to St. Patrick's cathedral. This is where the K. of C. are having their meetings this week. The Presbyterian church on Fifth avenue is a very splendid building. The Episcopal cathedral of St. John the Divine is one of the finest churches in America.

Over on the east side or "Ghetto" which is known as the push cart and sidewalk market, every nationality of the world is found here, and on such chaos.

If you take a ride along Riverside drive you can see the white marble Hudson mansion built in 1776. It was the home of Theodosia Burr Alston during 1803-06. Also was the home of Joseph Bonaparte, brother of Napoleon Bonaparte, 1815-16.

Remember, boys and girls, in New York City they do a great amount of traveling underground in trains called subway trains. For five cents you can ride for miles, yes, even go under the Hudson river and find yourself in Brooklyn.

Down at Bowling Green you can see the custom house. It cost $7,000,000 and is on the site of Ft. Amsterdam, built by the Dutch in 1625. The government house was erected here in 1890 for the accommodation of Washington's administration. On each side of the entrance are groups of statues by the American sculptor, French. The dome is the largest of solid masonry in the world.

But the most interesting place is the Metropolitan museum of arts. Everything spoken of in either ancient or modern history you can find here. The most wonderful display of statuary, paintings, jewelry, lace, tapestries, antique furniture, everything in fact that is beautiful and interesting is here. If you ever come to New York do not fail to go there.

The apartment I live in is nice and airy, plenty of sunshine and really very pleasant. There are forty-eight apartments in this house so you see it is quite large.

I had a Red Cross nurse with me. She is a very dear little English-American lady.

Across the street from us is Central park. It is a most beautiful place and is over fifty blocks long. Last evening we went to the Mall where the mayor of New York presented Sir Thomas Lipton with the flag of New York. Goldmann's hand which was splendid. As we were on our way Sir Thomas and party, escorted by the motorcycle police, passed us. There were thousands of people there, including the picnic men. I saw the Shamrock, Sir Thomas' boat, but did not care to go aboard although anyone could go aboard some day before long I wanted to.

Some day before long I wanted to go over to Ellis Island.

Now, I hope I haven't wearied you too much and I would like to hear from any or all of you boys and girls.

Yours sincerely,
Birdie M. Metcalf.
