THE NEWS OF THE FARMER AND BREEDER OF PURE BRED LIVESTOCK

While over in the James Healy territory last week, we took occasion to run into his yards and take a look at the herd of Poland. The first three hogs looked at were H's Timm, an animal that will weigh 1100 pounds when in condition. This animal is one of Healy's best and has made him a lot of money. Many of the fine shots running on the farm are sired by this great hog. The animal is as quiet as a kitten, yet is active and right up on his feet. Col. Bob is another of Healy's fine boars, and he is a regular race horse when it comes to action. He stands well, has fine back and sides, and is a good breeder. Long Prospect is another good hog, the sire of Ray McCutcheon's show litter that will be taken to the state fair. He has the makings of a splendid hog and sire. Some of the best Poland China stock in the country is to be found on the Healy farm this season among the younger hogs; there are 52 spring boars that will make herd headers for some one, and we understand these will be offered for sale at private treaty. There are 170 head in the Healy herd, and they are being cared for by the sons of Mr. Healy who are in partnership with the father this year. Mr. and Mrs. Healy now live in Manilla, but Mr. Healy goes out to the farm most every day and looks the hogs over. The boys have finished putting 65 tons of alfalfa and expect to put in some feeders this fall. They fed 48 head this spring and shipped them out. The boys have in 110 acres of corn, 45 acres of oats and some barley. They keep eight head of work horses and have not become interested in a tractor.

The first issue of a new publication to be called the Co-Operative Breeders' Journal, will be printed September 1st at Spencer, Iowa. This is the stock paper that John H. Gray, formerly of the Review force, will be interested in as a writer and fieldman. The company is incorporated for $75,000 and most of the stock has been subscribed and paid for. A printing office has been purchased and new equipment added, and the new venture would seem to have ample financial support. Spencer is in a territory of considerable size, and is assisting in getting ready for the press the first issue. The magazine will be 9x12 inches in size and contain 200 pages. 12,000 pounds of paper will be necessary for the first issue and that means $2,160 for paper alone, as the grade of paper is to be a smooth book. The cover will be in two colors and very attractive.

"When is the best time to cut corn for silage?" That is a question that comes to the agricultural experiment station at Ames every year. This is the answer that is given: Corn is ready to go into the silo when the kernels are hard, when the lower three or four leaves are brown (as the result of maturity and not of firing), and the husks are beginning to dry. If cut when the amount of water desirable will vary, but broadly it may be said that there is greater danger of adding too little water than too much.

Misses Hattie and Grace Voss, of the August Voss home, near Aspinwall, returned home last week from a trip to Colorado and Wyoming. While in Wyoming they attended the frontier day celebration at Cheyenne, an event that is attended by people from all over the United States, and the young ladies had a delightful time. Mrs. Voss accompanied the girls west but returned home a week previous.

The Word

CATARH

HAS NO DEFINITE MEANING

As an example: In nasal catarrh, one form, hypertrophy, enlarges the structures and more or less closes the breathing space. Another form, atrophy causes too much opening. Both are catarrh, but need different treatment.

Chronic Rhinitis, Adenoids, Ozena, Polyp, Deviated Septum, Septal Spurs, Sinusitis, are all catarrhal factors and result in some results. They are curable with proper treatment. What is necessary is proper treatment for that particular form you are afflicted with.

Edward Tamm lives on the south half of the old Tamm homestead, the place where the father and mother started in Crawford county, and he and his family are nicely situated. The large house, built a number of years ago, is still in excellent condition, having been well cared for. The front yard has some of the finest, most stately evergreen trees to be found in all the county. They are well proportioned, tall, kept trimmed a suitable distance from the ground and the fine blue grass is permitted plenty of sunlight, and yet has sufficient shade so that it does not burn out. One of the noticeable features on this farm is the large number of bird houses—in the trees, on posts and in every conceivable corner one finds bird houses for every kind of bird that inhabits this climate, and the music made by the song birds is delightful and one may spend hours watching the birds in the care of their homes. Edward Tamm keeps the Chester White breed of hogs, and has quite a large number at this time, having in the neighborhood of 100 spring shots. In cattle he keeps the Aberdeens, and they make a fine appearance out in the pastures where the grass is knee high. A new cattle barn was erected on this place last fall, and this together with numerous other buildings adds to the facilities for housing the livestock. Mrs. Tamm and her daughter have many chickens, ducks and geese; the chickens are of the Rhode Island Red strain. From our short visit at this home we are lead to believe it would be a delightful place to spend a week or so as an outing.

Iowa farmers whose fences are plastered with signs of all kinds, some bird, some weatherbeaten, most of them dilapidated, will be interested in learning that those signs have no rights along public highways. Recently the Cerrito Gard county supervisors determined to eliminate the signs from their county highways, if possible, and they asked the attorney general's office for an opinion as to their rights. The attorney general said in effect that the signs had no rights and could be removed by the supervisors. So notice has been given to all sign advertisers to remove them within thirty days. If that is not done, the highway patrolmen will be directed to remove them. It is the general opinion of advertising men that highway sign advertising is generally much less effective than newspaper advertising.

One of the best kept places over in East Boyer township is the one owned by Henry Mordhorst in section 32. Mr. Mordhorst moved to this place in 1915 and he has it well improved and keeps everything up in good shape. The house is quite a large one, two stories high, and is well shaded with a fine grove of trees. The yard and house are enclosed with an ornamental fence, and to the south the fence is set in a general retaining wall. The house and other buildings are well painted and in good repair. Mr. Mordhorst keeps a large number of hogs and cattle, and his crops this season are very good. The threshers were expected at his place Thursday of last week.

The top of the cattle market in Omaha last Wednesday went to Messrs. Damrow & Strobbelin, of Treynor, Iowa with a load of Shorthorn yearlings, over half of which were heifers. The twenty head averaged 823 pounds and sold for $16, or considerably higher than anything else that was on sale.

While over in Morgan township last Friday we learned that some of the A. J. Barrow, of Manilla, stock of Poland China hogs had found its way into the township. Mr. Adolph Hamann, of section 35, keeps Poland China swine and purchased some of the Barrow stock, and he likes it very much. He now has 120 head on the place and has provided a good cement feeding floor for the hogs. Mr. Hamann also feeds a good many cattle during the year and has a load of feeders that will weigh around 1100 pounds on the average. He has lived on this place for the past sixteen years and some four years ago erected a new and modern home. The house is 32x32, full two stories and complete basement—it is heated with furnace, has a complete lighting system and the lights are extended to all the other buildings. There are four rooms and bath on the first floor and four rooms and closets on the second floor. The finish is in hard pine, and the interior of the home is a most comfortable one throughout. Last year the Hamanns planted many evergreen trees, but they did not do well, and this year many more were set out, and the pasture where the attention of Mrs. Hamann and her daughter. The trees have received an abundance of water and are doing well. The farm buildings on this place consist of a large barn, three hog houses, machine house, garage for two cars, granary, double crib, wash house, fuel house and other buildings. A good farm road is one of the necessary conveniences of the place. Mr. Hamann keeps six work horses and the day we were at his place was starting to stack his grain.

Nic Paulsen, who lives in section 7, Morgan township, just south of the school house, is another old settler of that township. He has lived on the place more than 35 years, and has built up a wonderfully fine set of improvements. While Mr. Paulsen does not get to Denison very often, he keeps a Denison paper and is always well posted on the affairs at the county seat. In years past he has been a feeder of hogs and cattle and still keeps quite a few head on the farm. Beaver creek runs through the Paulsen farm and furnishes an abundance of fresh water for the stock. Mrs. Paulsen is a splendid woman to meet and she takes delight in showing visitors her flowers and poultry and gardens.

The hot, dry weather of late summer results in dusty hog yards and buildings. This general condition is not conducive to health and proper growth of spring pigs, say the animal husbandry men at Iowa State college. Many of the most successful growers move the pigs to pasture, field, or meadow where there is less of this germ carrying dust. Coughing and lack of appetite are first noticeable when young pigs are suffering because of dirty quarters and then a general lack of thrift is likely to show itself. Fresh water in creek or yallow will aid materially in keeping the pigs comfortable and thrifty during hot, dusty days.

"No livestock breeder can afford to neglect the county fair in his neighborhood." That's the word of E. H. Kildee, head of the animal husbandry department at Iowa State college, backed by his own observations and the experience of a good many prominent breeders with whom he has discussed the question of showing at local fairs. Too often, Mr. Kildee points out, breeders are inclined to feel that the county fair isn't big enough to be worth while to them. "I visited a county fair only recently," said Mr. Kildee, "where the quality of livestock exhibited was good, but the number of exhibitors disappointing." Yet there are many breeders in the territory tributary to the fair. The same thing is true in many other counties. "Breeders who neglect the local fairs make a business mistake," says Mr. Kildee. "One big breeder who shows at the International and at the state fairs says that he considers the county fair of primary importance in building and maintaining a reputation. In the first place, the local pride or interest which results from the cooperation of livestock breeders and business men in making a county fair a success is profitable to a breeder. Then, many excellent sales of breeding stock are made at county fairs because many buyers of purebreds make a circuit of these fairs. Besides, the county fair exhibits provide excellent advertising. Finally, the reputation of a breeder is in a large measure determined by the attitude and statements of the local farmers and business men of his immediate territory. The breeder who doesn't have standing and reputation at home can't get it away from home."

No politician nowadays will take bribes, but it is perfectly legitimate for them to receive information that action will be taken making certain stocks advance on the market.

Lot of people who kicked last winter because they couldn't get any coal, are not in the least interested now in placing an order early enough so the miners can keep busy all summer.

In these suffrage days when the boys prolong their calls until 12 o'clock, midnight, it is of course owing to the long conference necessary over the complicated political situation.

We wish to call attention to the quarterly page ad of C. W. Lindgren to be found in this issue of the Review. Mr. Lindgren will hold a public sale, a regular "summer sale," of pure bred big type Chester White hogs at the sale pavilion in Ida Grove on Wednesday, August 18th. The sale will commence at 1 o'clock sharp, and there will be a great offering presented the buyers. In all there are 68 head offered for sale, and Mr. Lindgren says it is the greatest offering in this part of the country. Twenty-five great brood sows, fifteen of them bred to Solid Silver, the first prize Junior yearling at Sioux City Interstate fair. Ten are bred to Giant's Equal, an outstanding son of Tickotas Giant. Sixteen fall gilts, eight of them sired by Solid Silver for September litters; eight spring gilts sired by Solid Silver and Montrose Prince; three herd boars—Silver Model, Montrose Prince and Giant's Equal; 15 fall boars sired by Solid Silver, Montrose Big Bone, Industry's Favorite and Linden. Then the big event of the sale comes when Solid Silver himself will be placed upon the auction block. This is the boar Mr. Lindgren refused $5,000 for this spring. In Solid Silver, Mr. Lindgren thinks he has one of the greatest of the breed. At the Sioux City fair he defeated one of the most talked of boars of the day. It is claimed there are not many breeders who would sell a boar like him, but Mr. Lindgren is cutting down his herd to only a few sows and most of them are sired by this wonderful animal. Read the ad.

Adolph Jochims is living on the farm in Morgan township, known as the John Hamann, Sr. farm. This place has 160 acres and Mr. Jochims is paying $16.00 per acre rent. The place is well improved, and Mr. Jochims feeds considerable stock. He recently shipped out a load of cattle to Chicago, and was very well satisfied with the returns. He has been on this place for three years and seems to be doing quite well. Mrs. Jochims raised 300 chickens this spring.

LINDGREN'S SUMMER SALE

68 Head Big Type Chester Whites

Greatest Lot Ever Offered in this Part of the State

Wednesday, Aug. 18, Ida Grove Sales Pavilion Commencing at 1 o'clock sharp.

This sale should interest you. Mr. Breeder, if you are interested in Chester White Swine—the big type. The Lindgren herd is one of the outstanding Chester White offerings in the state and it will pay you to attend the sale. In the sale will be offered

A Sample of Our Offering

Solid Silver 63375
Prize junior yearling Sioux City fair, 1919, will be in this sale. This is the boar we refused to sell for $5,000 this spring. In Solid Silver we have one of the breed's greatest boars. At the Sioux City Interstate fair last year he was placed first in the junior yearling class, defeating one of the most talked of boars of the day. There are not many breeders who would sell a boar like him, and I very much regret to, but I am cutting my herd down to only a few sows and as most of them were sired by him I feel that he can do the breed more good in the hands of some other breeder. He is a real big type boar and carries a new line of big type blood.

16 Fall Gilts
Eight of these are sired by Solid Silver for September litter. They are certain to transmit his fine qualities to their get and prove money makers to any breeder. Eight are sired by Montrose Big Bone, Linden and Industry's Favorite.

8 Spring Gilts
Sired by Solid Silver and Montrose Prince. These are outstanding individuals and the choice of our spring crop.

Jewell 1st 199436
This sow is one of the leaders of the breed and when you get pigs from her you are sure of the best type and blood to be had.

3 Herd Boars
We are selling three herd boars besides Solid Silver. They are big type with lots of quality. Silver Model by Solid Silver, Montrose Prince by Wildwood Prince, Jr., Giant's Equal by Tickotas Giant. They have proven themselves sires of the right type and fit to head any herd in the land.

16 Fall Boars
Sired by Solid Silver, Montrose Big Bone, Industry's Favorite and Linden. Some of these are outstanding good boars—as good as can be found anywhere.

25 Great Brood Sows
Of these at least fifteen are bred to the great herd boar Solid Silver, and at least five will have litter by side sale day, including Queen M 5th, the show sow with six pigs at side. Ten head are bred to Giant's Equal, an outstanding son of Tickotas's Giant, a real big type boar.

If interested send for catalogue for further particulars.
