Cut the Risk In Two

The best kind of thrift is the prevention of waste. The modern type of barn prevents waste, lightens work and makes money for farmers.

With a foundation and floor of concrete, the barn is warm, sanitary, easy to clean and well ventilated. It will last for generations without repairs.

Or, if you don't want to build an entirely new barn now, modernize your present barn by jacking it up and building a new foundation and floor of concrete.

Pigs should be allowed plenty of feed, and SELF-FEEDERS are desirable, as it allows the animals to get all they want to eat. They are also excellent for old sows that have weaned their pigs as it gets them in market condition more quickly.

"When is an auto not an auto?"
"When it turns turtle."

Hens Lay Gold Dollars

Steadier egg profits are possible when poultry is provided with good housing. No hen ever made an egg record in a damp, drafty hen house. She needs proper shelter—a dry, rat-proof, sunny, sanitary henhouse.

Moisture can't get through concrete floors, nor can rats and weasels make nightly forays.

A poultry house is easy to build. Ask the Eclipse.

The Eclipse will give you bottom prices on your fall farm buildings.

No one now is kicking on the prices of lumber. When you can get the material for an eight pen hog house for less than $200.00 including eight big Sunshine Windows in the roof, there is no room for a kick. Is there?
