The sale was effected through the real estate agency of Hubert Carr. Dr. A. B. Tirrell returned last week from Oklahoma. He has a tract of improved real estate there and the object of his trip was to convert into the currency of the realm some of the products raised there. While he speaks highly of that country, he prefers Iowa for a home. A scientist states that five million seven hundred and fifty thousand years from now Old Sol will have icicles on his beard. In fact he will be turned to ice from head to foot. It may be so, but just at this particular time Sol is red hot and the negligible shirt man is much in evidence, and king corn is humping itself to get there before Jack Frost puts in an appearance. Dan Warner now carries quite a lonesome look on his usually cheerful countenance. Mrs. Warner and her grandson, Chester Mueckler left for Dell Rapids yesterday. Chester is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mueckler, of Dell Rapids, and has been staying with his grandparents here for several weeks. Mrs. Warner will be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Mueckler, for about three weeks. Mrs. H. A. Granger entertained a few of her lady friends at a six o'clock tea last Saturday evening, in honor of Mrs. Charles Barrett of Vermillion S. Dakota and Miss Carrie Congar of Los Angeles California. After an elegant repast, music, and conversation most agreeable occupied the remainder of the evening. The musicians who added to the charm of the affair were the Misses Hahn and Beehler. Besides the guests of honor those present were, Mesdames Wm. Barr, G. W. Dunham, Joseph Hutchinson, W. H. Norris, H. W. Tuttle and the Misses Edith Rann, Henrietta Beehler and Katharine Goodell. Last Saturday morning Miss Sarah Clough, whose home is with the Beals Bros near Delhi, saw three tramps in the act of killing some of her uncles pigs. She was at the time the only person besides the trio of hoboos, on the premises. Nothing daunted by the situation, Miss Clough speedily armed herself with a repeating rifle, and surprised the Weary Willies by bringing the gun to her shoulder, and commanding them to throw up their hands, form a line and proceed to Delhi. The command was promptly obeyed, and with hands elevated, in single file the unwilling prisoners marched in front of their captor to Justice Stone's office.

Adam Miller of Thorpe, made a business trip to Farley and Cascade last week. Wm. Porter of Hopkinton was among the welcome callers at this office Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitman departed last Saturday evening for California, Montana where they will remain for several months enjoying the western climate. Kennedy-Mills. Thursday evening, June 27th, 1901, at half past nine o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Mills, No. 115 West Seventh Street, was solemnized the marriage of their youngest daughter, Miss Hattie Gloria Mills with Mr. Robert Ashmore Kennedy, of Manchester, Iowa. Only about twenty-five of the immediate relatives and near friends were present. The guests were received and welcomed by the bride, and at the appointed time she with the man of her choice took the place assigned and were united in holy wedlock, by her pastor, Rev. Richmond A. Smith, of the First Baptist church, who used the impressive ring service. The rooms had been made most attractive under the skilled direction of Miss Brownie Eberhardt and Miss Beth Moreland. The bride was peculiarly sweet and attractive in her gown of white tulle trimmed with white spangled net and ribbon, and carrying a bunch of lilies of the valley. The groom wore the conventional black. Many friends who were not able to witness this pretty home wedding, feel an unusual interest in the affair as the bride has grown to young womanhood in our midst, and has witnessed her acquaintance and gained a sincere regard for her welfare, by her gracious winning personality, and her willingness to give pleasure or render assistance when possible by her sweet voice. For the past two years she has been the leading soprano in the Presbyterian choir, but always has responded to all outside demands. Dr. Kennedy is a graduate from the dental department of the University of Pennsylvania. A number of valuable gifts were presented to the bride and groom. They left on the night train for Davenport. Dr. Kennedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Kennedy, and sister, Miss Lois of Manchester, were present at the nuptials, also Messrs. C. L. and F. N. Mills, of Waterloo, cousins of the bride, H. A. Morey, of Waverly, Miss May Call and Mr. J. A. Rosgen, of Waterloo, Mrs. F. D. Renssion, of Des Moines. After congratulations, a bountiful supper was served by Mrs. F. D. Renssion, Miss Eberhardt and Miss Moreland dressed in pink and white, and carrying pink roses.—Cedar Falls Gazette. Manchester a Railroad Center. Our former townman, Capt. J. F. Merry, is helping in every way possible to make Manchester's 4th of July celebration a decided success. He has had thousands of bills circulated in which, under the above caption, the following complimentary paragraph appears: "There may be other towns the size of Manchester that in morals and patriotism, in intelligence and enterprise of its citizens excels the Dairy City, but if so, the writer of this article cannot locate them. Other towns may excel in some particular, but for an all around, delightful home-town, Manchester is not and cannot be surpassed. And when Manchester undertakes a celebration, everybody knows it means a high order of intelligence and patriotic entertainment, and on this, the first Fourth of July of the new century when Manchester celebrates the incoming of a new railroad, and the fact that hereafter it will appear on the map as a railroad center, it is expected that money will be freely used in elaborate decoration, in furnishing all kinds of legitimate entertainment, in providing excellent music, and an oration commensurate with the importance of the occasion. No one who visits Manchester will be disappointed. She has had many large and enthusiastic gatherings in the past, but her celebration of July 4th, 1901, will be the crowning and happy event of nearly a half a century of patriotic and successful history. Gladly we take off our hat and exclaim, all hail to plucky Manchester." These kind words show that notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Merry has sold all of his Manchester property, and become a resident of another city, there is still a warm place in his heart for Manchester and Manchester people. John C. Roney. In the death of John C. Roney, which occurred last Sunday at his home on Butler street, this city loses one of its very best citizens. He was a man of sterling integrity, a devoted husband, kind neighbor and reliable friend. Though a firm and ardent believer in the creed of the church of which he was a member, and a zealous laborer in its vineyard, he accorded to others the same right to their beliefs that he claimed for himself. He had no enemies and all who knew him were his friends. He was born at Bangor, Maine, on November 14th, 1847, and was a resident of this city for the past twenty-five years. In 1884 he was joined in marriage with Miss Joanna M. Tierney, who survives him. The funeral services were held yesterday forenoon at St. Mary's church, in this city, and were largely attended. Solemn, high mass was celebrated with all the pomp and ceremony of the Catholic church. Rev. Father Bernard was celebrant, Rev. Father Murtagh was deacon, and Rev. Father Hanley was sub-deacon. After the mass Rev. J. J. Hanley gave the final absolution and preached the funeral sermon, which was an eloquent tribute to the life and memory of the deceased. He took for his text the words of our Savior, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord for their works do follow them." He showed how the Catholic church honored her dead, especially the magnificence of its ritual, in doing justice to the memory of its devoted and deceased members. In vivid colors he portrayed the loss sustained by the community in the death of Mr. Roney, and his kind words must have been balm for the grief of the loving wife, the fond mother, the sisters, brothers, and hosts of other relatives and friends in attendance. He spoke of Mr. Roney's devotion to his church, his obedience to Telegraphic Matters of Interest to Our Own People. Happenings Throughout the State Recorded for the Benefit of the Readers of This Paper. Clarinda, Ia., June 28.—At the hour when he was to have been married and while the bride and her guests were awaiting his appearance for that eventful hour, the groom committed suicide. During the day Rogers arranged for the minister to perform the ceremony that was to unite him to Miss Inez C. Plank. The wedding was to have taken place at the home of the bride's parents. About twenty of the friends of the young couple, who had been invited, assembled shortly before 6 o'clock, the time set for the wedding. As the hour passed and the groom did not come a messenger was sent to see what was the matter. The joy of the wedding party was turned into grief and consternation when half an hour later the announcement was made that Rogers had taken his life. Instead of going to the home of the bride the young man had shut himself in his room and shot himself. The ball entered the skull just above the ear and passed through the head but it was nearly an hour after the shooting before life was extinct. Rogers three years ago inherited $12,000 from his father. Of this he had spent all but $85. This fact, it is thought, weighed upon him, although he had never shown signs of being depressed. The doctor indicated that he contemplated suicide occurred an hour before the shooting. Rogers asked his sister, Mrs. C. J. Hyllin, with whom he lived, to go to his wedding, but she, being ill, told him she was not able to do so. He then remarked that she would be sorry. This sister, who was in an adjoining room, heard the report of the revolver and ran into Rogers' room to find her brother lying in front of the piano clutching the weapon in his hand. Rogers was born and raised at Clearmont, Mo. SOME MORE STRENUOUSNESS. Farmers' Quarrel of Which an Eight-Year-Old Boy is One Victim. Dayton, Ia., July 1.—As the result of a bitter neighborhood feud, C. D. Guild and his 8-year-old son, Clarence, lie dead, riddled with bullets. The man who did the shooting is Oliver Bricker. Bricker's story is that when he met Guild and his son, Guild drew a revolver and commenced firing, and Bricker was hit three times, all his wounds being slight. The last shot, Bricker claims, was fired by the boy. Bricker, having knocked the revolver from Guild's hands, Bricker then commenced firing, and his brother George came up and fired the first shot into the boy, who held the revolver. The boy fell, and as his father sprang to pick up the pistol Bricker shot and killed him. Theodore S. Parvin Dead.
