FRANK LESLIE'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE.—With the July number, this beautiful and very interesting work commences the sixth annual volume, and both publisher and editor seem determined to spare no effort to render it superior to any similar publication. The 128 pages sparkle with literary and artistic gems of brilliancy; the illustrations number nearly 100. The opening article, by A. H. Gurney, is on "The Primitive Persecutions," and should be read by all the Christian families in the land. A thoughtful article, "We Seek the Truth," an impressive one on "Idle Words," a brightly one "Around Rio de Janeiro," and many others, will well repay the reader. "David's Forgiveness" is neatly concluded, and the short stories are by popular writers, and very interesting and instructive. Mrs. Emerson, Paul H. Hayne and others contribute original poems. There is an excellent sermon, and the Popular Expositor, by the editor, who, in his editorial, discusses "Universal Peace," "A Home and Abroad," "Aristocracy," "The Progress of Movements in the Religious World." The miscellany is exceedingly comprehensive, entertaining and replete with instruction. The price of this valuable magazine is $2 a year; six months, $1.50; four months, $1. Address, Frank Leslie, 35, 55, and 57, Park Place, New York.
