Baseball still stands out as the clean sport.

Flying could almost be classed as a hazardous occupation.

When the summer has waned people will stop rocking the boat.

Of course a woman is young at thirty-five, but not disgustingly young.

The French detectives are unlike Mona Lisa. Their smile has come off.

Wyoming reports four feet of hail, which is apparently nothing to boast of.

Just after one's vacation the year ahead looks even longer than the big fish one failed to land.

Because of the katydid's miscalculation persons who sleep outdoors have not yet begun to boast of it.

Christmas comes only late in December, but one's friends insist upon getting married every little while.

The California wild man is not half so wild as some other Californians become when their climate is criticized.

"Bathing ear" is the latest summer resort disease. Physicians say it can be avoided by giving the water a wide berth.

There is always a silver lining. The report comes from Pennsylvania that the foot who rocked the boat was drowned.

The season approacheth wherein the nimrods go forth into the forest glades to puncture the anatomy of the elusive guide.

It is only once in a while that actors can secure as much advertising out of getting married as they can out of being divorced.

A Danish novelist says that the American husband is not appreciated. At last we've found somebody who feels sorry for us.

If a man cannot afford to buy an automobile he can tell his friends that he is waiting until the airships become just a little safer.

Boston has discovered a variety of mosquito that sings and does not bite, but we still insist that the best mosquito is a dead mosquito.

Marriage licenses were issued in Milwaukee to three couples where the brides were near 50. All things come to him, or her, who waits.

The peaches and corn having survived, here comes a new joy-killer with the announcement that the cranberry crop will be a failure.

When permanent world wide peace comes we recommend that the armor plate be beaten into plowshares, and the swords being kept for cheese knives.

A citizen of Kansas advertises for a wife who can furnish music, but he does not mention whether he prefers the instrumental or the chin variety.

Paris people who decree fashion are turning out winter jackets in three lengths instead of one. This will allow woman to be even more of an individualist than she was before.

"Shall the baby be rocked to sleep?" is the question that is agitating Boston. In Newport and on Fifth Avenue the paramount question is: "How often shall Fido be manured?"

An Omaha society woman was blown over by an ocean breeze and lost her false teeth. Now we know what is meant by the "teeth of a gale."

A 17-foot shark caught off the Delaware breakwater is reported as having an umbrella in its stomach, though whether folded or spread the voracious reporter neglects to say.

A Philadelphia who has thus far succeeded in keeping out of the hands of a guardian has had his pet cat buried in a silk-lined mahogany casket. Not all of Pennsylvania's silly rich reside in Pittsburgh.

Our idea of nothing to look at is an aviator two and a quarter miles up in the air. He closely resembles an attenuated bacillus as it appears when one hunts for it without a microscope.

Georgia clergymen want the width of women's hats limited to two feet, but most husbands are more interested in the price than in the size.

It is said that the people of Chicago consume 40,000,000 pigs' feet every year. Perhaps that accounts for a whole lot of Chicago's peculiarities.

Cable reports tell us that Paderewski's poultry yard was damaged by fire, but as long as his flowing locks remain unharmed he will be able to eke out an existence.

There is in Paris a suffragette who announces that she will never rest until she has fought a duel with a man. Let some Frenchman accommodate her. He could do so without being at all impolite to a lady, provided they fought a French duel.

The girl whose real name was betrayed because she wrote it often on the typewriter should have borne in mind the objection made by some to the typewriter when it was first introduced: "It gives away your spelling too badly."

In making the new elevation record, which turns out not to have been a record after all, the aviator ascended until his hands were "numb with cold." If he had lost control of his machine while in that state the result, of course, would have been justified by the interests of science.

When he was shot by a would-be assassin a New York man's life was saved by a collar button which stopped the bullet. In addition, there are aesthetic reasons for wearing collar buttons.

BRIBE QUIZ OPENS

STEPHENSON OF WISCONSIN DENIES HIS GUILT BEFORE SENATE SUB-COMMITTEE.

SENATOR ON WITNESS STAND

Asserts He Personally Was Ignorant of the Way in Which His Managers Spent $107,793 During His Campaign in 1908.

Milwaukee—On the witness stand before the senatorial investigating committee for three hours to answer charges that bribery and corrupt use of money had contributed to his election, United States Senator Isaac Stephenson testified that, although he spent $107,793 in his campaign, he had little knowledge as to just how it was spent except that it was not used in violation of the law. The details, he said, he had left to his campaign managers.

As an instance of his ignorance of just where the money went he cited an item of $11,000 for postage.

"Now," declared Senator Stephenson, "I am president of more than a dozen auto industries in this state and I have in my employ more than 3,000 men, some of whom have been with me for 50 years. In them I have every confidence.

"I do not pay attention to the details of these industries. Just so when my campaign for nomination by the primaries in 1908 came up; I could not lay awake nights trying to figure how the postage was used. I gave sums of money to my managers and told them to carry on a vigorous campaign and do everything to elect me, except that they must keep within the law. I cautioned them not to violate the law in any particular. So far as I know they obeyed me."

Milwaukee—That the $107,793 which was expended by United States Senator Isaac Stephenson in his campaign for the senatorial nomination was used legitimately for brass bands, lithographs, buttons and other campaign advertising, and was not employed corruptly, was the gist of testimony given before the investigating committee.

Although the government of Barbadoes has prohibited further recruitment of laborers on that island, the headquarters of the commission's agent have been maintained at the capital at Barbadoes and most of the laborers embarked from that port.

ADMIRAL SCHLEY DIES

HERO OF SANTIAGO DROPS DEAD IN NEW YORK. Career of Man Who Smashed Spanish Fleet is Closed in Tragic Manner.

New York—Rear Admiral Schley, hero of the battle of Santiago, dropped dead from apoplexy on the street here. His death came just a week after the publication of advanced sheets of Admiral F. E. Chadwick's history of the Spanish-American war, in which Schley is completely exonerated for making the famous "loop," that "loop" now being shown as the "brilliant maneuver" of the battle, and the maneuver that accomplished the defeat of the Spanish fleet.

Schley was apparently in perfect health a short time before he fell upon the street on Fifth avenue and forty-fourth street and died before a doctor could be summoned.

Admiral Schley, the man who smashed the Spanish fleet at Santiago, was one of the leading figures in the American navy for a generation. He was born in Frederick county, Maryland, in 1839. After graduating from the United States Naval Academy in 1859, he served in the Civil War in minor capacities, he was commissioned in 1866 as lieutenant commander.

In 1864 he volunteered for and was placed in command of the expedition sent to search the north polar region for Lieutenant (now Rear Admiral) Greely, and his companions, who had been lost from civilization for nearly two years, and the finding of them in a state of exhaustion and about to die constituted one of the dramatic incidents in arctic exploration.

ORDER OUT TROOPS

Jackson, Miss.—Rioting, resulting from the strike of the Illinois Central shopmen, became so fierce at McComb City, Miss., that the Third regiment, Mississippi National Guard has been sent to that town.

A train bearing non-union men en route to New Orleans was riddled with bullets as it passed through the outskirts of McComb City, but no one was injured.

One man was fatally injured and several severely hurt in a pitched battle between three carloads of non-union men and a mob at McComb City. Pistols were fired, stones hurled and clubs wielded savagely on both sides.

E. H. Montgomery, a non-union man, was a fractured skull and it is thought he will die.

Robert Mitchell, an Illinois Central switchman, was shot and killed in the railroad yards at Mounds, near here, by a machinist brought here as a strike-breaker but discharged for incompetency.

Trouble between strikers and strike-breakers at Mounds, Cairo and Centralia induced the railroad's officials to apply for the injunction, according to a statement from the office of J. F. Porterfield, superintendent of the St. Louis railroad.

The Illinois Central railroad obtained an injunction in the United States district court for the eastern district of Illinois here directed against strikers and strike sympathizers and preventing interference in any way with the conduct of the company's business.

Crockett of Athens, Tex., shot and seriously wounded; Gordon Knight of Athens, also a strike-breaker, badly cut and bruised, and Capt. S. D. Knights, special guard, battered. TRIPOLI FORTS

IN RUINS; 400 TROOPS TO LAND

Turks Driven Out by Shots From Italian Fleet.

POWERS REFUSE PLEA

Nations Promise Little to Turkey and There is No Mediation Before Porte Suggests a Settlement in Line With Enemy's Desire.

Djerba, Tunis.—Tripoli has been bombarded twice by the Italian fleet. The first shot was fired shortly after three o'clock in the afternoon and the bombardment continued until sunset. Shelling was resumed early the next morning, after a quiet night, during which the sky glowed with the reflection of fires in the town.

The bombardment by the first division of the fleet under Admiral Faravelli was heavier than that of the previous day, but the outer forts had been reduced to ruins and were unable to reply. The Turkish garrison had removed its guns to the heights beyond the town and responded with a few shells, which fell short. The Turks were dispersed by shrapnel from the fleet and fled in all directions.

Prepare to Land Troops. The first white flags began to appear and the Italians prepared to land 4,000 men from the ships.

There were no casualties in the fleet during the bombardment, the Turkish projectiles all falling wide of the battleships.

The Italian commander endeavored to avoid damaging private dwellings, but some of them were destroyed, and the governor's palace and the three forts at the entrance of the port are in ruins. The consulates and churches have not been damaged.

The second division of the fleet, under Vice-Admiral Thaon Di Revel, has approached close to Benghazi and there, a bombardment of these ports, it is understood, has been ordered.

Naval Battle is On. Constantinople.—The Turkish and Italian fleets are engaged in a terrific battle off the island of Mitylene, 60 miles from the mouth of the Dardanelles, according to a report received here. The officers and men of the Ottoman fleet, which had been coaling in the Hellespont, demanded of the Porte that they be sent out against the foe, and they were granted their request.

The Italian fleet is composed of the best vessels in the navy of King Victor Emmanuel, and greatly outclasses the Turkish squadron which has gone out against it.

Mitylene is the largest island in the Archipelago. It lies off the coast of Asia Minor not many miles from the site of ancient Troy. It is 60 miles due south of the Dardanelles and 140 miles from Athens.

Abruzzi Sends Ultimatum. Corfu.—It is reported here that the commander of the Italian fleet, Vice-Admiral Duca, has demanded of the Porte that he be allowed to proceed to an ultimatum to the governor of Prevesa calling on him to surrender two Turkish destroyers and a gunboat.

Sympathizer With Sports. "The rivalry among the political parties is getting to be something fierce," "Yes," replied Mrs. Mrs. Torkley cheerily, "you'd almost think they were contending for something as a baseball pennant."

Trying to Please. "You call this cake angel food?" said the harsh husband. "Yes, dear," said the timid wife, "but if the diet doesn't seem exactly what you want, here are some deviled crabs."

Time Saving. "So you don't regret being divorced?" "Certainly not," replied Mrs. Filmgilt. "It's ever so much pleasanter for both John and myself to have my expenses provided for by a regular remittance without any of the formalities or annoyances of personal correspondence."

Wife's Little Helper. "Do you ever help your wife with the cooking?" "Not since I mistook a fruit salad for garbage and threw it in the can."

Brute to Say So! Mrs. Benham—"I am getting stouter all the time." Mr. Benham—"Yes, when I got married I little realized that I was getting a wife in the installment plan!"—Stray Stories.

Doubtful Prospects. "What profession has your son chosen?" "I dunno," replied Farmer Cortness. "Mother wants Josh to be a civil engineer. He might make an engineer, but I'm afraid he's jes' naturally too fresh to ever be what you could call civil."

Shark Held to Nozzle. While the dredge Zeta was working lately at Gosford, New South Wales, the suction pipe became choked. It was found that a six-foot shark had been drawn across the nozzle, and was held there by suction.

Significant Observation. "Truth," said the orator who quotes, "is at the bottom of a well." "Yes," replied Farmer Cortness; "an 'an' it discouragin' how the wells hev been runnin' dry this summer."

Avoiding Trouble. "I'm going to show you a way to get rich," said the plausible friend. "Don't," replied the cautious citizen. "The first thing I know you'll have me missing fishing trips and friendly card games in order to hang around and be investigated by congress."

True Longlines. "Do you think Longlines is as exclusive as he pretends to be?" "No. If he were he wouldn't be satisfied with any pole in life except that of a lighthouse keeper."

His Own Support. Lady (to loafer who has asked for money): "You'll only drink it, I suppose, when I get married. I'll come to your wife." Loafer—"I ain't got a wife, ldy. I'm earnin' me own livin'."—London Punch.

Disturbed Home. "So your daughter is studying both music and painting?" "Yes," replied Mr. Cumrox. "And I can't say that I enjoy her practicing. It's a case of 'stop, look and listen' every time I go into the house."

HEALTH AS AN INVESTMENT

Fraternal Orders, Labor Unions and Insurance Companies Erect Tuberculosis Sanatoria.

As an investment in the health of their members, four large fraternal orders, two international labor unions and one of the largest insurance companies in the United States have established sanatoria for the treatment of tuberculous members at Black Mountain, Tenn.

The Modern Woodmen of America conducts one at Colorado Springs; the Workmen's Circle, one at Liberty, N. Y., and the Independent Order of Foresters have one at Rainbow Lake, N. Y., and will soon open a second one at San Fernando, Cal. The International Typographical Union has since 1898 conducted a sanatorium at Colorado Springs, and the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of America has recently opened a new institution at Rogersville, Tenn. A leading life insurance company is now erecting a sanatorium at Mt. McGregor, N. Y., which will be the first of its kind established by an "old line" insurance company.

Degenerated. Kid McCoy, the hero of 125 battles, is to open a sanatorium at Stamford, Conn. He said the other day to a New York reporter:

"I hope in my sanitarium to restore lots of grumpy middle-aged people to perfect health, and if I give them back perfect health I'll give them back youth and gaisety and merriment. In middle age, if middle age is prosaic, it is only because the health of middle age is poor."

"The woman," he continued, "who sends her grumpy mate to my establishment, in course of time, makes the bitter complaint of Mrs. Blank."

"My husband, 15 years ago," said Mrs. Blank, "used to kiss me every time he passed through a tunnel. But now—"

"She gave a bitter laugh. "Now," she said, "he takes a long pull at his traveling flask."

A Student of Humanity. Mrs. Brookly Citizen, were discussing the murder which had harrowed the dusky citizens of the countryside.

"Will dey hang him fer killin' of his wife, Miss Carter?"

"We can't tell yet, Aunt Jinny. The court will decide. Of course, if they prove he did it on purpose—"

"Done it a purpose! Law, Miss Cy, in course he done it to hit his wife a purpose. Honey, ain't I done been married? Don't I know men!"

Keeping Busy. We are told that at New York's common law budget exhibit balls will be rung and lights flashed to show a birth every four minutes, a death every eleven minutes.

Just what sort of demonstration is made every time a safe bottle pops, or a bellob is tipped, we are not told.

Its Location. Little Brother—"Where's my fisher pole gone to?"

Bigger Brother—"Sister's usin' it for a batpin!"—Puck.

No matter how hard the rules may be, they're as fair for us as for the rest of the gang!

SOUND SLEEP Can Easily Be Secured.

"Up to 2 years ago," a woman writes, "I suffered from the habit of using both tea and coffee regularly."

"I found that my health was beginning to fall, strange nervous attacks would come suddenly upon me, making me tremble so excessively that I could not do my work, and my stomach was sleepless and I passed long nights in restless discomfort. I was filled with a nervous dread as to the future."

"A friend suggested that possibly tea and coffee were to blame, and I decided to give them up, and in eating alone for a hot bottle beverage, which I felt was an absolute necessity, I was led by good fortune to try Postum."

"For more than a year I have used it three times a day and expect, no
