The play given at the Wood school a week ago Friday was again repeated on last Tuesday night. The net proceeds are to be used in purchasing an organ for the school.

Gorda Robinson of Spencer, Iowa, who was hurt during the basket ball game at Strawberry Point week ago Friday, as stated in these columns last week, has recovered sufficiently that he was able to return to his home Monday morning.

The eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Michaels was taken to Elkader several days ago to receive medical attention for a floating knee cap. His mother who has been caring for him returned home Wednesday, leaving him still under the doctor's care. She reports him as getting along nicely.

There was a basket sociable given at the Theel home south of town last Friday night.

The dance given in the Opera House last Wednesday night was fairly well attended and all those present report a good time. The introduction of the "Irish trot" was one of the striking events of the evening. The revival of this dance has hit the "barn dance" a blow from which it will hardly recover. The next hop will be given under the auspices of the Woodmen for the defraying of indebtedness still held on their new building. It will be a large dance and is billed for December 3.

Henry Barr, a prosperous farmer living south of town, had a valuable sheep torn to pieces by a stray dog several days ago. Mr. Barr feels quite put out over the affair as he valued the animal at a hundred dollars.

Job Combs still continues hopeless ill at his home in the south-east part of town.

Henry Smith made a business trip to Manchester one day last week.

The high school basket ball team have scheduled a game with Fayette Thursday night at that place, and Friday night they will meet Waucoma at the latter place. Our high school team is a dandy and have thus established a creditable record, and we hope they shall continue thus.

On last Thursday the Woman's Relief Corps gave a dinner at the Methodist church parlors for the benefit of Mrs. Nellie Robinson, who is critically ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Wilcox. An exceedingly large crowd was present and the proceeds, if we are rightly informed, amounted to a little over thirty-five dollars, showing no doubt, the sympathetic interest taken by the citizens in general in the need and distress of this unfortunate woman.

LENOX COLLEGE.

The Lenox College Bulletin for November gives an outline of the Agricultural course to be given from Dec. 1st to March 1st, and it cannot be otherwise than helpful to anyone that raises stock or cultivates land be it much or little. There is a good library, a cyclopedia of Agriculture and over twenty-five of the leading agricultural papers of the country are coming to the reading room. The Bulletin also gives another interesting item. At the beginning of the college year, Prof. Evans selected two captains from his class, who chose sides. These sides are rivals in all their studies and work. Each side seeks to outdo the other on its side is after him. If one needs coaching all of the fellows are ready to help him. All of the boys of each side have uniforms (overalls and slouches for field or barn study) each side differing in appearance from the other. The side that gets the best grades in stock and grain judging is to have the privilege of selecting one of their number, who will accompany Prof. Evans to the International stock show in Chicago. His railroad fare and entrance fee to be paid by the Professor. It is needless to say the class are all working like beavers. Part of this class went to Cedar Rapids to the State Dairy Men's convention and on Saturday to the county fair.

It is encouraging to know that the report of the college in October showed an increase in attendance of 13 per cent. over last year at the same time.

The entertainment given last Monday evening by the pupils of the department of piano, voice and expression came quite up to the expectations of all who attended.

Misses McDonald and McClellan now have rooms at the Harper house.

The second number on the lecture course, The Stroulers, will be given Monday, November 22, in the chapel. This quartette comes highly recommended. These entertainments are always attended by a large audience.

Mrs. Walters returned Monday from a weeks vacation on account of a sprained ankle.

COLESBURG.

Fred Kneer and Roy Prentice students of the U. I. U. are at home to remain until after Thanksgiving.

The many friends of Mrs. C. W. Strader will be pleased to know that she is recovering from her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wordhoff and Miss Rose Link of Dyersville attended the dance here Friday night.

Mr. Evans of Seattle, Washington, is here in the interest of a mining proposition in which several Colesburg parties are interested. He has some fine views and specimens which he is seen at the bank.

Dell Sumner of Waterloo was calling upon one of his Colesburg friends last Thursday. Come again and stay longer.

Nelson and Gilbert Gore have returned from the vicinity of Webster, City where they worked on farms during the past season.

Bills' orchestra of Oelwein played for a dance here Friday night. There was a large crowd, about seventy numbers having been sold. All present report a fine time.

E. L. Bolsinger of Manchester was a visitor with home folks during the latter part of the week.

Friday, November 19th, was the thirtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coon, and the friends perpetrated a neat surprise on them Thursday evening. Relative and members of the Minnehaha Chapter O. E. S. gathered at their home where a pleasant evening was spent and an appetizing supper served. A token of remembrance Mr. and Mrs. Coon were presented with a beautiful mantel clock. Dr. C. H. Jacobs, Worthy Patron of the Order, made the presentation.

Mr. August Irmscher is going to Charles City Tuesday for a visit with his daughter, Mrs. A. E. Benz.

Rev. J. C. Brenner is still at Charles City. His father whose illness from pneumonia we mentioned last week is gradually falling with no hopes of recovery.

Mrs. S. D. Peck is reported on the sick list.

Fred O'Neil has about recovered from his recent illness.

The ladies of the M. E. church are making preparations for their annual church fair, to be held December 10. Dinner and supper will be served. Particulars later.

Mrs. J. K. Bolsinger and Goldie returned Friday from near Whitten, South Dakota, where they have been living on a claim for several months. It was their intention to spend the winter there, but for the illness of Mrs. Bolsinger. She has been sick for the past five weeks with catarrh of the throat, and thought it advisable to return home. She has been under the doctor's care

A TELEGRAPH JOKER.

He Knew What the Crowd Wanted and Delivered the Goods.

ELECTION RETURNS TO SUIT.

Swung States and National Chairmen Into Line in His Reports and Gave the Boys of the Mining Camp the Time of Their Lives.

A funny incident happened on the night of the national election of 1896 in a little camp tucked away in the mountains of southwestern Colorado, where the only means of quick communication with the world were a single wire and a single telegraph operator. Naturally only the meager scraps of election news reached the camp, but before the certain news of McKinley's election could have been got the telegraph operator had fallen a victim to his favorite vice and, further, had fallen beneath the table.

The only other person who knew anything about telegraph "shorty" was the local wit and humorist, who volunteered to write out the election returns as they ticked off from the telegraph instrument. Political sentiment was adverse for Bryan. News of his election was not only sought but desired by the average American miner as a tangible concern of the uncertainties of politics as he is concerning the uncertainties of mining. The volunteer telegrapher was noted for an obliging disposition. He was the "gentle" of the camp.

The "boys" had placed stores of gun powder at various points. They had cleaned and oiled their six shooters and reloaded their cartridge belts. They were ready to light the hillsides, and natural enthusiasm had been stimulated at the Y. P. pole, the Cosmopolitan, the T. and the T. and less pretentious named ones in the desert of mining camps. Kansas, and every allusion to the grandest celebration the San Juan country ever had known. "Shorty" was not the man to use an opportunity like that. The telegrapher handed to the wit a card stating that New York and Indiana were in doubt and it looked as if a close election, with the chances favoring Bryan. That whetted the crowd's keen appetite for returns. The second bulletin set their spirits up with a leap. "Bryan has carried Kansas, and the Democrats are claiming Iowa."

"Whoopie!" from the crowd.

Shorty bent his ear to the clickety sounder and inscribed "Bulletin No. 1: Illinois joins the Bryan column with 50,000 majority. Indiana certain. New York very close."

When the deafening chorus had died down a young member of the party asked the leader "Hadn't we better begin to set off the giant?"

Before the leader could answer Shorty returned with a word and a look. "Don't go off half cocked," he said. "It's always best to wait until you are sure. You can't be too conservative in a case like this."

After a long pause, in which the crowd displayed much impatience, the impetuous and conservative Shorty transcribed bulletin No. 4, but before passing it out he said:

"Now, boys, don't do anything rash. Wait for the actual returns."

Bulletin No. 4 read: "Senator James claims Ohio and Pennsylvania for Bryan."

Under ordinary circumstances a doubt might have been expressed concerning the probability of such states reversing their political records, but the crowd was convinced of an impending landslide for their favorite and yelled with delight. "Now we are beginning to get the news," remarked Shorty when the cheering ceased, and he began to write bulletin No. 5 as follows:

"New York gives Bryan 100,000 plurality; Indiana, 40,000. Returns from Wisconsin and Minnesota indicate large Democratic gains."

The crowd heard only the first sentence, shouting, cheering, yelling, screaming, it broke for the street.

"Hold on!" called Shorty. "Here's another."

Bulletin No. 6, "Quay concedes Pennsylvania to Bryan."

Another fragment broke from the crowd and ran down the street shouting the news. The new operator's pencil was traveling rapidly over the paper, while his friends and fellow citizens crowded closely upon him and read as he wrote bulletin No. 7: "Mark Hanna has locked up Republican headquarters and gone home."

The roar of the crowd was drowned by the roar of exploding giant powder. Buildings shook, windows rattled, accompanied by the crash of broken glass. The celebration was on, and Shorty McIntyre was alone.

The celebration lasted for two days. The morning after election the regular operator had recovered sufficiently to transcribe messages announcing McKinley's victory. Those who were sober enough to understand them didn't believe them. After several warnings of what would happen to him if he didn't quit "trying to fool people" the operator desisted and joined in the general jubilation. Not until the arrival of the Denver papers on the second day did that camp awake to a realization of the outcome of the election, and then there was not sufficient energy left to vent even indignation upon Shorty, much less to take revenge. On the third day the volunteer operator was more popular than ever, for all admitted he had given them the time of their lives.—New York Post.

Crushed.

"Really, Louise, this bill is outrageous. You must not try to dress like the millionaires' wives."

"My dear Ned, control yourself. I am only trying to appear as well dressed as the shopgirls."

Absence of occupation is a mind distressed.—Covper.
