Boys and girls should call at Allen & Storey's Clothing Store and get one of the rulers that they advertise they are giving away, before the supply is exhausted. Because of the great reduction made in the prices of the goods mentioned in their advertisement, the D. F. Riddell Co. will sell them at those prices only for cash. James Hogan has purchased the Henry Lawrence lot on Franklin street. The purchase price was $500. Mr. Hogan will immediately commence the erection of a house thereon. Noble Arnold has again embarked in the grocery trade in this city, and now has his neat and commodious store room on the west side of Franklin street well filled with a large stock of fresh groceries and provisions, which, in his announcement in this issue of the Democrat, he invites inspection. The Crop Bulletin for week ending Sept. 16, 1901, says: The past week was cooler than usual, with numerous showers and abundant moisture in all portions of the state, effectually breaking the protracted drought. The heaviest amounts are reported in the northwest and west central districts, but all districts received sufficient rainfall to revive pastures, benefit late potatoes, and put the soil in good condition for plowing and fall seeding. Corn harvesting operations have been retarded by showery weather, but the work is being pushed rapidly as possible in all sections, and a very large amount of forage of the best quality will be secured in the corn fields. The bulk of the crop is now beyond danger of injury by frost, and practically all of it will be well matured with a few more days of warm and dry weather. The crop as a whole is likely to exceed any official estimate yet put forth for this state. The pastures are much benefited, and the potato crop will probably receive some help from the rainfall.

He drives through the country and sells soap worth $5 a box, which sum includes the price of forty yards of carpet, selected from samples which he has in his wagon. He takes the $5, leaves the box of soap, promises to deliver the carpet of the selected sample within a week and drives away. The soap is worth probably 50 cents. It stays with the purchaser. The carpet is worth $15. It stays with the fakir, and has never been delivered to a single victim. Farm families should be on their guard against the new fakir, and against all other fakirs.—Ex. An associated press dispatch from St. Joseph, Mo., yesterday states the following: Twenty years ago there mysteriously disappeared from his home in Manchester, Iowa, Michael Stone, a prominent railway conductor, who was then past 60 years of age. He had a family of grown children and they spent large sums of money in searching for him. He was given up for dead many years ago. The body of Michael Stone lies on a marble slab in an undertaking room here. He died at the poor farm yesterday, where he had been an inmate for two years. He was identified by an accident.—Hokington Leader. By the death of Mrs. J. S. Hunt last Wednesday, this county loses one of its first settlers. She was born in Wayne county, Indiana, October 16, 1818. When seventeen years of age she was married to J. S. Hunt, and with him, in 1841, came to this county and located on a farm near Delaware. Her husband died in 1894 and the following year she came to this city and has since made her home here with her son, George W. Hunt. She was a true wife, an affectionate mother, and a kind neighbor. She is survived by her son, George W. Hunt, and by her brothers, George Whitehead, of Charles City, I. N. Whitehead, of Grand Junction, Colorado, and Rev. J. M. Whitehead, of Topeka, Kansas. He will graduate from the collegiate department of that institution next spring. Arrangements have been made by Secretary Bishop with Cole Bros. of Oneida, for the keeping of teams of people wishing to take the M. & O. from that place to attend the fair here. This will be a great convenience for the people who live in the northern part of the county. During the late drought a Clinton County farmer, according to the Advertiser, commenting on the proposition that there should be prayers for rain, said: "This earth is flat as a pan-cake, and at this season of the year the sledge is turned toward the thunder region. If the rain should come, it would only hit the sledge, and do no good to crops." An exchange says that if a small parrot potato be stuck on the point of a knife used to peel onions, that the pungent odor which the onion emits will be absorbed by the potato and will not effect the eyes. The experiment is worth trying by wealthy people who are able to own a potato. Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman, who live near Thorpe, mourn the loss of their six months old baby whose death occurred last Thursday night about 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Sherman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Mulvaney, in the south part of town. The little one's death was caused from summer complaint. It was buried in the Edgewood cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman were visiting here when the baby was taken sick.—Edgewood Journal. Malven-Davis. Miss Grace E. Malven and Roy B. Davis were united in marriage last Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Malven on east Fayette St., Rev. Tuttle of the Congregational church officiating, the ring ceremony being used. After the faithful words had been pronounced and congratulations given the party which consisted only of relatives of the contracting parties sat down to an elegant repast. Mrs. Davis is a bright and charming young lady. She is a graduate of the high school of this city, and many and sincere are the congratulations of her friends. Mr. Davis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Davis and has for several years been deputy auditor of this county, which office he has in every way shown himself qualified to fill. His friends are numbered by the score, and he is entirely worthy of the talented bride he has selected for a life companion. The Democrat joins with the many friends of the young couple in wishing them a happy and prosperous life. Proclamation. I, S. A. Steadman, Mayor of the city of Manchester, Iowa, hereby announce and proclaim: That in accordance with the proclamation of Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, and Leslie M. Shaw, Governor of the State of Iowa, Thursday, September 19th, 1901, will be observed by the citizens of Manchester as a day of mourning, in view of the dire calamity which has befallen our country in the loss of our beloved President, William McKinley. That I do, therefore, request that on said day all places of business in the city of Manchester be closed from twelve o'clock noon, until the hour of four o'clock P. M., and that the people, so far as possible, assemble at the Methodist Episcopal church at two o'clock P. M. on said day, and join in services in memory of our lamented dead. Done at Manchester, Iowa, September 17, 1901. S. A. STEADMAN, Mayor. McKinley Memorial Services. Last Sunday afternoon memorial services, commemorative of President McKinley, were held in the Central Opera House in this city. The seating capacity of that large auditorium was not sufficient to accommodate all who attended. The meeting was called to order by B. W. Jewell, who acted as master of ceremonies. He requested I. M. Gibson to ask a divine blessing, and that reverend gentleman's prayer was appropriate and patriotic. A choir consisting of Messrs. A. D. Brown, H. L. Rann, E. B. Stiles, M. J. Moran, C. E. Smith, Harry Roe, Alton Dunham, and E. G. Williams, with Harry Toogood at the piano, sang America, in which the audience joined. Short memorial addresses were delivered by Messrs. Geo. W. Dunham, O. E. Huene, E. M. Carr, A. S. Blair, W. H. Norris and H. O. Pratt, and Mrs. W. N. Boynton paid a glowing tribute to Mrs. McKinley. The speeches of Mr. Dunham and Mr. Norris were scholarly productions, delivered with an elegance and grace seldom witnessed on our rostrum. What Judge Blair said was notably replete with common sense, and Rev. H. O. Pratt's address actually rose to the level of classical eloquence. Mr. Huene, who was one of President McKinley's personal comrades during the war of the rebellion, told many interesting things about the dead president's army life. There was a song service of hymns interspersed between the addresses, which was led by the choir and joined in by the audience. Rev. C. A. Highfield pronounced the benediction. Baptist Association.
