Mr. Liebling is said to possess the largest repertoire of any musician in the world, playing over eleven hundred classical and modern compositions from memory. He spent Friday at the conservatory reviewing the work and giving instruction, examinations and a lecture recital to the students at four o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Liebling's visit closed the fall term, and the winter term began Monday, the 20th.

K. H. Goodwin is at home from South Dakota, where he has been superintending the farm work on his 320 acre farm in the northeastern part of that state during the past three months and a half. Mr. Goodwin gave a very favorable report of crops in that section of the country, corn running from 15 to 22 bushels to the acre and selling at 32 cents with markets in Minneapolis and Duluth. Oats run 49 bushels to the acre, averaging 45 pounds to the bushel, selling at 19 cents. Wheat still has a strong hold on the light grain production, although corn is rapidly being ushered in the place of the smaller cereals. During the period between 1893 and '96, this land was purchased for $9 to $10 an acre, and is now worth from $20 to $30 per acre. Mr. Goodwin states that he is assured that in a few years this same land will be worth over $50 an acre, as the quality of the soil is such that will warrant the utility of it for years to come. There is a good black loam with a subsoil of clay, which is most favorable for farming. The threshing is well over although a snow storm of a few days ago postponed and delayed work for about four days.

Seven children were born to them, Henry C. Smith of this city, Mrs. Ione Welch of Volga City, Willard C. Smith of Park Rapids, Minnesota, Mrs. Kate L. Bush of Boise City, Idaho, Loren C. Smith, who died in this city several years ago, Miss Sadie Smith of this city and Mrs. Ethel Craun of Volga City. Mrs. Smith was a member of the Baptist church at Lamont, but was always an attendant at the First Congregational church during her residence in this city. For the past ten years she has been an invalid and during the past six weeks has been a constant sufferer from that dreaded disease, tuberculosis.

The offices are on the first floor in the northwest corner of the barn.

The new rooms are finished, except that the furniture has not yet been placed. The rooms are finished with steel ceilings, which are tinted a light shade, and the floors are of hard pine. The window casings and other woodwork are of the same material, covered with a light coat of varnish. The appearance is very cheerful, the rooms being well lighted. The halls of the buildings are improved, both in respect to their size and by lighting. The one feature of the building which ought to be improved upon is the basement. There is no particular level of floors and except for the fact that electric lights are to be installed in a short time, the rooms would be in almost complete darkness, that is, several of them. The toilet facilities are most modern and particular care was taken in their placing. When the building is complete in its appointments, the citizens of this place may well be proud of their graded school building.

Death of Mrs. William B. Smith.
The funeral services of Mrs. William B. Smith will be held today (Wednesday) at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. H. C. Smith on West Marion street, the Rev. W. J. Suckow, pastor of the First Congregational church, having charge of the services. Mrs. Smith was born near Boston, Massachusetts, on the 25th day of September, 1834, and died at her home in Boise City, Idaho, on the 17th of this month, being a little past 71 years of age. She lived near Boston until she was ten years of age, moving with her parents to St. Charles, Illinois, where, in 1854, on the 25th of September, she was married to Mr. W. B. Smith, moving soon afterwards to this state and county, settling at Campion. They lived there 18 years and then moved to this city, remaining here for about six years, after which time they returned to their farm, and a few years later again moved to Manchester. The following winter they spent several months in California, thinking that the change of climate would benefit her failing health. The next winter they went to Hammond, Louisiana, where they lived for about five years. Later they returned to this city and about eighteen months ago purchased a home in Boise City, Idaho, where they have continued to reside until Mrs. Smith's death.

Seven children were born to them, Henry C. Smith of this city, Mrs. Ione Welch of Volga City, Willard C. Smith of Park Rapids, Minnesota, Mrs. Kate L. Bush of Boise City, Idaho, Loren C.
