Attorneys Herrick and Welch of Monticello were in town Wednesday on legal business. Merrill and Platt had been summoned before the council concerning a building which they had moved on Main street and had refused so far to comply with the city ordinance that all buildings should be made fire proof as far as possible. Mr. Herrick appeared for the council and Mr. Welch for the defendant. The defendant agreed to conform to the ordinance providing other offenders during the past year should be compelled to do the same which was only just. Hopkinton has suffered severely by fires in the past and does not desire to run any risks that should be avoided.
