The grocery firm of Wells & Eldridge has dissolved, Mr. Eldridge retiring. The business will be continued by Mr. Wells. We are not advised as to what Mr. Eldridge's plans are for the future, but as he is an active business man, we opine that he will not remain idle long.

We failed to note last week, the removal of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hanna, of Scotch Grove, to their new home near Manchester. Mr. Hanna has lived in Scotch Grove for a good many years and will be greatly missed by the people in that vicinity. The Manchester people will find Mr. and Mrs. Hanna excellent citizens.—Monticello Express.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Carr arrived home yesterday afternoon from Des Moines. We are informed that Mr. Carr will engage in the practice of law in Manchester, with offices over the Hutchinson bank. Hubert has the ability to make a first-class disciple of Blackstone, and he will doubtless meet with much success in his chosen profession. He will have the best wishes of a host of friends.—Delaware Co. News.

The fourth annual State Conference of Charities and Correction will be held at Red Oak, on the 2d, 3d, 4th, and 5th days of April. The object of the conference is stated to be, "to develop ideas of the problems of charity and correction; to examine existing methods of poor relief, condition of lock-ups, jails and police stations, and consider possible improvements for the care of the unfortunate, the infirm and the criminal.

The many Dyersville friends of Fred Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arnold, of this city, will learn with pleasure that that gentleman has been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant of the United States cavalry. Mr. Arnold has been in the Philippines fighting the Filipinos nearly two years and during that time has shown great ability as a dashing fighter. The war department kept posted on these facts, hence Mr. Arnold's promotion.—Dyersville News-Letter.

Many of our readers, says the Greeley Home Press, have been aware that there was a saw mill in our neighborhood, but few knew how large an establishment it really was. Mr. Wm. Hockaday informed us yesterday that he kept, steadily employed, between eighteen and twenty-five men at his mill which is located five miles north east of town, where he turns out a large amount daily of hardwood lumber, railroad ties and cord wood, all of which Mr. Hockaday brings here and finds a ready market. He has established a yard here and has made this headquarters and will furnish any of his products on short notice and in any quantity. This industry gives employment to these men the year round, and at good wages thus benefiting everybody who is in touch.

The Manchester basketball team played the Independence Y. M. C. A. team last Friday evening at Independence and were beaten by a score of 19 to 14. Those who witnessed the game say it was a good one and devoid of the objectionable features that often creep into these contests. Our boys say they were fairly beaten. Each team has now one victory to its credit and the "rubber" will be played next Friday evening at the Central Opera House in this city. It will be a good game and the attendance should be large.

In this issue will be found the announcement of L. Matthews as a candidate for re-nomination to the office of treasurer of Delaware county. Mr. Matthews resided on a farm near here from 1864 to 1877 when he moved to a farm near Greeley where he resided until he was elected treasurer four years ago. There is scarcely a man in the county who is not personally acquainted with him and his record as treasurer is one which any man might well be proud of. During his two terms of four years he has proved to be an excellent collector of the county's dues and in such a gentlemanly manner as to make his friends. He has retined the delinquent tax list of about $1500 left by his predecessor to about $800 which is an excellent record. If Mr. Matthews should receive the nomination again it is assurance sufficient that the office will be conducted in the same business like manner in the future that it has been in the past.—Earlville Phoenix.

The indications are that there will be more new buildings erected in Manchester and the country tributary to it, this year, than there has been in any one season for many years. Anticipating this the reliable Hollister Lumber Co. has made preparations to meet the demand. The hint conveyed by the illustration in their adv. showing old Father time with his scythe and hour glass, may well be heeded by those contemplating building.

Atkins & Chapel, who succeeded Torey & Jones in the furniture business a couple of weeks ago, have sold out to D. H. Finch and Claire Lillibridge, who will continue the business under the firm name of Finch & Lillibridge. Mr. Finch is too well known as a citizen and business man to need an introduction in this community. The junior member of the new firm is a young man just entering upon a business career. He is a graduate of a commercial college, and if we mistake not, Claire will soon be numbered among the popular business men of this city.

Mrs. Jacob Burbridge died last Saturday at her home one and one-half miles south of Greeley. She had been suffering from an internal trouble for the past year and the best of care and medical aid proved of no avail. The maiden name of Mrs. Burbridge was Mary Mosier and lived prior to her marriage with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Mosier in Richland township. She was a woman whose happy manner and disposition won for her many friends who will deeply mourn the loss. She is survived by her husband. The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at Greeley.

The majority of the "men with a story" (vagrants) are frauds. The expression is often heard, however, "Oh, well, help them anyway! It is better to help many frauds than to let one genuine case suffer." That argument is all right provided there are any genuine cases? There is on record a statement of the late Doctor John Hall that in all the years of his experience in New York City he had never found one. Certainly of the two hundred strangers who have come to me during the past year not one was worthy of any help of the kind asked for.—Rev. David M. Steel, in the April Ladies' Home Journal.

The country roads are in very bad shape on account of the mud.

We call attention to the notice in another column to water patrons to pay up before the water is shut off.

About twenty basket ball rosters accompanied the Manchester team to Independence last Friday evening.

Geo. Krapp, who resides near Dyersville was a pleasant caller at this office last Monday.

A small brown grip was lost Saturday evening between this city and the farm of H. V. Williams in Richland township. The finder will kindly leave it at this office.

We are in receipt of a communication from A. M. Sherwood written at Biloxi, Miss., where he and Mrs. Sherwood have been spending the winter. He states that they expect to start for home about April 1st. On their way home they will make short stops at Vicksburg, St. Louis, Oshkosh and Janesville and expect to arrive in Manchester about April 15th.

The city election held last Monday passed off very quietly. The vote was light in all the wards and, there being no independent candidates, the nominees of the caucuses were elected without opposition. There were sixty-five votes cast in the first ward, thirty-six in the second, twenty-seven in the third. The newly elected city officers are Mayor—S. A. Steadman, City Solicitor—W. H. Norris, City Treasurer—G. J. Seeds, City Assessor—J. M. Pearce, Alderman, 1st ward—L. M. Davis, Alderman, 2nd ward—W. D. Hoyt, Alderman, 3rd ward—G. W. Storey and Charles Adams. The council met last evening and the new members were sworn in.

Louis Wolf.

By the death of Louis Wolf this city lost one of its pioneer business men.

He was born in Gotty, Prussia on June 6th, 1841, and at the age of twenty three years, he with his brother Adolph, came to this city and engaged in the clothing and merchant tailoring business under the firm name of L. & A. Wolf. Twenty years later they disposed of their stock of ready made clothing but continued in merchant tailoring until in the early part of last year, when they sold out to Messrs. Charles & Sebeck, and retired from business.

By close attention to business, industry, economy and fair dealing, they accumulated sufficient of this world's goods to insure them ease and comfort for their remaining years.

But Louis was not long destined to enjoy the wealth he had so justly earned. A few months ago he became ill and his physician pronounced his trouble disease of the heart and advised him to go to a hospital. Acting upon this suggestion he went to Chicago and remained in a hospital there three or four weeks, and no hope of recovery being given him there he returned to this city.

Last Wednesday morning the final summons came and he passed to dream-land rest.

Funeral services were held Friday morning here at the home of M. Van Dusen under the auspices of the Masonic lodge of this city. The remains were then taken to Dubuque, accompanied by Adolph Wolf, Hon. R. W. Tirrill, Sheriff R. W. Fisher, M. F. LeRoy, Frank Anders, Hon. W. H. Norris, R. R. Robinson, W. E. Graham, Henry Haebeler, A. B. Carhart, W. T. Giles, Geo. S. Lister, J. T. Scharies, Ward Lyman, Jay Lewis, A. Hollister, C. O. Torry, B. H. Keller, Seth Brown, Joseph Barkon and Mrs. Caro Sabine, where services were conducted by Rabbi Alguse and the remains laid to rest in the Hebrew cemetery.

The deceased was never married and had no relatives in this county except his brother Adolph of this city.

Wedding Bells.

The rain and mud did not prevent quite a large number of friends and relatives from gathering at the pleasant and commodious home of M. C. Barr of Prairie township to celebrate the marriage of their daughter Sarah, to J. M. Steady of Pike Co., Ill. The parlor was beautifully decorated with ferns, roses and other beautiful flowers. An arch was made over the north windows, all draped with royal purple and white with large bunches of violets. When the clock struck twelve all were assembled, and Rev. Taylor, of Manchester came in followed by the bride and groom who took their places beneath the arch. Rev. Taylor proceeded to perform the ceremony in his usual happy and prepossessing way, then followed the congratulations, which were hearty and rebounded somewhat on Rev. Taylor, who immediately, at fled out to the dining room, where the tables were set in snowy white, and words failed to tell of all the good things thereon for surely it was a prodigal feast, filled in with fun and wit, with many a funny story.

The bride was dressed in royal purple silk serge with a low corsage filled in with white silk, with Marchel Neil roses on her waist and in her hair. She has lived here from childhood and is well known as one of Delaware county's school teachers and is beloved for her many good qualities. The groom is a refined and intellectual gentleman from Ill. having once practiced medicine, but has retired to a large farm and a quiet life. It appears he fully appreciates Delaware county butter and women. They were the recipients of many costly and beautiful presents. Many good wishes follow them to their future home.

A. GUEST.

The Wrong Laddie.

A gentleman on a walk from one of the suburbs of Glasgow happened to call at a farmhouse, where he was readily supplied with a glass of milk. He offered the woman sixpence, but she declined all payment. "I couldn't tak' money for 't," she said in her own proud way.

The gentleman expressed his acknowledgment and went on his way, but at the garden gate he detected a small boy playing. Surely, he thought, this is the lady's son. So he put his hand in his pocket to give him the sixpence, when he heard a shrill voice. "That's na me laddie, sir." Then there was a pause, and the voice afterward rounded, this time directed toward a small boy at the side door. "Gang out, Willie, an speak till the nice gentleman at the gate!"—Liverpool Post.

She Couldn't Eat the Cheese.

He had dining with him in the restaurant of the most elegant and fashionable hotel in town his good old maiden aunt from the rural districts. They had a sumptuous feast, which as it progressed was a series of delightful surprises for the old lady. When they were drinking coffee, the host looked out of the window and noticed it was raining. Turning to the waiter, he said, "I wish you would order me a coupe." Whereupon the maiden aunt raised both her hands in protest, exclaiming: "Don't, Charles, please don't! I couldn't eat another thing. For my word, I'm up to my neck now."—Exchange.

The Eternal Man.

"So you're going to marry the policeman, Bridget?"

"Yes, umm."

"I suppose you'll have the same trouble with him I've had with my husband."

"Shure, what's that, mum?"

"Oh, he won't give up his club."—Yonkers Statesman.

A Good Runner.

"Hello, hello! Is this the gas company's office?"

"Yes, that is it."

"When do the entries for the next race open?"

"We don't know anything about the races. This is the gas office."

"Correct; but I thought you could tell me."

"Why, what do you want to know for?"

"Oh, nothing particular. I have a gas meter I would like to enter, that's all."—Tit-Bits.

Triumph of Thrift.

"The old man seems mightily pleased with himself," said Mr. Grindner's coachman.

"He's been saving all his larder money for three months, and this morning he found he had enough for me to start the kitchen fire with."—Indianapolis Press.
