MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL L. HOULIHAN, SR.

Married March 27, 1870 Celebrated Golden Wedding September 27, 1920

An event of unusual interest occurred in Denison Monday, September 27th, when Mr. and Mrs. Michael L. Houlihan celebrated their golden wedding in the presence of a happy family of children and many lifelong friends...

Mr. Houlihan has reached the ripe age of eighty years and is enjoying excellent health, although during the past year he has been more or less confined to his home on account of lameness...

children are Mrs. Mary Collins, who died in 1908 and M. L., who died a few years ago. There are forty-seven grand children, forty-six of whom were able to attend the celebration...

The festivities began at 8 o'clock when mass was celebrated by Father Phelan at St. Rose of Lima church. The service was attended by all of the children and many friends...

Among the children present at the golden wedding were J. A. of Denison, Martin, of Dunlap; Con C. of Denison township; W. J. of Ida Grove; Mrs. Ellen Houston of Boyer township; Dr. Frank of Denison township; Mrs. Joe Berne, of Denison township; Frank of Denison township; Mrs. John Lally, of Boyer township; and Mrs. Helen of Washington township.

In politics he casts his vote for the democratic ticket, but has always been liberal enough to vote for a friend if he thinks he is deserving of his support. He has never sought political favors, but has served the public by holding various offices of trust.

News and Comment About Iowa People and Events

The little town of Bancroft, Kossuth county, has a couple of live wires, the name of the firm being cotton & Jenks. The cotton & Jenks demonstrated that "small town stuff" is not to be sneezed at. They publish the Bancroft Register but their principal business is doing high class printing...

The people of Thayer, Union county, are considerably aroused over the burning of the Christian church and the adjacent Methodist church in the same way. Blood hounds from Creston were placed on the trail of the miscreants and they started straight for a residence in Thayer occupied by two young men, brothers, against whom charges were brought during the war. On a previous occasion blood hounds had followed a trail to this same point. The method employed in starting fires is well illustrated by what was discovered in the Methodist church. In one corner of the church was found a pasteboard box and kerosene was found smeared on a table near the box. Two empty gallon receptacles that had contained kerosene were also found in the church. The bottom of the box was found to be packed with excelsior saturated with coal oil and topped with a pile of split kindling. Sitting on top of the kindling and supported by what was thought to be a part of a ladder was a piece of candle about four inches long. The candle wick had been lighted by the firebug and the lid of the pasteboard box shut down. A charred place was found in the lid of the box just above where the candle sat, but the closing of the lid apparently soon smothered out the candle.

Official statements received from county treasurers of Iowa by Prof. Stacy Campbell of the Teachers college, Cedar Falls, show that the average cost of rural schools in the state last year was 78 cents per acre and that the average cost of the consolidated schools was 87 cents per acre, or 55 cents per acre more than the cost of the rural schools. Thus the consolidated schools save 23 cents per acre, or the cost of one good automobile tire per year. It should be borne in mind that most consolidated schools are paying for new buildings and most rural schools are not.

Several religious denominations are taking steps to install equipment for conducting services at Ames in order that students at Iowa State college may be accommodated by the presence of a church of their particular faith. The Methodists are erecting a structure near the campus that when finished with all of the accessories contemplated will show an investment of a quarter of a million dollars. Ministers representing other denominations are working among the students that all may have proper religious opportunities.

MISS STEUBER TALENTED PUPIL

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Steuber, Formerly of Denison, Making Progress in Music

The following item concerning a daughter of former Denison citizens, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Steuber, now of Los Angeles, will be of interest to many friends of the Steuber family. Miss Steuber will be remembered as having been connected with the auditor's office in Crawford county for many years, and Mrs. Steuber is a sister of Mrs. Ernest Shilbert and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Von Tuel, now deceased. The item is taken from the Pacific Coast Musician.

It was a notable feature of the terrible disaster in Wall street that the executive men seemed to be the first to receive their presence of mind. They knew what to do. This was not merely because they had been through scenes of carnage and disaster and were used to them.

It was also because their experience in the army made them quick thinkers and practical in an emergency. Former officers of the army and navy were at work within two minutes after the crash came and already were loading injured people into automobiles and starting them for the hospitals.

An incident like this proves what many people have been claiming, that men who went through the army experience would be very valuable in the exigencies of daily life. Quick thinkers count everywhere and the discipline of the service created that capacity.

Some stunt for politicians to handle 15,000,000 new voter not interested in campaign cigars.

If automobile accidents don't stop increasing pretty soon the jail population is likely to show a large gain.

DR. CHARLES F. CHANDLER

Eighty-three years old and still hard at work at the top of his profession, Dr. Charles F. Chandler of New York City, technical adviser to the Chemical Foundation, has received the Perkin gold medal awarded to him by the Society of Chemical Industry for his notable scientific achievements.

The total value of Iowa's dairy products during the twelve months ending July 1, 1920, amounted to approximately $195,000,000. This is almost 10 per cent of the total value of the nation's dairy products in 1919. Iowa's production was as follows: Poultry and eggs, $55,000,000; creamery butter, $45,982,285; cheese, $330,000; market milk, $27,700,000; ice cream, $5,600,000; farm dairy product, $18,000,000; condensed milk, $965,847; skimmed and buttermilk, $15,500,000.

The annual pow-wow staged every year by the Mesquiquies in Tama county has stirred up considerable strife among the Indians and the case has been taken to the federal court at Cedar Rapids by Jack Old Bear, chief, and six councilmen for an accounting of the receipts of the pow-wows given on the reservation during the last five years. They want their part of $17,300. The defendants are Robert Young Bear, a former chief, and six other Indians, and Jacob Bralder, United States superintendent of the reservation, and his assistant, Robert Lyon, who had charge of the pow-wows. C. A. Christiansen is back from the Sioux City fair, and is well pleased with his winnings on his Durcoes. He says he was up against the strongest field of competition, the exhibits at Sioux City being much better than the one at the Lincoln fair. He secured fourth on aged sow, sixth on senior yearling sow and seventh on junior yearling sow. While in Sioux City Carsten purchased a fine boar pig, sired by High Sensation, champion of Nebraska. At the Nebraska state fair a sow line sired by High Sensation secured first, second and third prizes, and a junior yearling was awarded second and the senior and junior boars sired by him were awarded first and second prizes. After Carsten had picked on this pig he invited Professor Klidde, of Ames, to look at him and pass judgment, and the professor told Carsten he had made a first class selection. In another column Mr. Christiansen is advertising his boar pigs for sale at private treaty. They are the large type kind, many of them weighing over 200, and sired by a Great Wonder Lam and a Fathead's Giant. Their dams are the correct type also. Look the ad up.
