General Alger has disposed of over 100 square miles of timber land he owned in Canada because, as he explains, he has been "frozen out" of the timber business there by reason of the retaliatory legislation of the Canadians against our tariff laws.

It seems almost impossible to conceive the average citizen that the inexorable commercial law is that a man will get just what he pays for; that cheap things are cheap things in fact as well as in name. This craze for cheapness is responsible for a large percent of the iniquitous system of adulteration which permeates so many of our manufactured products.

"What Has Become of Hell?" is the startling question which heads an article by the Rev. G. W. Shin in the June number of the North American Review. The question was suggested to the writer by the fact that while the belief in hell, as a place of confinement, has been held by christian people from the beginning of christianity, we now hear very little about it except in the profanity of the day.

Dr. David Ward, the richest man in Michigan, and he who was known as the David Harum of that state, died at his summer home at Orchard Lake, 30 miles from Detroit. His fortune is estimated at from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000. He made nearly all of this vast pile of wealth out of timber lands.

The Place For the Jersey. "As a good deal of modern dairying is becoming specialized it may be said that we will soon have special breeds for certain lines of dairying," says E. P. Smith in the American Cultivator. In a sense the Jersey breed represents just such a specialty, and she can do her best only when in her proper place.

Dr. Hinz, in the Deutsche Aertze-Zeitung, says there are three kinds of poison in tobacco smoke—nicotine, that which is obtained by the slow ash formation; pyridine, and carbonic oxide. Carbonic oxide is always easily shown to be present in tobacco smoke. Its percentage, depending upon the volume of the smoke gas, varies between .6 and 7.6. The variations depend upon the rapidity of the ash formation and the quantity of the atmospheric air drawn in or the lung air blown out.

Tenant Farming Increasing. A recent circular from the census department says: "Another problem of great importance is the increase of tenancy, as opposed to the ownership of real property. From 1880 to 1890 the number of farm tenants in the United States increased at least 38 per cent. This increase was general, but greater in the South Atlantic and South Central divisions of the United States than in other parts of the country.

R. W. TIRRILL Is Lending Money as cheap as any person or Corporation. The value of skim milk for feeding purposes was demonstrated in a unique manner by a Col. farmer who bought a bunch of pigs at 45c per pound. He fed them nearly two months on skim milk alone and sold them for 45c per pound. The gain which they made showed the value of skim milk to be 25c per 100 pounds. Another lot was bought, fed on the same way, only in addition to skim milk they received some middlings. After deducting the price of the middlings the feeding value of the skim milk was shown to be 27c per 100 pounds.

The Frog and the Judge. "I had been living alongside of Silver Lake for 15 years," said the judge, "before I concluded to go fishing. I suppose I had seen five carloads of fish taken out of the lake during those years, and so I anticipated a great catch when I got around to it. One day I got out look and line and set off in my boat. It was right after dinner and I let the boat go drifting. The hook was baited with a frog for bass and I distinctly remember of giving frog and hook a whirl and a cast. Then of course I waited for a bite."

David City, Neb., April 1, 1900. Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to Grain-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the doctor said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use Grain-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it. Yours Truly, Lillie Sochor.

AMERICAN CULTIVATOR. The Jersey breed represents just such a specialty, and she can do her best only when in her proper place. It is a mistake to think that the Jersey is the fancy dairymilk cow and for the wealthy farmer who goes into the business largely for the pleasure of it. Likewise it is far from the truth to say that the Jersey is suited to any dairy. The animal is a practical and useful one on every dairy where good food, good care and scientific treatment are observed. This presupposes an intelligent knowledge of the needs of this particular breed. The animal is not a dairy or rough one, and it will not stand neglect and abuse. Take a fine corn breaking Jersey milk and turn her out to find a living on rough pasture, and she will grow thin and cadaverous and gradually decrease her yield of rich milk. She is not adapted to such a life. Neither will she stand exposure to rough climate in any kind of weather. She needs more protection and care. We have cows that will endure any kind of rough usage, food and weather and still seem to thrive. They are suited to prairie life, to farms where little attention is paid to modern, careful methods of dairying. But if a man has any enough stock to occupy his time so that he can give all the attention needed to each animal the Jersey will probably give him better returns than any other breed.

Fodder Corn and Pumpkins. The great reliance in fall dairying is fodder corn, but the unfortunate way in which it is often produced limits its usefulness. To save the labor of cultivating it, is, on many farms, sown broadcast and then cut and fed when only partly grown. Corn fodder of this character is not even as good as grass for milk cows, nor is it capable of making good ensilage. The care should be developed under thorough cultivation, growing not too close together, and should not be cut for feed until after they have tasseled and silked out. To make fall dairying profitable, after one possesses cows of the right character, keep them out of the meadows and feed them as an auxiliary to pasture plenty of first-class, fully-developed fodder corn.

A Painted Discoverer. "It was about the witching hour," said the suburbanite. "I had left the station some distance behind me and was on my way up the road toward home. I had got comfortably cool by that time, and the charming influence of the night breeze possessed me and made me feel at peace with all the world. Nor did the fact that I and my new suit had been a hit with the friends I had been visiting detract from the fullness of my self-satisfaction. "All went well until I came to a street crossing my road. At the corner was a street lamp, which from some cause was not lit, and from this lamp fluttered what seemed to be a handkerchief. "You know I am a little bit near sighted."

ANDERS CENTRAL PHARMACY & PHILIPP. Good Dressers. naturally insist upon having their clothes made by a tailor who is master of his art. In its outlines a garment should harmonize perfectly with the form of the wearer. Ready-made misfits and sloppy tailoring are miles away from the right dress point. Don't masquerade in togs that wear the look of having been put on by mistake but come to us for what you ought to wear.
