THE RAILROAD DISASTER IN CALIFORNIA.

Sixteen Persons Killed and many Wounded. The telegram is full of a fearful accident that occurred on the Western Pacific railroad, near San Leandro, on last Sunday. A Western Pacific train of eight cars (including a sleeping car) collided with an Alameda train of four cars, at 9:30 a. m.

The engines are a wreck; the cars were smashed and driven through each other like sections of a telescope. The morning was very foggy. The W. P. train was on time. Arriving at the switch where the Alameda road connects, the train was slowed, and in response to an inquiry if the Alameda train had passed, the switch-tender replied "All right; go ahead."

By a vote of the County Commissioners of Madison county, November 4, they ordered a vote on the 30th inst., on the question of issuing $15,000 in county bonds to pay for stock in the Capital Ditch.
