The arm was broken and torn loose from his body.

URGES VENTILATION OF SCHOOLS

SCHOLARS SHOULD BE GIVEN FRESH AIR.
(By A. E. Keptord.)
With the opening of the public and parochial schools of the state the department on tuberculosis of the Board of Control, is exceedingly anxious to impress upon teachers the importance of the proper ventilation and sanitation of school rooms. Much has already been accomplished by boards of education in the reconstruction of school buildings with a view to an adequate and constant supply of fresh air to the scholars during school hours. Teachers very generally have acquainted themselves with those simple methods by which, in the absence of artificial systems of ventilation, they are able to keep a supply of good air in the school room. The educators of the state have been giving very general attention to this important phase of school management, and because of this, much is being accomplished in the reduction of respiratory diseases of one kind or another, including tuberculosis. It would be well where medical inspection in the schools is not maintained, for parents to have their children thoroughly examined, with special reference to the eyes, ear, nose, throat, teeth and especially the chest cavity. Many physical defects which impair children's health will be discovered and removed. This will go far toward keeping the child well and properly adjusted to his school tasks. It is desirable as winter comes on that particular attention shall be given to the important matter of school ventilation. Remember that fresh air is necessary to good health.

GREELEY HAS FIRE COMPANY.

Greeley has for years been without fire protection of any kind and with every blaze the question was brought up as to the best means of fighting fire in a town without the advantage of water works. The council think they have solved the question by the purchase of a large chemical engine with sufficient hose and bucket and the organization of a volunteer company who will be trained to fight fire in a systematic way.

OCTOBER 9TH FIRE PREVENTION DAY.

Ole O. Roe, state fire marshal, is urging the people of Iowa to take greater precaution regarding fires which destroy thousands of dollars worth of property each year. Monday, October 9th, 1916, has been proclaimed by the Governor of Iowa, as fire prevention day. The proclamation says in part: "There were $310 fires reported to the State Fire Marshal for 1915,—more than ten fires every day, causing a daily loss of $16,457.00, and involving daily property worth $70,716.00. It clearly appears that practically one-third of these fires were due to carelessness. It is quite possible that many more of them were. These at least, should be preventible. There is no reason why large numbers of fire should be occasioned by careless handling of matches, candles, lamps, oil, gasoline, by burning of brush and leaves, by defective flues, stove-pipes, wiring, by smokers, by rags and clothing near stove-pipes, by ashes and many other ways, destroy the property of those negligent, and often that of others also. Such negligence is a constant menace. The only remedy is watchfulness, diligence and to the end that as many of the millions of dollars of annual fire loss may be prevented as possible, I do hereby announce and proclaim, Monday, October 9, 1916, Fire Prevention day call the attention of the people for the purpose, if possible of inducing them to carefully examine their buildings and surroundings to the end that fire hazards may be reduced to the minimum. Request is made also throughout the State take up the question of protection from fires and of a careful examination into the sufficiency of water supply and pressure and apparatus for extinguishing fires and see to it that everything is in constant readiness for instant use. In no other way can the enormous fire loss be reduced."
