ON WORN OUT LAND.

The Best Thing to Sow is Peas, Which will Enrich the Soil.

Sow peas on your worn out land. It has been demonstrated beyond question that peas will enrich land more rapidly than any other crop. Director Emery of the Montana experiment station made a trial of peas on a ten-acre tract of land and cheerfully endorses this statement. The land had been cropped in grain for a dozen or more years and was so worn out that oats would not grow a foot high upon it. The crop of peas were sown through a seed drill. The peas came up well and during the season were irrigated twice. They grew to a good height and were in bloom when a wind storm laid them down. A week later it was noticed that the pea field had risen up and soon after a second wind storm again flattened them to the ground. Supposing that the crop would have no further attention was given it until harvest time, when it was decided to make the best of the job of harvesting. A mowing machine was used and when the work got under way it was learned that the pea straws had not straightened up as was supposed, but had made an extra growth of 18 to 20 inches after each storm and that the crop was immensely large, some of the straws being seven feet in length. The peas were harvested and yielded 22 bushels per acre. The following season a crop of barley was raised upon the land which averaged with other barley crops. The barley crop was followed by peas which grew rank and yielded 33 bushels per acre. Rocky Mountain Husbandman.

The Babcock flour mill at Billings will be enlarged to a capacity of 75 barrels to 125 barrels per day.

No Place for an American.

The following letter from Hon. Granville Stuart, head of the United States legation at Montevideo, Uruguay, to J. B. Armour of this place, dated March 27, 1897, was received this week:

"DEAR SIR:—Yours of January 2d to hand, and in reply will say that this is no country for an American. No chance for employment, unless you speak Spanish, and even then you must compete with labor about like the Chinese. It is a good cattle country, but as the land is all owned by somebody and is held at a high price, a poor man stands no show. Cowboys get from $5 to $8 per month and live like coyotes. Government offers no inducements to emigrants, but it taxes them heavily on all they have. There is absolutely no show for a laboring man here, and don't you leave Montana to come to any part of South America, unless with some moneyed outfit that pays you wages from the time you start and will give you steady employment. Yours truly, 'GRANVILLE STUART.'

A Female Miner. Midway between West Centerville and the Big Butte is a mine being operated by a man who has his wife as a partner in its operation. Day in and day out during the last month, be the weather foul or fair, the man and his wife trudged each morning from their home in Centerville with lunch buckets in hand to the Armstrong loist to the mine and when the bucket of dirt is filled hoists it to the surface like a little man. Curious people who have trespassed upon her mining domain and who have watched her with interest, say that she is quite handy as a top land and a quartz sharp of no mean ability. She evidently relishes the work and goes about it as if it were nothing uncommon for a woman to be engaged in. May she strike it rich.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure. Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assured the food against all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York.

Arbor Day. Governor Smith on Tuesday, April 13, issued the following proclamation: "The legislative assembly of Montana, recognizing the fitness and necessity of encouraging among our people the proper cultivation of trees, vines and shrubs, has set apart a day in each year to be known as Arbor Day, and directed the executive to make a proclamation of the same."

The morning train from Butte now arrives at Deer Lodge at 9 o'clock instead of 11; returning from Garrison at 11 a. m. instead of 1:20 p. m. The finest line of family groceries are to be obtained at W. W. Higgins. There is nothing kept in stock that is not first class. Specially made of flour. Thos. F. Ward and Danville Welch, who have been connected with the Golden Sceptre company at Quigley for some time past, arrived in Deer Lodge Sunday last. Don't worry about your health. Keep your blood pure by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and you need not fear the grip, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia or typhoid fever. H. H. Zeno, H. A. Smurr, Jack Hitz, R. B. Maxwell and Joe Whitworth went up to Zosel camp last Sunday. They report everything lively in the rich little camp. Mrs. O. J. Butler and children have returned from a visit to Mrs. Butler's parents in Ellensburg, Wash., and are occupying J. H. Williams' residence in Larabee's addition. Miss Bessie Robbins, who with her parents resided in this city for several years, was married on Sunday last at Corvallis to Miles Bonney, editor of the Hamilton News. The Columbia Mercantile company was recently incorporated by A. B. Brown, Edward Schrankow and D. H. Morgan, and the latter gentleman will have charge of the store at Coloma. J. F. Hundley, the popular railroad man at Garrison, was in the city Tuesday evening. Mr. Hundley expects to take final leave of Montana in a few days. He goes to the coast country. Deputy Sheriff Gleason came down from Anaconda Wednesday evening, having in charge an old gentleman who has been sick for some time. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital. At the recent meeting in Miles City of the Montana Stockgrowers' association, Conrad Kohrs and N. J. Bielenberg were chosen members of the executive committee for Deer Lodge county. Judge Emmerson has returned to Deer Lodge to reside. He lived too long in the Flower City to become reconciled to Anaconda, although the judge says Anaconda is a "pretty smart town."

JUST DOUBLE When a house is painted, it is safe to estimate that a value has been added to it which is never lost and sometimes more than double the cost of painting. How About Your House? Multiply the distance around it by the average height, divide by 200. This gives the required number of gallons of our strictly pure white lead and boiled linseed oil ready-mixed paint. This Paint Costs $1.75 per Gallon, Adamant Barn Paint $1 per Gallon, Mineral Roof Paint $1 per Gallon. Come in and get sample cards and study color effects. The trouble is slight and the cost nothing. HOUSECLEANING Gives you enough bother without worrying about what color to put on the walls or what it will cost. To save this worry simply call at our store and examine the sample cards that show the beautiful tints and combinations of LION WALL FINISH That will settle the question—the price will settle the other half. One lb. package covers 30 square feet of wall surface and cost 50 cents. You May Not Be Able To buy furniture, but you are undoubtedly able to buy enough varnish stain or enamel paint to make your old furniture look like new. A dollar or two expended for these paints will make a wonderful difference in the looks of these things. For Six Bits You can make a new huzzar of the old one, by using Detroit Carriage Paints. No rubbing, no waxing, easy applied, quickly dried. Paint one day, shine out the next. Popular, reliable, convenient, cheap. Deer Lodge Drug Co.

Will Fisher passed through Deer Lodge today on his way to Fort Benton.

Parties from Butte went up to Zosel today to look at some properties, with a view of leasing. Mayor Conley has been quite ill for some days past, but at last accounts was considerably improved. The owners of the Argus, in the Zosel district, are making arrangements to begin work on that property. Ranchmen and others will please bear in mind that George Cockrell is selling wagons, buggies, harness and all kinds of farm machinery and implements lower than any other house in this section of the country. 49-1/2 The bids for grading the new Gaylord and Ruby valley railroad between Whitehall and Twin Bridges will be opened at the former place on May 1st. It is now reported in Twin Bridges that the terminus of the new road will remain in that place this year only. According to the Mining and Scientific Press, in the case of co-owners advertised as delinquent, or served personally with notice of delinquency, they have from the time of the personal service 90 days in which to pay up, and in case of publication of notice, 90 days from the last day of publication. As the notice must be published 90 days, this gives 180 days from the time of the commencement of the publication of the notice. Death of Peter Larsen. Sam Beaumont today received the following letter from Johnny Quinlan, announcing the death of Peter Larsen: FORSYTH, MONTANA, April 29, 1897. Samuel Beaumont, Deer Lodge, Montana: DEAR SIR:—With sorrow I send you an item from the Forsyth Times concerning the death of our friend Peter Larsen. He passed away yesterday at 1 p. m. Please notify his friends in Deer Lodge, and oblige, JOHN QUINLAN. "DEATH OF PETER LARSEN." "The many friends of Peter Larsen were surprised to hear of his death yesterday. Mr. Larsen had been sick for several weeks with influenza, which resulted in pneumonia. Mr. Larsen was born in Denmark, and was 51 years old. The funeral services will be held at the house today at 1 o'clock." Mr. Larsen came to Deer Lodge valley in 1876; lived on and owned the Davis & Williams ranch, between here and Garrison, and left here some 12 or 13 years ago, taking with him a large herd of cattle to Forsyth, where he has since lived. GOWNS FOR GROWING GIRLS. Difficulties of the Dress Problem as Applied to Maids of Awkward Age. The growing girl, perhaps, the hardest of all to cater to in the matter of dress. She is neither the little girl nor the young lady, and unless she has grown up tall and willowy, with a certain style of her own, she usually is inclined to come down shape at all, with her waist line coming dangerously near her armpits. The slender girl may wear big plaids, checks and heavy ruffled effects, while her sister, inclined to stoutness, must content herself with stripes and plain, smooth surfaced effects. It is much easier to gown becomingly the slightly proportioned girl than the stout one, and, paradoxical as it may sound, the stout girl has more need of fluffy effects in her gown than her slim sister. While there seems to be very little that is new and original in children's clothes, yet they keep the pace with fashion and take on a smart style quite consistent with the age and season. Skirts with straight, full breadths and no gores at all are not quite so popular as they were, but are still worn by very small girls, and are employed in making up the new large plaids for older girls. Plain silk and wool materials are very much used for gowns for girls of all ages, and, where the colors are quite striking, are relieved by trimmings of black velvet ribbon, or yoke and belt of plain cloth edged with braid. The finely mixed, light weight wool goods make good, serviceable spring dresses for every day wear, and black braiding on bands and gores of some bright, plain cloth is their usual trimming. The coming summer will see a greater variety of wash dresses for girls than we have had in a long time. Plain white and colored plaid, also figured ones, will be much worn, and thin, white materials combined with bright colored ribbons will be much liked by the children and misses, with sheer Persian lawn as one of the most popular on account of its wearing qualities. All this and washable silks, when the fabrics used are other than pines and Holland linen, are made with full, straight breadths skirts, carrying the fullness well to the back, where it is gathered into the waistband. Woman's Home Companion. Amplement Settings. Dresses for strippers are a boon to careful housewives. Lunch cups and trays in decorated Dresden china continue to please. Silver gift and colored enamel are affording generous effects in luncheon, dessert and coffee spoons. An attractive addition to the furnishings for a lady's boudoir and library to prove popular is the sterling silver postal scale. There is a demand for cut glass dishes in small sizes and odd shapes for holding butter balls, olives, salted almonds and bonbons.

CURRENT TOPICS.

Owners of cattle in the Jefferson valley, Ruby valley, Big Hole valley and Beaverhead valley and tributary ranges have organized the Southern Montana Stock Association. Gov. Smith has pardoned Patrick J. Mason, convicted of blowing up a house in Missoula with dynamite on Feb. 13, 1894, and sentenced in September of that year to 14 years in the penitentiary. Last week a sheepman in this vicinity closed a deal with A. W. Stoddard for the sale of his wool clip this year at 10 cents per pound, delivered free at Great Falls in June. The clip will amount to about 7,000 pounds. Mr. Stoddard paid $150 down. This looks very encouraging for wool prices the coming season.—Lewistown Argus. Snow is rapidly disappearing from the higher hills, and the fall-ender, who is always looking for work and praying to God that he won't find it, is correspondingly depressed. With the disappearing snow also disappears the last vestige of excuse for his perilous inactivity; the possibilities of these contiguous mineral meads call him to work, and he is sad—very sad.—Sheridan Paper. We learn that 4,000 head of mutton, driven to the Benton stockyards for shipment by Wallace Taylor of Choteau, were purchased by J. B. Long of Sycamore, Ill., at the handsome figure of $3.75 per head. They were a fancy bunch of three and four-year olds wethers, the pick of an outfit of several thousand head; they had been carefully fed all winter and were in excellent condition. It was one of the finest bunches of mutton in the state, and consequently commanded the top notch of the market.—River Press. A recent dispatch from Lewistown, Idaho, says Ike Brandon, a horse buyer for the Japan market, has an appointment to come to Lewistown next week to buy two carloads of horses. This buyer has made two shipments to that market and will ship 800 horses from Seattle May 15. This stock is intended for public works in Japan. Only good young horses of 1200 pounds are available. There seems to be no limit to the demand for strictly first class workhorses. The price averages $200 a span. It is necessary that the horses be perfectly gentle and well trained to harness. According to a Washington correspondent of the Times Herald, Senator Isham G. Harris looks like a typical bureaucrat, has a supply of oaths large enough to furnish out "our army in Flanders," keeps himself pickled in Bourbon whiskey, is an adept in poker, and immoveable in his devotion to free silver. Yet despite all these peculiarities, and despite his age—which hovers no one knows exactly where, between 80 and 100—he is one of the most forceful leaders of his party, makes himself extremely useful in committee work, and some times allows his secretary to write a speech for him and put it in the Congressional Record, though he seldom delivers one in the senate. He carries most of his points in the committees by what is usually called "bulldozing," and by the same method—applied to the heads of departments, since he scorns to deal with inferiors—he has succeeded far beyond most of his colleagues in securing snag appointments for his friends. He is, as a statesman, both antique and unique. He was governor of Tennessee when the Union forces took possession of Nashville, and disappeared with $60,000 in gold belonging to the school fund of the state. He took it with him to Mexico, where he nearly starved, but he never used a dollar of the money. Meanwhile, Parson Brownlow, the Union governor, had put a price on Harris' head. After the war, Harris returned and walked into Brownlow's office where the latter lay on a sofa near to death's door. "Hello, Harris," said Brownlow. "Hello, Brownlow," said Harris. "Where's that $60,000?" queried the Union governor. "Here it is," said the confederate, laying the money on the table. "I was determined you'd Yankee shouldn't get it." "All right," said Brownlow, as turning his face to the wall, he went to sleep. Any young lady or gentleman desiring to take a business course in a commercial college can secure a scholarship on very reasonable terms at this office. The Englehorn Business College of Helena is first class in every respect, and frequently places can be found in good private families where pupils can exchange light services for board and room before and after regular school hours, thereby reducing their expenses to a minimum. Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair. DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER MOST PERFECT MADE. A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant. 40 Years the Standard.

ONLY SEVEN CHIEF JUSTICES.

One High Office in the United States that Few Men Have Held. The office of chief justice of the supreme court of the United States was established by the constitution concurrently with the office of president, but while the presidency has been open to all native-born citizens above the age of 35, the office of chief justice of the supreme court, bestowed usually upon men of mature, if not advanced, years, has been held in fact by seven persons only since the foundation of the government. There have been more than three times as many presidents. The office of chief justice has been filled as follows: John Jay of New York, appointed by President Washington, resigned after having served six years. John Ellsworth of Connecticut, appointed by President Washington, resigned after having served six years. John Marshall of Virginia, appointed by President John Adams, died in office after 34 years of service. Roger B. Taney of Maryland, appointed by President Jackson, died in office after 28 years of service. Salmon P. Chase of Ohio, appointed by President Lincoln, died in office after nine years of service. Morrison B. Waite of Ohio, appointed by President Grant, served 15 years. Melville W. Fuller of Illinois, appointed by President Cleveland in 1888, and is the present incumbent. In addition to the chief justices who have served several men have been nominated for the office, but rejected by the senate, which has confirmatory power. The office of chief justice is by many citizens more highly coveted than that of the presidency. The labor is less, the responsibility much smaller, the tenure longer and the honor an exalted one. Matter of Pardons. Governor Smith has made a good start in the matter of pardons by refusing to extend executive clemency to the murderer Jackson, serving sentence for a crime committed in Marysville. There has been too much maudlin sympathy extended to criminals in Montana. This is not only true in the trials of criminal cases, where it is certain that prisoners have had the advantage of every technicality that could be thrown around them by shrewd counsel, but it has been too often urged successfully in pardons to those whose crimes have been of such a nature that sympathetic jurors or technicalities could not save them from punishment. The laws are made as a deterrent of wrongdoing, and when not enforced fall of the purpose for which they are framed. And one of the most potent factors in rendering laws ineffectual in the past has been the failure to enforce verdicts of juries reached after a fair and impartial trial. The state is therefore to be congratulated that Governor Smith has given indications of his purpose to let the laws take their course and not interfere with the work of the courts, except where new evidence clearly demonstrates that persons have been wrongfully convicted.—Livingston Enterprise.

Kelsey, former pastor of the Congregational church in this place, states that he has just received a unanimous call from the Central Congregational church of Toledo, O., a large and flourishing organization. The probability is that Mr. Kelsey will accept. He writes, "I find that I have too much of the spirit of a pastor in me to settle down and make botany my major instead of my minor." Mr. Kelsey's many Helena friends will rejoice in this recognition of his pastoral qualifications.—Independent. $100 Reward $100. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one diseased disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J.
