For this place, by our new Mineral Well.

GAW Martin, who lives on the Somers, at the foot of Hall's Gap, in this county, while boring for fresh water struck a stream of clear, cold, mineral water, which is said to contain magnesia, iron, etc., and those who have drunk of it say that it is very much like old Rockdale Springs water. Mr. Martin invites all who are passing to stop and try it. He intends to have this water analyzed, and should it prove good, will erect a suitable enclosure for the accommodation of visitors.

Trial of Camden.

The court room has been densely crowded during the entire week, people coming for miles to see and hear. Camden waived an arraignment, and was put on trial, M. H. Owles, Commonwealth's Attorney, T. W. Vernon and H. T. Harris Esq's, appeared for the prosecution, and Col. T. P. Hill, J. W. Alcorn, M. C. Sander, and R. Blinn, Esq's, for the defense. The trial occupied two days. All the attorneys made arguments in the case, and on Wednesday morning the jury brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree. An appeal will be taken, we learn.

Look Sharp.

The postmaster at this place received a letter a few days since from parties living at Waynesville Indiana, inquiring about one Thomas H. Hampton, who represents himself as a citizen of Lincoln county, and owns a farm near this place, etc. Mr. Hampton is obtaining credit upon that statement. The INTERIOR JOURNAL corps to the judges. Also one year's subscription to the office for a sufficient length of time to guilt several of our citizens out of a horse or two, and that he owns no land in this country, and therefore is an impostor and not entitled to credit.

Half Fare.

From the following notice it will be seen that only half fare will be charged by the railroad company in going and returning from the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company will sell tickets at one fare for the round trip from all stations on their line, including Nashville, Decatur, and Memphis, good for six (6) days returning.

LOCAL BREVIETIES.

FROM PINE HILL.

PINE HILL, KY., August 28, 1872.

Correspondence Interior Journal:

Col. David Garrison is convalescent—whereat we are glad.

A large crowd was in town last Monday, at the opening of the exiled court.

Watermelons are abundant in town at five to twenty-five cents each.

"Uncle Ed" never saw two hotter days than Monday and Tuesday last.

Farmers watch your grain in gardens and if it shows signs of heading turn it immediately.

If mosquitoes bother you these warm nights, a good idea is to put on your pumps and heel them.

Col. T. W. Miller has purchased of Joseph McAlister one story frame office on Lancaster street, above the new bank.

One Pine Hill correspondent "comes to time" this week and tells what he knows about politics in Rockcastle county.

T. J. Atkins, in this place, one of the best roosters in the State, has the contract for roofing the new Masonic building.

Our devil thinks that too many ears of corn will kill people. Nature never intended the stomach should have ears.

The wood-work of the new bank building under the supervision of Bradley & Nierius, is rapidly approaching completion.

A fellow that knows, says that during this warm weather, a man should never take over eight water-melons at a time.

The word love, in the Indian language, is "Sehenduanhantwahge." How nicely it would sound, whispered softly in a lady's ear, "I Sehenduanhantwahge you!"

The Palaski County Agricultural, Mechanical and Stock Association will hold their annual fair at Somerset, KY., beginning Sept. 10th, and continuing four days.

Remember the sale of land stock and crop of Dark Arnold, whose advertisement will be found in another column, will take place next Monday. The sale is positive, as Mr. A. will start West in a few days.

The season is approaching when our lady readers will demand fashion notes. Where is our valuable assistant in the Metropolis? Let us hear from you "what you know about the coming style."

Our good farmers are now busily engaged in repairing fences, putting up new posts, re-hanging old ones that sag, cutting weeds, reading the INTERIOR JOURNAL, and occasionally taking politics—the very time to advertise.

We heard it whisp'd around that Col. Garrison has been for several months past, trying to keep a little better hotel than anybody, or Monday last we had an opportunity to investigate the master by a special invitation.

Well, try it yourself, we don't know the wharf to hotel to advise you to patronize father and mother's friend, Jos. A. Miller anxiously awaiting the day from a visit to the long lost son and brother. Afternoon, Missouri, or the hospitality so kindly offered, stranger, and rejoicing with those who rejoiced, I took a stroll on the river bank, and drink in the beauty of the place by moonlight. I descended a little knoll that commanded a view of the Rhine whose waters were now and then ruffled by a passing boat, and the sloping hills whose sides were covered with vines which promises a rich flow of wine. Bingen, the town of song and story, and the Manne Tower whose old decaying porches permitted a few straggling moonbeams to enter.

The Manne Tower was now still and dark but in days gone by, as now watered on its little island, its walls had receded to the mere peaks of knightly others at times felt the shock of stout yeoman warriors. Southery, the potions seem larger, it ever famous by his beauty.

At moonlight, Everything I had called court promptly, so unlike anything I have called court before, I did not wonder that Elect Commonwealth "Sweet Bingen." As a charge of murdering back to the days of Commonwealth vs. Warburton, so many color, charged with grand larceny who remained at home on the day of the trial, and did not vote. We will hardly let us diminish our friend "R" that he had better be, as he went to high on old Rockcastle, giving majority for the Radical ticket, at the Presidential election, as we Democrats and Liberal Republicans expect to go to the polls and vote, and not remain at home as we did in August last.

CENTRAL KENTUCKY FAIR.

We had intended to give space in our outside page this week to the proceedings of this Fair, but we did not receive the right day's proceedings in time, and devote that space to the speech, etc., which were delivered in the Sunday school convention, believing that they are of more general interest to our readers than anything else.

We rejoice to be able to state that the Fair was a financial success this year. On the closing day an immense crowd was in attendance and the show of stock very fine.

As usual, some decisions were rendered which did not favor the multitude, but then somebody had to be beat. The people of Boyle and Danville city are noted for their hospitality.

There is Commonwealth vs. James S. Harris, Then, I, murder. Commonwealth vs. same, No. 1 murder. Same vs. same, No. 2, horse stealing. All of the above cases were tried except the two last indictments against Harris, with the following result: Camden was found guilty in the first degree. Carpenter confessed guilt and goes to the penitentiary for one year. Enday confessed and goes for 15 months. Enday was released on his own recognizance to appear at October term for trial. Harris, on indictment No. 1, verdict not made to this writing.

New Advertisements.

We neglected in our last issue to call attention to the prominent advertisement of J. Mc. James dealer in dry goods, notions, etc., Waterford, KY.

He has a new and larger quantity of flowers, artistically arranged by fabricators, we have never had the pleasure of seeing before. To say that Williams is delighted, would not express half so much as the joy of his fascinating smile. Now at CLAS, we have a stock in the Lancaster principles.

Coqueting.

The managers of the Cincinnati Southern railroad seemed to be acting rather coquettishly. They have visited all the towns throughout Central Kentucky where it is possible for their road to be located, and never did a suitor spark his lady love with more winning smiles or pleasant flattery than these gentlewomen have bestowed upon Lexington, Richmond, Lancaster, Danville, Somers, Stanford, etc. They seem to be all things to all localities—to "blow hot and cold" with the same breath.

We agree with our citizens are hauling water one mile.

Vegetation is doing little or no good.

Wheat crops have given the largest yield known to the oldest of our citizens.

Religious.

We are very much in want of rain. Many of our citizens are hauling water one mile.

Vegetation is doing little or no good.

Wheat crops have given the largest yield known to the oldest of our citizens.

Stock Sales.

Mr. John Simpson bought of Ephraim Leavel, colored, of Garrard, one pair of mules at $375 cash, and sold them to T. A. Elkin, of Garrard, at $350 cash.

Mr. John Simpson sold his fine 3 minute mare, Emma, to his brother Uriah for $100, cash. Also his horse to R. F. Dunn for $150.

MULES.

The card of Tolle & Holton, wholesale dealers in dry goods and notions, Cincinnati, OH., is now at the door. They are the most successful, and the most popular dealers in the city.

Mr. Thos. House took the premium at the Danville Fair for the largest and best water-melon. He is not only the most successful, but the "cleverest man in the business." At a hand-some printed paper, with clear bold type, it is not surpassed by any other paper.

As an advertising medium to persons living in Central Kentucky, our JOURNAL cannot be excelled.

In local news medium, there is none better, if our hundreds of subscribers can be believed, for they all say so.

As a visitor to the family residence, it is no rival in the newspapers in our country.

As a hand-some printed paper, with clear bold type, it is not surpassed by any other paper.

As a thorough medium of all news of interest, it stands at the head of the list of country papers.
