—Rev. Salisbury of Winthrop was in Manchester Wednesday last.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. Hackbarth of Earlville were last Wednesday visitors with friends here.

—Mrs. Gene Williams is spending a week with relatives and friends in Chicago this week.

—B. W. Grem of Lawrence & Grem spent last Thursday looking after their branch pharmacy at Central City.

—Ed. Simons, Charles Schroeder and Ed. Turner of Earlville were business visitors in Manchester Wednesday.

—The L. O. F. and A. F. and A. M. societies at Colesburg are planning the erection of a new hall this summer.

—Most old men, if they had their lives to live over again, would do as stated in the advertisement of the State Saving Bank.

—Mrs. E. N. Wolcott entertained a few of her mother Mrs. N. W. Wolcott's friends at six o'clock dinner Saturday evening in honor of the lady's birth anniversary.

—The Earlville Phoenix of last week said Miss Julia McGee had closed a very successful term of school at Burr Oak Friday and left Saturday for her home in Cedar Rapids.

—A very interesting letter written by A. S. Coon to M. E. Blair has been kindly lent us by Mr. Blair for publication this week. You will find it on another page of this issue.

—Barney Kreimer of Dyersville formerly one of Delaware County's most substantial citizens, but now living just over the line in Dubuque County, spent a few minutes with us Thursday—a visit we much appreciated.

—The County map being gotten out by the Manchester Press and Democrat has been filled about the boarder with advertising, the business men of every town in the county with the exception of Edgewood being represented thereon.

—Jeffrey M. Allen, a resident of or near Strawberry Point since 1851 and a prominent Odd Fellow of that vicinity died about midnight on Monday of last week. J. Ingram and family of this place attended the funeral services which were held last Wednesday.

—Masonville Enterprise: Fred Richardson of Manchester was a business caller here Tuesday. Miss Julia Stone of Manchester visited at the home of M. Carnody Tuesday. Dr. Lindsay of Manchester, made a professional call to our city Tuesday. Z. E. Goss was a Manchester caller Sunday evening.

—Greeley Home Press: We understand that John Ocker has gone to Denver. Dr. Dittner was in town Tuesday. On Tuesday March 22, 1904, a girl, Mrs. Chas. Correll went to Manchester, Saturday for a few days visit with her mother, Charlie is looking for a cook, widow preferred.

—Arrangements have been made for the appearance of E. W. Raymond's High School orchestra of 25 pieces at Manchester on the evening of April 8. Excursion rates will be made from this city, and there is a probability that a special car will be run. Many aside from the orchestra will attend from here, and the trip promises to be quite a social feature for the young people.

—Independence Bulletin-Journal.

—Hopkinton Leader: Nellie Davis visited at Manchester and at Spring Branch last week. Miss Minnie Todd from near Manchester came down last week for a visit at the home of her uncle, W. F. Garvin. M. Reilly will move soon to Hazel Green township, to be near his field of work as superintendent of road for that township. Uncle A. B. Wheelless is just about to get out after an illness of five weeks. His old haunts have been missing Mr. Wheelless' cheerful face during his enforced retirement.

—Dyersville Com: F. Stewart of Manchester was in town on business last Saturday. Matt Clemans made a business trip to Manchester and Independence last Wednesday. Miss Veroni Nachtmann visited with friends at Manchester over Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wiegmann arrived here last Wednesday afternoon on their way home from Manchester. Mrs. C. P. Georgan of Rockville was in this city Tuesday on her way home from Manchester where she had been visiting her son, John, and wife.

—Mrs. Caro Sabin, who has recently resigned her membership in the six handed Euchre club, was the victim of a surprise perpetrated by the members of that organization last Friday evening. She had been invited to spend the evening with her friend Mrs. Chas. Thorpe and together with Mrs. L. Dunham, they were playing euchre when the conspirators, who had stealthily wound their way through the back yards from the S. W. Trenchard home over appeared and took possession of the Thorpe home and Mrs. Sabin. The evening was an especially pleasant one, six handed euchre keeping everything as merry as a marriage bell until ten when a toothsome lunch was served. A handsome dish was presented to the guest of honor by Mrs. Ellen Johnston "with best wishes for good luck always from the club." The resignation of Mrs. Sabin is sincerely regretted by the members of the club and this evening was planned to attest the regard in which she is held by the members of the organization.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Long visited friends at Strawberry Point last week.

—Mrs. Beardslee and son Leon are spending the vacation with her parents at Littleport.

Hand Made Philosophy.

Consider now the Easter bonnet and the Easter dress, also. My son, listen unto the words of wisdom:

If there be a hat whereupon there are red roses and white daisies, and the price thereof is fifty shekels of silver:

And if there be a hat whereupon there are green roses and blue daisies, and the price thereof is an hundred shekels:

Then will the first hat stay upon the shelf of the market place.

And the reason thereof is that the flowers upon the second are unusual, and verily the price is also.

And the Easter dress, let us ponder a few ponderings upon it:

Now, behold, if it be decreed that the dress shall be built for a woman who is round, or square or triangular:

Surely, even as thou sayest, there be no woman that is round or square or triangular.

Wherefore, why shouldst not the dress be made to fit the woman? Because it giveth greater joy to make the woman fit the dress.

Yea, truly. And one taketh four arm-lengths of wire and the price of a pound of hay in feathers and the value of a farthing in ribbons, and seweth it together and calleth it a poem, and the price thereof putteth a man to sleep—yea, it throweth him into heavy slumber.

Yet if a man taketh a gold brick and goeth into the highway and sell it as if it were millinery, is he not clapped into the prison and greatly reviled?

Now, the reason thereof is that gold bricks are not in style.

We have spoke, is it not wisdom.

Selah. Which meaneth that the band will play "The March to the Cash Register."—Exchange.

REPUBLIC'S PERIL

Trusts Menace National Prosperity

Principles of Andrew Jackson, Made Effective and Permanent. Will Release Country from Grasp of Greed and Restore True Democracy, Says William Randolph Hearst.

Responding to numerous invitations to attend Jackson day celebrations in various cities of the United States, William Randolph Hearst, whose duties compelled him to remain in Washington, issued the following address to the people of the United States:

The name of Andrew Jackson will always stand for fundamental, fearless and victorious Democracy. His name is inspiring, especially worthy of reverence at this time when the people again encounter an attempt to overthrow the government by the government of the country.

Today's situation resembles, in a greatly exaggerated form, that with which Andrew Jackson dealt when our republic was young.

To realize the work that Jackson did we must remember that he not only attacked and destroyed a national danger in his own time, but undoubtedly put off for many years that growth in the power of financial corruption which threatens the country now. This nation's development of individuality, liberty and prosperity for so long a time under popular government owe to the genius with which Jefferson met the question of his day, to the courage and fighting quality with which Jackson attacked and destroyed the public enemy of his day.

Never in the history of this country has arrogant, overbearing predatory wealth troubled us so as it is now, never through the wide exposure of its methods has it been so thoroughly defeated as it is now. The criminal trust issue is the dominating issue in the minds of the whole American people.

Managers of get rich quick trusts, making of them their great issue, is the duty of the Democracy. Moral duty demands that the Democratic party attack and destroy misgovernment. And political wisdom (the duty of leaders to their party) demands that the trust question shall dominate in all political agitation until the end of the next campaign.

Jackson day reminds us that the achievement of Jefferson and Jackson, some trifling basis of expediency is no wise or worthy aim for Democrats.

Permanency in useful, effective work should be the aim of the Democratic party. It should have constantly in mind the fact that Jefferson and Jackson, elected on fundamental Democratic principles, which insured to the country genuine popular government, kept the Democracy in power during the generation that followed them.

Constant character and courage of Jefferson and Jackson, their vital influence on their party, with the character and influence of any Democrat elected regardless of fundamental principle, living out his few years of office—leave the party stranded and worse off than before.

The courage of a Jackson is needed in a party bound to uphold the rights of the majority against the insidious schemes of a lawlessness and corruption. Greater than ever is the need of such qualities as Jackson possessed, now that money has put itself above the law more than ever before, menacing the people's rights.

Great issues are never invented or created by political leaders. Real issues make themselves, and the trusts, by their growing extortions and defiance of law, have made themselves the great issue in American political life today.

In every American mind the character of the law defying trusts stands out clear. In every American home the wife, even the children, know well by name the beef trust and the coal trust. Dealings in necessities, without sympathy for humanity or fear of the law, such extortionate trusts as these have made themselves a danger to every home.

And every frugal man, anxious for the future of those dependent upon him, knows well—many a one to his cost—the character of the speculative trust, with its enormous inflation and overcapitalization, its remorseless robbing of the public, its cold blooded get rich quick schemes.

There is no doubt as to the character of this trust, it is known by its works, by its stealing of the accumulations of husband and wife, its despoiling of the children's future, using as bait the names of criminal "respectables."

The duty before the Democracy today is to fight the criminal trusts, to cut down and root out the evil power of that predatory wealth that seeks to support government of the people by government of the pocketbook and the lobby.

The criminal trusts must be destroyed because they menace prosperity. They menace real property, the prosperity of all the people, the prosperous growth of the nation under popular government.

No man needs to be told how firmly the trusts have entrenched themselves in government. These trusts are absorbing more and more the power that should be people's.

Jackson found himself face to face with the great bank reaching out for national power. He was told that the bank claimed frankly the right to a certain number of representatives and to a certain number of senators in the American congress. He answered, with his own peculiar emphasis, that if there existed in the country such a governing power outside the government he would destroy it.

How puny was the power, how puny the representation in congress of that bank which aroused Jackson's deep and fatal indignation!

Any one of a dozen big trusts today exceeds in power the boasted influence of that bank. The sugar trust, the beef trust, the coal trust—any of the trusts that need to create legislation or to defeat legislation for the convenient robbing of the public have their tame men, their hired attorneys in office.

The bank of Jackson's day timidly claimed the right to a small share in government, and Jackson killed it for its temerity.

What would he say to the swarm of trusts today, whose individual and combined influence, whose paid or terrorized servants, in or out of office, constitute the governing power in the national administration?

If Jackson could see his day, how much more he needed now, with the fearlessness that made him do his duty as he saw it!

Needless to say, the Democratic party of the United States, which includes able and successful men in all lines of effort, has put itself in a position of hostility to any legitimately acquired wealth.

Today, as in Jackson's day, the Democratic party is a party open to all American citizens obedient to the laws and faithful to the constitution, no matter how poor or no matter how rich they be.

No Democrat need be reminded that the ability of those men who possess honestly acquired riches is essential to the nation's welfare.

Those who attack indiscriminately or jealously the rights of the prosperous manufacturer, merchant, inventor, banker or other legitimately successful men are not Democrats. They are as blind and stupid in their way as those of another class who cry down and attack the rights of the union man who works with his hands.

The Democratic party, more willingly than any other, recognizes that the men who develop the resources of the country, the men who create the wealth, the men who through executive, organizing and constructive ability provide opportunity for effort, employ labor, distribute the wealth and confer benefits upon the whole community, are those entitled to large reward, since those who direct great and legitimate business undertakings are essential to the prosperity of the nation.

The promoters of extortionate and speculative trusts do not develop the resources of the country, but hinder and restrict development. They do not create wealth, but appropriate the wealth which others have created. They check prosperity by concentrating wealth in the hands of the few out of the savings of the many. They limit production, they limit opportunity, they limit the employment of labor and reduce the laborer's wage, while they increase the cost of living. They confer no benefits on the community. The wealth they possess is stolen money, and the laws of the country should hold them as public criminals.

Managers of get rich quick trusts, managers of fraudulent trusts—that great tribe of public robbers—are not confounded in any Democrat's mind with the honest men whose superior ability, industry, patience or intellect have brought them legitimate wealth.

The growth and prosperity of the United States have merely begun. The nation needs the ablest minds, capable of wide planning and accomplishment. These will continue to be valued and encouraged by all good citizens. Every Democrat will agree that the laborer is worthy of his hire, whether he work for day wages or for great wealth, so long as he works honestly and legitimately.

The Democratic party is the party of all honest working Americans. It is the party that will promote the welfare of all those contented to live within the law.

The Democratic party is the party of property—the prosperity of the many, not of the law defying few.

The coming battle of the Democracy against special privilege is already clearly outlined in the minds of intelligent voters. This nation was established for the benefit of all, for the purpose of giving equal rights to all. The coming fight of the Democracy is to preserve the essential character of our American system, and is to be against the criminal element which seeks to change the nation's character.

It is the duty of the Democratic party to release the country from the grip of extortionate trusts, which, like the coal trust and the beef trust, control the necessities of life, increasing the cost of living and destroying the purchasing power of money earned.

It is the duty of the Democratic party to eliminate the opportunities of speculative trusts, like the steel trust and the shipyard trust, that deceive the public and take the people's savings in exchange for worthless watered stocks.

It is the duty of the Democratic party to prevent the recurrence of the present national situation, in which we see the wages of tens of thousands of workers in one single trust reduced in order to swell the profits of manipulators and stock jobbers.

It is the duty of the Democratic party to ally itself with the legitimate business interests of the country, and with their aid to overthrow the Republican party, which has sold itself to the criminal trusts.

None will welcome Democratic success more gladly than the legitimate business man, who finds it more and more difficult to exist under the throttling influence of the trusts and their growing control of legislation, money and opportunity.

To the commercial traveler, the business man, the mechanic whose wages are cut, the local banker in constant danger, to every family that has had its living expenses increased or its savings absorbed by the criminal trusts, I would recommend a study of the character of Andrew Jackson and his political methods.

To all Democrats and Democratic leaders Andrew Jackson stands a proof of the value of principle in the winning of victory.

If severe possible in the coming campaign to choose our candidates in the history of the past, I should not advocate the choice of some so called "conservative" nonentity, without motto or inspiration save desire for office. I should urge the nomination of Andrew Jackson, because he was not afraid of money illegally entrenched, because he knew how to fight and how to win.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Selling and Buying.

The department of commerce and labor recently published the statement that the average cost of living in America has increased 10.2-3 per cent. This statement is based undoubtedly on wholesale market quotations.

Since Nov. 1, 1903, there has been an average reduction of wages throughout the manufacturing centers of the east of 10 to 20 per cent. Flour and other foodstuffs have increased in price since the same date.

The price of newspapers in the great cities has been reduced two-thirds in fifteen years. The cost of producing them has increased. "Notwithstanding these conditions," says William Randolph Hearst, "my papers pay handsome profits, and wages are higher and the hours of toil reduced."
