

RATES OF ADVERTISING. Table with columns for Advertiser, Copy, and various rates for different durations.

Regular advertising payable quarterly, as do transient advertising payable in advance. Special Notices are 50 per cent. more than regular advertising.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

HIRAM KNOWLES, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. Office in building formerly occupied by W. S. Dixon. Court House Square, Deer Lodge, Montana.

O. B. O'BANNON, Land Agent and Attorney. Office - S. W. Corner of First and D Streets, Opposite Episcopal Church.

G. A. KELLOGG, Civil Engineer and U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor. DEER LODGE, M. T.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS. A. H. MITCHELL, M. D., - A. E. IVES, M. D. MITCHELL & IVES, Physicians and Surgeons.

PORTER HANKS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. - OFFICE OPPOSITE KENNON & ZENOR'S - Deer Lodge, - Montana.

BANKERS. R. W. DONNELL, W. A. CLARK, S. E. LARABIE. Donnell, Clark & Larabie, BANKERS, DEER LODGE, M. T.

First National Bank! HELEN, - MONTANA. Authorized Capital $500,000 Paid up Capital $100,000 Surplus and Profits $100,000

S. T. HAUSER, President. E. W. KNIGHT, Cashier. T. H. KLEINSCHMIDT, Ass't Cash.

DAVIS & BENNETT, ASSAYERS, BUTTE - MONTANA. PRICES - Gold & Silver $2.00 Silver $1.00 Copper $0.50

COSMOPOLITAN HOTEL, Nos. 37 & 39 Main Street, Helena, Montana. SCHWAB & ZIMMERMAN, Proprietors.

Silver Lake House, PHILIPSBURG, MONTANA. MURPHY & JENKINS, PROPRIETORS. Finest and Most Commodious Hotel on the West Side.

JOHN MARCHION'S Meat Market. Main Street, Deer Lodge. Having succeeded to the proprietorship of the above popular Meat Market, I am prepared to supply patrons with

Game in Season. All Choice Meats. - AND - Game in Season. And solicit a share of public patronage.

Blanks for Sale. We have in stock the following Justice Blanks, adapted for any township or county in Montana, and in conformity to existing laws.

Blanks for Sale. We have in stock the following Justice Blanks, adapted for any township or county in Montana, and in conformity to existing laws.

Blanks for Sale. We have in stock the following Justice Blanks, adapted for any township or county in Montana, and in conformity to existing laws.

Blanks for Sale. We have in stock the following Justice Blanks, adapted for any township or county in Montana, and in conformity to existing laws.

Blanks for Sale. We have in stock the following Justice Blanks, adapted for any township or county in Montana, and in conformity to existing laws.

Blanks for Sale. We have in stock the following Justice Blanks, adapted for any township or county in Montana, and in conformity to existing laws.

Blanks for Sale. We have in stock the following Justice Blanks, adapted for any township or county in Montana, and in conformity to existing laws.

The New North-West

VOL. 11, No. 23. DEER LODGE, MONTANA, DEC. 5, 1879. WHOLE No. 544.

POETRY

THE SELF-EXILED. Modern Scotland plays her part, not in revolt, merely, but in revolution...

Now open the gate and let her in, And fling it wide, For she hath been cleansed from stain of sin...

Should I be kinder Christ, I said, By pitying less, The sinful living or the dead...

Should I be kinder, say, or Him, Forgetting this, Stung all day with the Seraphim...

Should I be kinder, say, or Him, Forgetting this, Stung all day with the Seraphim...

Should I be kinder, say, or Him, Forgetting this, Stung all day with the Seraphim...

Should I be kinder, say, or Him, Forgetting this, Stung all day with the Seraphim...

Should I be kinder, say, or Him, Forgetting this, Stung all day with the Seraphim...

Should I be kinder, say, or Him, Forgetting this, Stung all day with the Seraphim...

Should I be kinder, say, or Him, Forgetting this, Stung all day with the Seraphim...

Should I be kinder, say, or Him, Forgetting this, Stung all day with the Seraphim...

COL. ROBERT G. INGERSOLL

HIS SPEECH TO THE TOAST TO THE VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS AT THE CHICAGO BANQUET. Mr. Sherman announced the toast:

The volunteer soldiers of the union army, whose valor and patriotism saved the world government of the people, by the people and for the people.

Response by Col. Robert G. Ingersoll. The announcement was followed by vociferous cheering, which was increased to uproarious enthusiasm...

When the savagery of the lash, the barbarism of the clan, and the insanity of occasion confronted the civilization of our country...

The soldiers of the republic were not seekers after vulgar glory. They were not animated by the hope of plunder or the love of conquest...

They made it possible for judges to be just, for statesmen to be human, and for politicians to be honest.

They broke the shackles from the limbs of slaves, from the souls of masters, and from the northern brain...

They rolled the stone from the sepulcher of progress and found there two angels in shining garments - Nationality and Liberty.

They were the saviors of the nation - the liberators of men. In writing the proclamation of independence, Lincoln, greatest of our mighty dead...

When the sun of the world, whose memory is as gentle as the summer air when reapers sing among the gathered sheaves...

When the sun of the world, whose memory is as gentle as the summer air when reapers sing among the gathered sheaves...

NEW NORTH-WESTERS.

A destitute sign - Drawing, music and dancing. - There are now 148 narrow-gauge railroads, altogether 4187 miles long.

The Sultan has ordered the re-equipment of the forts on the Dardanelles. - Jay Gould promises Denver an immense rolling mill and a $250,000 depot.

First Assistant Secretary Seward, who has just resigned, is a man of wealth. - The Local Option Bill has been killed in the Washington Territory Legislature.

Since General Grant landed at San Francisco he has made eighteen speeches. - Some enemy of a Minnesota sawmill owner drove spikes into the logs, so that $500 worth of wood was spoiled.

"Flie like a bird to your mountain," as the boss remarked to the ball carrier during a game around the brick pile.

John Russell Young sails for Liverpool next week to resume his position at the head of the European news service of the Herald.

According to estimates of Professor Hayden, the geologist, Montana covers a coal field of from 50,000 to 65,000 square miles in area.

James Gordon Bennett, John Russell Young and George Alfred Townsend should take advantage of the business boom to dispose of part of their names.

A Kentucky man was hit in the leg by a bullet while on his knees in prayer, and Peck's Sun says: "Such a thing might not occur again in a thousand years in Kentucky."

A million feet of logs, recently seized on Suquamish river, Washington Territory, by a special agent of the Interior Department, were sold on the 17th at private sale to the Fort Gamble Mill Company at $4 per thousand feet...

A million feet of logs, recently seized on Suquamish river, Washington Territory, by a special agent of the Interior Department, were sold on the 17th at private sale to the Fort Gamble Mill Company at $4 per thousand feet...

The Hawkeye Man at Grand Falls, N. B.

There is a very tender and touching legend about these falls. I knew there must be. If there had been none I should have made one up, something I hate to do most awfully, because I like all of my romances to have a dash of truth in them.

There was, on a time within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, trouble among the Indians. The Mohawks, if it was the Mohawks, and the Mihoctees, if that is the way you spell it, fell in love with each other...

Well, customers came right along from the day the sign was hung out on either side, and both establishments had all they could do. The supply seemed to equal the demand, and the demand was steady and constant, with a rising tendency.

Meanwhile the demand in the Mohawk market for Mihoctee hair continued unabated, and runners for the house were entering in their efforts to secure the new crops and whatever there was in the stock of bins.

The Mohawks got up, put on their hair, plucked into their caps, and started to kill off this stuff, and the Mihoctees were driven to a little putting-up hair to run the heading machine.

A German gentleman, who keeps a seven by nine lager beer saloon at the South-end, treated himself to a day's vacation recently, leaving his son in charge of "ter pizzarias" and a keg of beer.

How a Rich Man Got His Will CHEAPLY. - A millionaire who lived in the vicinity of this city, as he felt his last days drawing near, summoned a distinguished neighbor and lawyer, who since has occupied one of the highest positions in the gift of representatives of the people, to prepare a last will and testament.

How the Bear Nicholas Suppressed a Play. From the Fall Mail Gazette, Nov. 1. A characteristic anecdote of the Emperor Nicholas is contained in the memories of the late Privy Councillor Boguslavski, extracts from which have just been published by the Susskaya Staraya, a monthly magazine of St. Petersburg.

GRANT'S OLD LEATHER STORE. - The store is situated on Main Street, running back to Commerce street, it is a four-story building, the front of Milwaukee brick, and now occupied as a jewelry establishment by J. Coatsworth & Son.

GRANT'S OLD LEATHER STORE. - The store is situated on Main Street, running back to Commerce street, it is a four-story building, the front of Milwaukee brick, and now occupied as a jewelry establishment by J. Coatsworth & Son.

GRANT'S OLD LEATHER STORE. - The store is situated on Main Street, running back to Commerce street, it is a four-story building, the front of Milwaukee brick, and now occupied as a jewelry establishment by J. Coatsworth & Son.

WHAT THE WITS SAY.

The proper monument for New York City is Cleopatra's needle stuck in Peter Cooper's cushion.

It is a poor writer who is obliged to draw on the Italian case for all the strength and force of his argument. - New Orleans Picayune.

A white man who had married a negro black as the ace of spades, offered color-blindness for an excuse. - Cincinnati Saturday Night.

They have thirteen clippers in the Russian navy, and in America no newspaper editor is considered complete unless each editor has one of his own.

Red leaves go on and red noses come in. Philadelphia Press. No you don't, old boy. If you come fooling around here we'll set the dog on you. - Old City Derrick.

You never seen a woman button anything that she can pin, and you never see a man pin anything that he can tie with a string. You would have trouble making some men believe that they couldn't tie a buttonhole into a wristband with a piece of twine. - Burlington Hawkeye.

Mrs. Scroggins: "How did yew mam like that butter I sold her, Miss Lucy?" Miss Lucy: "The butter was not good at all, Mrs. Scroggins; and it was all sorts of different colors." Mrs. Scroggins: "That ain't nothin'. If yew was to see my cow yew'd find them main sought more speckled than the butter." - Fun.

When John had been to see his Amelia fifteen hundred or two thousand times, the old gentleman one day observed John's arm about her waist, and said he thought that was very familiar. "Yes," said John, "I'm always for Melia." "Blessings on you, my children," added papa. - Steubenville Herald.

A new device has been designed by which a linen ulster can be used all winter and appear as warm as a beaver overcoat. The old plan of putting a fur collar on a linen coat has been done away with, and now a fireplace is painted on the tail of the linen ulster, in natural colors, and the wearer looks as though he was in a profuse perspiration in the coldest weather.

"You see, massa," said the old colored wash-woman, "since dey's got much to do, De gemmen puts on a big crayvat now-a-days instead of clean shirts. You don't know much about dese matters, but if you take off all dese crayvats in this town I'll make de gemmen-show up, haddakes! yew'd see dese lookin' white men yew eber laid 'er blessed eyes on." - Syracuse Herald.

A German gentleman, who keeps a seven by nine lager beer saloon at the South-end, treated himself to a day's vacation recently, leaving his son in charge of "ter pizzarias" and a keg of beer.

TALKS WITH GRANT.

HIS INCOME - HIS GALENA HOME - HIS ST LOUIS FARM. Burlington, Ia., Special to Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Just after lunch your correspondent found Gen. Grant, for a wonder, sitting by himself, and imagining that he looked in a good humor, approached him with a request that he would talk about his home in Galena.

"Well, that is a harmless topic, certainly," what can I tell you?" he answered. "How much have you ever lived in Galena, General?" asked the correspondent. "Not very much. I was there in 1861 eleven months, in 1865 a few months, and in 1868 a few weeks, and I don't think I have been there more than a day or two at a time since, and then I stopped with friends, although my home is always there furnished and ready for me, a family who lives in the back part taking care of it."

"Will you not say old friends and acquaintances of yours in Galena now?" "No; not over a half dozen whom I used to know." "Then Galena has changed more than any other town in the United States?" "From the richest and most prosperous town of its size in the West to about the poorest. It used to be the shipping point for all the lead mines in that region; but a railroad was built near there - first from Chicago, then one from Southern Wisconsin, and they kept coming into that section, every time cutting off some of Galena's territory, until its population has been reduced from 18,000 to 6,000 inhabitants, and from a fast mining town to a slow town supported by a mining country."

"Won't it be hard, General, for you to content yourself there?" "No, I think not. When I was in Japan I went up into the mountains and stayed ten days almost alone. It was a novel experience for me, but I enjoyed it. I shall not be able to do more than call Galena my home after a while. It is a good place to live now, as on my income I can live there much cheaper than in a large city, and live better than most of my neighbors there. My income is not large enough for me to live as I would like, and I will have to find something to do after a while. I have

TWO FARMS. Near St. Louis and some real estate in Chicago, which, if I could sell, I would feel better off. My land in Chicago is 31 acres, just outside the western limits of Chicago. Eleven years ago I was offered $1500 an acre for it, and now, after paying taxes on it all that time, I couldn't get $250 an acre for it. But I did better in some other investments, or I could never have had stock in the Adams Express Company, which went up; and I bought right after the fire in Virginia City, Nev. Union and C. and C. stock, when it had gone down from $700 a share to $130, and made $50,000 or $60,000 there."

"Does Mrs. Grant like to live in Galena?" "Oh, yes; Galena is a good town, with good schools and churches." "Do you always attend the Methodist Church, General?" "Yes; my father and mother were both Methodists, and I have always preferred that Church."

Mr. Bayard and the Presidency. From an interview in the New York World. "Senator, suppose you were called upon to permit the use of your name as a candidate before the next National Convention, what should you say?" "What I said when the question was put to me previous to the last Convention. I said then to my friends: 'It is all important to carry New York in this campaign. If you believe that I can carry the State of New York more certainly than any other who may be named, you may use my name of course, but it is your duty to go for the man who, in your judgment, strongest in that State; that,' I added the Senator, 'is my position to-day.' The convention of 1876 chose Mr. Tilden, and Mr. Tilden, despite all the prejudices against him, did carry the State of New York and was elected President of the United States. At the next convention, if my friends should think that with me they are more likely to achieve success than with any other man, I ought not to refuse, and will not refuse, to be a candidate. I have never sought office and never shall; neither have I intended to decline office. I have never spent any money to obtain office, I never shall, I think I may say without vanity that I have the confidence of my people, Republicans as well as Democrats. I know that men of my own party have given me credit for doing according to my honest conviction of what was right with no bias in favor of any section. I have tried to take the broad ground that the good of the whole country should be studied, and not the interest of any particular locality."

Two Glasses of the Prince Imperial. We have two recollections of this unfortunate Prince, to which his cruel fate has given a pathetic significance. One was the opening of the Legislative body in the year 1866, when the Emperor first associated his son with him officially. The splendid Throne Room of the Louvre was crowded with the most brilliant company of Christendom, and the great officers of state, of the army, and of the imperial household. The Emperor entered and took his seat on the raised dais; at his left sat the Prince Napoleon Jerome; and in an episcopal robe of violet silk the young and Apollo-like ecclesiastic, since Cardinal Bonaparte, son of the Prince of Canino; while on his right sat the little Prince, then ten years of age - as sweet and gentle a child as ever delighted a mother's heart. A year or two afterward, on the reserved terrace of the Tuileries, we saw two boys playing with their telescopes and keenly enjoying the air and the exercise of the imperial household. The Emperor entered and took his seat on the raised dais; at his left sat the Prince Napoleon Jerome; and in an episcopal robe of violet silk the young and Apollo-like ecclesiastic, since Cardinal Bonaparte, son of the Prince of Canino; while on his right sat the little Prince, then ten years of age - as sweet and gentle a child as ever delighted a mother's heart. A year or two afterward, on the reserved terrace of the Tuileries, we saw two boys playing with their telescopes and keenly enjoying the air and the exercise of the imperial household. The Emperor entered and took his seat on the raised dais; at his left sat the Prince Napoleon Jerome; and in an episcopal robe of violet silk the young and Apollo-like ecclesiastic, since Cardinal Bonaparte, son of the Prince of Canino; while on his right sat the little Prince, then ten years of age - as sweet and gentle a child as ever delighted a mother's heart. A year or two afterward, on the reserved terrace of the Tuileries, we saw two boys playing with their telescopes and keenly enjoying the air and the exercise of the imperial household.

Senator Bayard's candidacy is advocated by the four German daily newspapers of St. Louis, every one of the four advocating a radically different class.

TERMS - Payable invariably in advance. Table with columns for Advertiser, Copy, and various rates for different durations.

Regular advertising payable quarterly, as do transient advertising payable in advance. Special Notices are 50 per cent. more than regular advertising.

EVS-ANGELICAL CORNER.

Eve's first outfit was a fall costume. Important if true - a wife. - Saturday Night. It is said a French lady with a scalded arm inaugurated long gloves.

Plain standing collars, with crushed corners and half shaped cuffs after the prevailing style is linen. It is predicted that plain velvet cloaks, such as were worn fifteen years ago, are to be fashionable during the winter.

A new style of dress pocket is out in square cornered shape and attached to the edge of the basque, where it hangs like a bag. There is quite a mania for silk embroidery on lace, or very thin organza, and the effect is soft, rich and becoming to almost every complexion.

The favorite stone of the season is the ruby, of which the best jewelers can hardly find enough to satisfy the demand, and the garnet is also in high favor. A Fairfield dealer recently found 17 pins in a woman's mouth, and was astonished to learn that she never removed one except to use it, not even when she ate and slept.

Ribbons with feathered edges are revived this season after years of disuse. Another old fashion revived again are colored velvet round hats. Felt is popular for common wear, but plush or velvet is used in dress hats.

Fattening is becoming fashionable for bordering fancy pockets and neck-korchiefs, and also to use for the wrist of sleeves to match. The handsomest is about an eight of a yard wide and consists of two rows of fancy weaves.

The male members of the Keokuk bar showed no jealousy when Miss Nannie Smith was admitted to practice. The Judge descended from the bench to shake hands with her; and the lawyers subsequently gave her a banquet.

Shirred trimmings are worn upon costumes of every material that will admit of them. Even cuffs, collars and belts are shirred, and some dresses are composed entirely of shirings and puffings, with possibly only a single flounce around the bottom of the skirt.

"Do keep away from that window," said he. "But I'm not afraid of the lightning," replied she. "Ah, dear," continued the youth, faintly, "little do you realize how attractive you are. Having made this appeal he was able to conduct her to the door."

Grace Greenwood relates as an instance of the extravagance of New England humor, that when a young farmer's wife made her first boy's pants precisely as ample before as behind, the farmer exclaimed: "Goodness, he won't know whether he's going to school or coming home!"

A lady taking tea at a small company being very fond of hot rolls, was asked to have another. "Really, I cannot," she modestly replied; "I don't know how many I have eaten already." "I do," unexpectedly cried a juvenile upstairs whose mother had allowed him a seat at the table. "You have eaten eight; I've been counting."