WEEKLY HERALD.

The WEEKLY of this date, containing thirty-five columns of reading matter, embracing Eastern and State telegrams, local news, editorials, markets and home reading, is now ready. Single copies, 10 cents; $4 per year.

THE Virginus executions have aroused the country to a fever heat. On the 18th inst. an indignation meeting was held in Steinway Hall, New York, at which Hon. W. M. Everts presided, and a large number of the prominent men of the city were Vice-Presidents. At Richmond, Louisville, Philadelphia, Springfield (Illinois) and Des Moines, volunteer recruiting offices were opened. This excitement will be intensified by the thrilling news which we publish to-day, giving an account of the attempted assassination of Minister Sickles at Madrid.

The state of public feeling with regard to the Spanish question excites great attention among thinking men. The Virginus outrage alone was sufficient to excite popular feeling to an extraordinary degree, and the latest dispatches referring to two attempts on the life of the American Minister have further fanned the flame. The Cubans have been in a state of insurrection for the past few years and are ripe for any mischief. Poor Spain to-day is rent in two by civil war, and has more trouble at home than any other nation on the earth. The warfare on her own soil is more desperate and dogged than any civil war of the present century. It is not a rebellion or a contest similar to the late struggle in this country. War may be averted by the immediate surrender of the perpetrators of the Virginus massacre; but the voice of the people calls unanimously for retribution, and that must be made without delay.

Cuba would be of little value perhaps to the United States, any more than the annexation of Vancouver Island. There will be no trouble certainly in wresting it from a nation weakened by internal discord; but unless immediate satisfaction be made, a fearful and summary vengeance on the part of the United States will ensue.

Suggestions for the Future.

EDITORS HERALD: Now is the time to prepare the public mind for the next year's fair. To this end an "Observer" wishes to make a few suggestions: First—Make the "Racing" and the "Farmers' Exhibition" two distinct organizations; the one to be managed by the race horse men and the other to be managed by the farmers and mechanics, or the Grangers.

Second—Have both held at the same time, so that all can enjoy each.

Third—Have them held at a time when the great specialty of Los Angeles—the semi-tropical fruits which give her a world-wide fame—are in full perfection, and when the State has not just been saturated with common fairs. Her wheat, barley, rye and oats—all products except the grape and a few early fruits—can be exhibited as well in February as in November. It is true her grape culture would have to be represented in her wines and brandies, and in preserved specimens. The past fair was after the grape crop was gone and before the orange was matured.

Fourth—With this plan assented to, now or soon, all parties in interest would work to it the coming season. The farmer would show his bushels of corn—two pounds to the ear—and all his products would be brought with good zeal and placed in order. Pyramids of oranges, lemons, limes and bananas, would greet the eye on every side of the pavilion. Every department of art and mechanics would catch the enthusiasm and would contribute, without fear, to the enlargement and adornment of the pavilion exhibition. The nurserymen possibly could exhibit their fine draft horses, mules and roadsters; their Normandy stallions and Kentucky jacks; their fine sheep, hogs, goats and cattle. The race men could show their race stock to good advantage.

Fifth—Prepare a pavilion adequate to such an exhibition, advertise it in this State and the East in proper time, and thousands, instead of hundreds, would come to see us. OBSERVER.

COFFEE TREES.—The Gilroy Advocate says that a gentleman who has just returned from the Sandwich Islands brought with him a number of coffee trees. One of the trees was presented to Supervisor Furlong, who intends planting it to test the adaptability of our soil and climate to the growth of this article. The trees still in possession of the other gentleman, will perhaps also be planted, and thus the project will have a fair trial.

General Thomas A. Morris of Indiana, accompanied by his daughter Nellie, is now at Santa Barbara on his way to this city to pass the winter. General Morris is the man who planned and executed McClellan's famous West Virginia campaign of 1861, which placed McClellan in command of the army. General Morris is a millionaire and proposes making Southern California his future home.

Reported Attempt to Assassinate Minister Sickles by a Mob in Madrid.

Animosities against Americans by the Press and People.

Great Activity in all the United States Navy Yards.

The Spanish Question the Subject of Discussion Everywhere.

The President thinks Congress will Declare War unless Spain makes Reparation.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The National Republican will publish to-morrow a special dispatch from Madrid, which says that the feeling among the people is exhibited by outbursts of passion on the streets, and indicates the most excited vindictiveness towards the United States. The mob, inspired by this feeling, and infuriated by the public press, which demands that Minister Sickles' passports be returned to him, collected before the building occupied by the United States legation, and threatened Sickles with violence. The mob was dispersed by the authorities. This incident is but a slight indication of the feeling of animosity against the United States. Fears are entertained by the friends of the Castellar government that if it makes satisfactory amends in the Virginus case the government will be overthrown. They also point to the official statement from the State Departments that as soon as orders were received from Madrid, further executions of the Virginus prisoners were suspended.

While this fact does not mitigate the first atrocities, it serves to present the cases in a more favorable light for Spain. But without regard to the possible embarrassments of Castellar's government, the United States will insist upon full reparation for the insult to our flag, and outrages upon our citizens, as the Virginus was a prima facie American vessel.

The Cabinet are to-day considering dispatches received from Minister Sickles, at Madrid. The President believes that Minister Sickles declines to make full reparation in the Virginus case, Congress will promptly declare war.

Secretary Robeson had an early interview to-day with the Bureau officers of the Navy Department, during which he reiterated his instructions that the various departments of the naval service shall exert the utmost efforts to put all vessels preparing for service in first-class order.

The Government has purchased a small vessel called the Dispatch, on board of which officers have been ordered to-day. This vessel will be used for the purpose of carrying the mails and dispatches between the North Atlantic Fleet and our ports along the southern coast, from Charleston to Key West.

The officers of the Spanish war steamer Arafilla, now being completely fitted at the navy yard, are very anxious to get away, having received orders to take their vessel into Cuban waters as soon as possible. The officers at the yard say it will be a shame to allow her to depart. They say the Spaniards have not recognized international law, and they fail to see why the United States should be so considerate.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—John T. Irving, of Nathan-murder notoriety, was committed to the Tombs for burglary, to-day.

James Linen, poet and contributor to the Knickerbocker Magazine, died here to-day. Deceased was well known in California, having resided several years in San Francisco.

Col. Scott says that since the Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company have declared a scrip dividend, the company is in condition to go on without further trouble and will meet all obligations.

Another dispatch from Madrid says that a second attempt was made to assassinate Minister Sickles, and that he was wounded. His position is very uncomfortable, but he believes the Spanish authorities are able to protect him.

A large number of naval officers have been ordered to duty at once, and there is great activity at all the navy yards in preparing vessels for sea. In less than thirty days, fleets will be in the Cuban waters.

Ingersoll has been committed to the Tombs to await trial on a writ of indictment, being unable to give bail. The greatest activity prevails at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and every effort is being made to fit out vessels rapidly. Workmen are busy night and day, and this morning 500 more men were put at work.

Dispatches in reference to the reported rupture between Minister Sickles and the Spanish Government, excites great public interest. The situation is exceedingly and eagerly discussed everywhere, and great crowds of men are around the bulletin boards of the various newspaper offices. The impression seems to be that the Spanish Government does not desire war, and that peace would be maintained.

Trouble Among the Chinese at North Adams.

There has been considerable ill-feeling among the Chinese workmen in Mr. Sampson's shoe factory for some time. As they have become better acquainted with their surroundings, they have become extremely jealous of Charlie Sing, their manager, from the start, and some of them had taken a notion that he was cheating them, that they could do better for themselves, etc. One of them, one Ah Coon, accordingly tried to expel him by buying supplies and peddling to the others. He was promptly discharged. He declared, however, that he would not go, and appeared at his post as usual the next morning. When he was ordered out by his partners, he drew a knife, and threatened violence to that extent that Superintendent Chase sent for the State constable, Hunter, who, with another officer, arrested Ah Coon, who was melting a general riot. On the way to the lock-up the officers and their prisoner were followed by the enraged Chinamen, their demand was accompanied with threats of violence if not complied with.

They crowded into the lockup in great numbers and could not be induced to go away and mind their business. They would not budge an inch when a pistol was presented to their heads, but began to fight for their comrade. They soon found out their mistake, for the lock-up doors were called upon to knock down and drag out, which they did till not a celestial was left in the lock-up save the one arrested, who was there at latest accounts, last night, while his champions are at their quarters in the shops. It is feared that this is not the end of the trouble, and Charlie Sing, who tried to quiet them, was so alarmed for his safety that he kept an officer with him all day. Eight Chinamen were discharged for disorderly conduct and neglect of duty, two of whom are now on their way to the lock-up train.—Springfield Republican.
