Senator Hanna told the Salvation Army that he longed for the power to touch men's hearts, from which the Washington Post infers, that the campaign subscription list will soon be in evidence.

Judge A. H. McVey, of the district court of Polk county, has decided a case of state wide importance. It is to the effect that bankruptcy proceedings do not stop the collection of a judgment for support on an illegitimate child. S. G. Wilson secured a discharge in bankruptcy in the federal court. He claimed that this relieved him of the liability under a $1,000 judgment on account of the cause named, rendered in the state courts. Judge McVey decided that it was not a sufficient defense and an effort will be made to collect the judgment. Of course the question will go to the supreme court.

Lynchers are Murderers.

Every man who participates in the lynching or burning of a negro is a murderer, pure and simple. These are the words of Associate Justice David J. Brewer of the United States Supreme Court, who is going to deliver the annual address before the Iowa State Bar Association at Des Moines on Friday of this week. All persons who aid or assist in lynchings are murderers, and should be indicted and tried as such before some court and jury far removed from the locality of the crime to insure verdicts in accordance with the law and the evidence. If state courts and legislatures are unable to deal with this class of crime, then the general government should legislate on the subject. It is quite evident that new legislation of some kind is needed.

Among the agents of the three general agencies for the harvesting machines in this city, says a Cedar Falls dispatch to the Register and Leader, there is no known shortage of wine, as has been reported from various parts of the country. The International Harvester trust has two general agencies here and the managers look for a brisk demand for tractors later on. George W. Hughes, general agent for the Champion division of the company, although he is an ardent Bryan man and opposed to trusts, is about to be won over, as he says this harvest trust is the greatest thing for the farmers that ever happened. He says the whole cry of scarcity is raised by outside concerns who are trying to boost the price thereby, while the trust is holding prices down to last year's figures. Hughes is selling at proportionately low prices and there is no throat-cutting prices being made by dealers. Mr. Hughes says there are good and bad trusts, the same as church members, and while the farmers are slow to believe it, the combination in this instance was for their benefit as well as for the dealers.

The Harvester Trust may be a good trust now while it has competition, but it is fair to assume judging by the past, that just as soon as it drives out of business all of its competitors which it is striving to and will probably eventually do, it will surely become a bad trust. We know of no exception to the general rule, that trusts are organized to fleece the consumers of its products, and we have no reason to believe that the Harvester Trust was organized for any other purpose than to crush competition and make oceans of money for its promoters. The remedy in cases of this kind, is for consumers to absolutely abstain from buying trust goods. There are cases in which this remedy can not be resorted to because the trust has wiped out all competition, but that has not yet been accomplished by the Harvester Trust and the remedy suggested is applicable.

Mrs. Ellen Wintager.

Again we are called upon to chronicle the passing of one of the early settlers of this county. One who for more than fifty years had continuously resided here. Ellen Miller was born in Bohemia on May 21, 1821. In 1843 she was united in marriage with Charles Wintager, and seven years thereafter they migrated to this county, locating in Richland township where they resided until the death of her husband, about three years ago. Ever since the decease of her husband her home has been with her son Joseph near Masonville, where their demise occurred on the 8th inst. at the ripe age of 82 years, 1 month and 15 days.

Interment was at the Campton cemetery.

Two Storm Nights.

Two fires were the result of last Wednesday night's severe electrical storm. The cavalry of the Duffey house on the West side was struck and only by the timely work of the fire companies was the house saved to its owner. The place is unoccupied. A few minutes later the Quaker Mill building was struck and assistance was telephoned for but fortunately the wind which was blowing strong from the west carried the flames off the building instead of over it and before the assistance asked for arrived, those on the ground had extinguished the fire.

In the storm of this night also much damage was done to the crops in the county and a number of farmers lost their barns and all the contents thereof.

The barn on the Heyer farm near Thorpe—the third one to be struck and burned on that same spot, was totally destroyed. A barn on one of E. N. Hamblin's farms was also burned as was the new stable on the Wm. Ryan farm, northeast of Manchester.

Thursday's storm was more fearful than the one of the previous night, and very few were able to get to sleep, at least until nearly three o'clock. About one o'clock the fire companies were summoned to put out the fire caused by lightning striking the W. O. Somes residence in North Manchester. The fire ladders were drenched to the skin by the rain that literally poured down while they were on duty. The roof was badly burned and Mr. and Mrs. Somes practically lost a considerable share of their house hold belongings, the soaking these things received rendering them valueless.

The Maquoketa overpiled its banks and the water raged almost level over the dam at the foot of Franklin street. The base ball park was a pond and the boat houses along the shore of our classic stream—some of them submerged to their eaves—were wired to convenient trees to keep them from floating down the current. The dry-run was a river of itself and many barns and homes on its banks were filled at least 3 feet full of water. Horses, cows, pigs and poultry were rescued with difficulty and some of our housekeepers will be busy for a week to come washing mud-tinged carpets and scraping slimey mother earth from their furniture. The rain was in the nature of a cloud burst.

Our correspondents tell of other storm news and we have only touched upon a few of the losses sustained in the county. The Luther Sly house on its banks were filled at the same time Wednesday night, though neither burned, and a barn on one of Charley Thorpe's farms and one on the F. K. Smith place near Masonville were totally destroyed Thursday night. The Hoag electric lighting plant was damaged by the rising of the Maquoketa so that a part of our homes and business houses were in darkness Friday night.

An Accident.

News reaches us just we go to press of the collapse of the bridge across the Maquoketa at Dundee this Tuesday morning. A boy named Floyd Larabee was driving across the bridge when it suddenly gave way dropping him and his team to the water below. An oddity about the occurrence is the fact that Floyd's grand parents had a like accident some years ago on the bridge at Forestville. The young man was not hurt.

Tried to Blow Up a Family.

Iron Mountain, Mich., July 13.—An attempt was made to blow up the home of R. T. Miller with dynamite. Judge Miller, his wife and four children were asleep in the house at the time, but were not injured. The house was badly damaged. No cause for the act is known.

DEATH DRAWS AWAY

For a Time from the Stricken Pontiff in the Vatican at Italy's Capital.

DR. LAPPONI SAYS HE IS BETTER

But Warns Against Too Much Optimism—Encouraging Bulletins and a Quiet Day.

Rome, July 13.—(12:20 p. m.)—The condition of the pope has become slightly worse. The dizziness has become pronounced and is accompanied by feebly hallucinations.

Rome, July 13.—(7:00 p. m.)—The pope's condition is becoming worse. Contrary to the arrangement made for a daily reception of three cardinals, none was permitted to enter the sick chamber.

Rome, July 13, 6:45 a. m.—The condition of the pope was stationary during the night. He slept at intervals, but was not entirely tranquil.

Rome, July 13.—At 8 o'clock this evening, the physicians in attendance upon Pope Leo issued the following bulletin: "Nothing noteworthy occurred during the day and the pope's condition is as satisfactory as it was this morning. Pulse, 80, respiration 30, temperature 38.8."

Rome, July 12, 11:20 p. m.—The pope has now been resting easily. For the first time he does not feel any ill effects from his reclining position, and the doctors construe this to mean that there is no renewal of the pleuritic secretion which previously, when the patient was reclining, pressed against the lung.

Rome, July 13.—Pope Leo has lived to see another Sunday, and with the quiet which fell upon Rome came also peace and even progress to the pontiff. Beginning yesterday morning with distinct signs of improvement he maintained this throughout the day. At night Dr. Lapponi made the following important statement in answer to the

CHARGES IT ON RUSSIA

Says the Laws of the Czar Relative to the Jews Are the Cause of Much Suffering.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 13.—John B. Weber, of Buffalo, N. Y., late commissioner of immigration at the port of New York, and chairman of the special commission authorized by congress in 1888 to investigate in Europe the causes inciting immigration to this country, was a speaker before the Jewish Chautauqua, on the subject of the "Status of the Jew in Russia."

In his address Weber charged the Russian restrictive laws with being responsible for the misery and persecution of which people read and hear. He stated that there would be no peace, no substantial relief for the sufferers, until the total disappearance from Russia of either the Jew or the special laws directed against him.

DEADLY BOLT OF LIGHTNING

Strikes a Boat House in Which Men Were Refusing—Kills One.

Washington, July 13.—During a terrific thunderstorm which passed over the city lightning struck a boat-house near the Potomac river in which about a dozen men had taken refuge on a way home from the bathing beach. One man was killed outright, another so badly injured that he may die, and in his usual arm chair, where he was resting from the effects of the bolt. The dead man is Robert B. Smith. Charles Slaughter, colored, was so seriously hurt that he may die.

ST. PETER'S, ROME.

question if he believed that the improvement in the pope's condition could continue: "I believe that if the improvement lasts until July 21 we may not, perhaps, achieve an absolute cure, but we will secure such a general state of health in the patient as will allow our anxiety."

"Better, but Don't Be Too Sanguine."

During the morning the pontiff participated in the celebration of mass. The ceremony was held in the chapel adjoining the sick chamber. The choir connecting the sick room with the chapel was opened so that his boliness might follow the service. Dr. Mazzoni joined his assistant at 8:20 a. m., and after a brief conference issued the most encouraging official bulletin thus far given. Pope Leo took his usual light breakfast. When Dr. Lapponi left the sick room he was almost mobbed by high dignitaries, including several cardinals. Dr. Lapponi addressed them all by saying: "Yes, the pope is better, but I beg you not to exaggerate in optimism, in order to avoid a disillusion later."

Dresses Himself Without Help.

During the afternoon the pope felt strong enough to get up. He rose, dressed himself alone, and went to sit in his usual arm chair, where he remained for some time. Late in the afternoon he received Cardinals Mathieu, Steinhuber, Agliardi and Casali. The pope showed his usual brightness and faculty of mind, and spoke to each without showing any perceptible fatigue. He asked Cardinal Agliardi how he liked the position of vice chancellor of the church, to which he was appointed at the last consistory. Count Curtius, ambassador of Russia in Washington, and from the queen of the Netherlands on the occasion of his presentation of the sum of $1,500,000 to the Netherlands government for a courthouse and library for the use of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague.

Favorable Conditions Maintained.

Later the pontiff took a short nap and slept tranquilly enough, although he seemed to have somewhat more difficulty in breathing. The doctors returned at 7:30 p. m., and issued their evening bulletins gave negative encouragement, simply showing that the favorable conditions of the morning had been maintained.

PREPARING FOR A NEW POPE

Vatican Has Made Up Its Mind That Death Is a Matter of Days.

Whatever may be the outcome the Vatican world has fully made up its mind that the demise of the pope is only a question of days at the most, and probably only of hours. With this being the prevalent view every detail for conducting the affairs of the church during the interregnum and for carrying out the election of Pope Leo's successor is being systematically arranged.
