J. C. Blanchard of Plainville, Ind., has leased the Sam Orr farm west of town, and will soon occupy it with his family. J. C. is a cousin of P. C. Blanchard and was formerly a resident of this county, being born near Edes Grove. This is his first visit to the county since leaving 22 years ago. It is reported from Jackson county that a new and unique swindle was worked there a few days ago. A fellow came along to a farmer claiming to have authority as a veterinary to inspect his herd of cows for tuberculosis. The farmer did not question the man's authority and permitted him to examine the stock. The vetitary pronounced the herd infected with the disease and prevailed upon the farmer to allow him to drive them away for slaughter. The farmer allowed it, but a short time later discovered that the fraudulent vet had sold the cattle and skipped out with the proceeds. That is rather tough of course, but no worse than some of the authorized officers are attempting to do under cover of a political appointment.—Leader.

DUNDEE.

The first annual Harvest Home picnic held under the auspices of the Dundee Improvement society held Saturday Oct. 3, was a success and a day of enjoyment to all. The weather was ideal and a big crowd was present from the surrounding country, also from Lamont and other towns. The principal feature of the forenoon was the big comical parade including an exhibition of farm products. The afternoon was filled with different kind of sports. S. G. Lawrence, E. S. Cowles from Lamont; Grandpa Stone and L. G. Gilbert the pioneer settlers of Richland township addressed the visitors with interesting reminiscence, of the good old time. The Dundee Cornet band assisted by members of the Lamont band furnished the music for the day and the fine music rendered by the boys was a credit to them. A merry good round enjoyed young and old. Warren Sherwin, marshal of the day carried his duties in an excellent manner. The fine dinner of the ladies was largely attended. The dance at Schroeder Bros. hall finished the day.

F. C. Kleinsorge gave a banquet Monday evening, Sept. 28, in honor of Hon. Chas. E. Pickett of Waterloo, who delivered a strong address in behalf of the republican party. The table decorations were red and green and the favors were red carnations, while the place cards were done in miniature flags in neat colors. Covers were laid for nine the following gentlemen being present: Chas. E. Pickett, F. Kleinsorge, Theo. Fuhr, A. L. Seeber, A. P. Lee, B. Aucutt, E. C. Hesner, E. H. Hoyt, Carl Preussner.

The "Birthday club gave A. R. Schroeder a happy surprise last Friday evening, the reason being A. R.'s 32 birthday. The evening was happily spent with games and music and at eleven o'clock a delightful two course luncheon was served.

TRUSTS FAVOR TAFT

"INTERESTS" ARE STRONGLY REPRESENTED ON THE REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

SHELDON OFFICIAL FAT FRYER

LIST OF THOSE FROM WHOM HE GOT CONTRIBUTIONS.

Republican Treasurer is Director in Twenty-One Corporations—Raised Big Fund in 1906—Recommended by Standard Oil Attorney.

Chicago, September (Special).—In connection with the contrary which the president has raised as to whether the trusts and financial concerns are most interested in the election of Mr. Taft or Mr. Bryan, the Democratic national committee calls attention to a few of the controlling spirits in the Republican committee who are actively interested in trusts and monopolies.

At the head of the list stands George E. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican national committee. Mr. Sheldon's selection for this important post of official "fat fryer" was made upon recommendation of William Nelson Cromwell, the great corporation lawyer of Wall street, attorney for the Standard Oil Company, the Standard Oil Company, the sugar trust, Krohn, Loeb & Co., bankers and brokers, and other favored interests. Almost immediately after his appointment Mr. Sheldon is reported to have received a contribution from Mr. Cromwell, amounting to $50,000.

Mr. Sheldon is a multi-millionaire, the active head of the banking firm of W. C. Sheldon & Co., 3 Wall street, according to the "Directory of Directors" for the present year. Mr. Sheldon's name appears as a director in the following corporations: American Locomotive Company, American Locomotive Automobile Company, Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Cincinnati, Northern Railroad Company, Detroit Edison Company, Electrical Securities Corporation, Erie Railroad Company, Erie Locomotive and Machine Company of Montreal (limited), Locomotive Electric Railway and Light Company, Milwaukee Light, Heat and Traction Company, National Copper bank, New Jersey Terminal Dock and Improvement Company, North American Company, Republic Steel and Iron Company of New Jersey, Union Electric Light and Power Company, Union Electric Light and Power Company.

Mr. Sheldon's connection with the locomotive trust places him in connection with the railroads of the country, who procure campaign contributions. He is also a confidential agent of J. Pierpont Morgan in his Wall street deals, and assistant to the former in the building trust. His North American Company controls the traction interests of St. Paul and Minneapolis. He is also a member of the club of which Rockefeller, Morgan, Carnegie and other powers in Wall street are also members. He is also said to be a member of 20 other clubs, whose membership includes practically all of the operators in Wall street.

In 1906 Mr. Sheldon was treasurer of the New York state republican committee, and succeeded so well in his efforts that the late Governor, Mr. Cromwell recommended him for a similar job with the national committee. According to the sworn statements of Mr. Sheldon, published after the campaign, he raised $333,923.40, chiefly from these interests.

The following is a partial list of the contributors as shown in Mr. Sheldon's statement:

- J. Pierpont Morgan, Wall street banker and promoter, $20,000
- John D. Rockefeller, Standard Oil, 20,000
- Andrew Carnegie, 5,000
- Chauncey M. Depue, 5,000
- H. R. Hollins, financier, 5,000
- W. H. Schuch, 2,500
- Harvey Plisk & Sons, bankers and brokers, 2,500
- Kuhn, Loeb & Co., bankers and brokers, 2,500
- J. & W. Seligman & Co., bankers and fiscal agents, 2,500
- John W. Gaskin, steel trust and other trust corporations, 2,000
- C. R. Mackey, Postal Telegraph Company, 2,000
- John W. Gaskin, steel trust and other trust corporations, 2,000
- W. E. Corey, president U. S. Steel Corporation, 2,000
- Wm. Woodruff, 2,000
- John Jacob Astor, tenant house owner, 1,000
- William Nelson Cromwell, trust lawyer, 1,000
- W. K. Vanderbilt, railroad interests, 1,000
- Edwin Gould, railroad interests, 1,000
- W. H. Havesmyer, sugar trust, 800
- B. N. Duke, tobacco trust, 500
- D. O. Mills, 500
- H. M. Flieger, Standard Oil, 500
- Arthur C. Bros. coffee trust, 250
- Henry Claws, Wall street banker, 250

This is only a partial list of the trust magnates and financiers who contributed to Mr. Sheldon's fund. An index as to how much more Mr. Sheldon may be able to raise from these interests for the national campaign, the fact may be cited that Mr. Cromwell gave $10,000 to the state fund, and increased the amount to $50,000 for the national campaign.

Fred W. Upham of Chicago is assistant treasurer of the Republican national committee. He is a millionaire, has been an officer, and a member of the state board of review, Illinois, which passes upon the amount of taxes which corporations and large estates shall pay in that state. He is a director in several corporations, and is in charge of the collection of campaign funds in the west.

On August 21, 1906, after his appointment as assistant treasurer of the Republican committee Mr. Upham sent out thousands of letters to corporation officials whose taxes he passes upon as a member of the board of review, urging them to contribute to the Republican fund as "individuals and request them to bring this matter to the attention of your business associates." The suggestion implied is regarded as significant.

Five of the nine members of the Republican committee are:

Charles F. Brooker, Connecticut million chairman of the New York Chamber of Commerce and vice-president New York-New Haven Railroad Company, against which a government suit is now pending, and one of the leading spirits in the brass trust.

Frank O. Lowden, multi-millionaire, vice-president Pullman Palace Car Company, which is a monopoly.

E. C. Dunham, director Atlantic & North Carolina Railway, and other corporations, receiver Seaboard Air Line and official dispenser of patronage in North Carolina.

T. Coleman Du Pont, controlling factor in powder trust, against which the government has a suit now pending for dissolution.

Bole Petersen, political boss of Pennsylvania, head of the corrupt Republican organization in Philadelphia, and conspicuous in many corporations.

Roy O. West, chairman of the Republican state committee of Illinois, is also a member of the board of review, which passes upon corporation taxes.

Fred A. Sims, acting chairman of the Republican committee of Indiana, is also chairman of the state tax board, which passes upon the taxes levied against corporations.

It is also reported that he resigned from the executive committee because of his trust connections, but Mr. Brooker, against whose company the government has a suit, is still a member of the committee.

When he clasped hands with Foraker at Toledo, Mr. Taft could never have suspected that Foraker was going to be caught, and right before election, too.

Just a Fish Story.

Forty years ago, when my father was captain of an East India trading ship, while off the coast of Africa near the equator the ship's carpenter was taken sick and died. He was sewed up in canvas and with him were sewed his kit of tools and grindstone for ballast to sink him. Services were held and the body committed to the sea.

Four days later the ship's boy fell overboard, and a great shark came up under the stern and seized the boy before he could be reached.

The next day the shark was still following the ship. A shark hook was baited and put over the stern, and the shark was caught, but was so large it could not be taken on board, and the crew were obliged to shoot him. He looked so plump and large the mate, who was an old whaler, wanted to go over the side and cut the fish open. He was lowered over and cut a hole in the shark and was surprised to hear voices and on looking in saw the ship's carpenter, who was sharpening his ax to cut their way out.

My father, who is eighty years old, can vouch for this that it is a fish story.—Boston Journal.

A Place of Safety.

Wits which are serviceable only in fair weather are not of much use to the thousands of men who are victims of vicissitudes present themselves to the dweller of the wild regions. Mr. Willey in his "History of the White Mountains" gives an instance of a man who was miserably withered by cold. The incident took place in the early days of Jackson.

A terrible tornado passed over the little settlement. It was so strong hardly anything could stand before it. Houses and barns were leveled, trees were whirled about in the air like sticks, and men and women were caught up and carried along for rods.

One house was raised to the ground, and chairs, tables, beds, bedding and children were flying about in the wind. The father of the family, snatching his babes from the rude grasp of the monster, thrust the little folks' heads through two rails of a fence and left them thus secured with their feet dangling in the wind. He then went to look after his other property.

The five little children remained safe in their fastening and, uninjured, out-rode the tempest.

Lord Penzance's Acquaintance.

When the late Lord Penzance was plain Mr. Wilde, he once took an early morning stroll round Covent Garden market. There he entered into conversation with an old man of the street, an aspect who had just made a purchase of a geranium. Mr. Wilde soon found that the stranger was an enthusiastic amateur gardener, and the pair had an interesting chat on horticultural topics as they walked toward Oxford street.

Suddenly the fare in a passing hansom cab signified to the driver to pull up, and within the vehicle Wilde saw his friend, Sergeant Ballantine. Bidding the man adieu, Wilde entered the cab.

In surprised accents Ballantine exclaimed, "How on earth did you come to know that man?"

"I picked him up last night in Covent Garden market, and his companion," "Well, Wilde," the sergeant remarked, "your new acquaintance is Calcraft, the hansomman"—London Academy.

Annoying the Passengers.

"There used to be in one of the southern states," said a military man, "a railroad that was notorious for its slowness. This line was so slow that the people took to the desert when a press. Thus one Memorial day a planter wrote to the Rapier, the leading paper of his district:

"The Editor of the Rapier: "Dear Sir:—I do so want to put a stop to begging along the line of the railroad? For instance, yesterday an aged veteran with a wooden leg kept pace with the afternoon express all the way from Paint Rock to Nola Chucky and annoyed the passengers exceedingly, going from one open window to another with his impudent solicitations. "VOX POPULI"—Washington Star.

Half of the Pleasure.

The young girl of a Baltimore family was recently much distressed at desert to discover that there was ice cream for dinner.

"Oh, papa," exclaimed the youngster reproachfully, "why didn't they tell me this morning that we were going to have ice cream?"

"What difference would that have made?" sighed the child. "I could have expected it all day."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Wanted a Pusher.

"What did the new neighbors come to borrow now?"

"They wanted the lawn mower."

"Is that all?"

"That was all they spoke about, but I think from the way they stood around they would like to have borrowed my husband to run it."—Nashville American.

H. H. Lawrence. Family Secret. A father complains that his little six-year-old girl is too talkative. He says: "The worst of it is when we have visitors she is continually making mistakes of the worst sort, mistakes that tend to rattle the dry bones of the family skeleton in the cupboard. Recently she allowed her tongue to run away with her, as usual, the result of which was that she very much embarrassed both her father and mother, although the guests seemed delighted."
