The Agricultural Society. A meeting was held at the Clarendon Hotel yesterday morning, to settle the business connected with the late meeting.

Considerable preliminary conversation took place, in the course of which this journal received, as might be expected, any amount of adverse criticism and uncomplimentary notices.

The HERALD favors, and hopes to favor in all coming time, the development of the country, through the means of agricultural associations, and by other modes; but it will always reserve the right to oppose the unworthy and sanction the meritorious in everything pertaining to the interests of the people.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 21.—The news from Madrid causes much excitement. Much anxiety is felt about the condition of Fort Sumter and Moultrie.

MADRID, Nov. 21.—It is rumored that the insurgents of Cartagena intend to surrender. This will remove the entire fleet of iron-clads at the service of the Government in case of war with the United States.

MADRID, Nov. 21 (Midnight).—Siskles has suspended preparation for which he was making to leave the city.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—An explosion in Wingate colliery to-day killed several miners.

WASHINGTON, November 10.—Secretary Fish consented to be interviewed to-day on the subject of the Virginian Spanish executions at Santiago de Cuba.

Mr. Fish said that his natural sympathies were with the Cuban cause, and that he had been in a position he could not operate in favor of humanity there, while unauthorized filibusters were using the United States ports to fit out expeditions, contrary to law and treaty.

Mr. Fish said that the recent and preceding summary executions by the Spanish volunteers as inhuman and atrocious slaughters; but intimated that the only proper way to stop them was to act directly upon the Spanish home Government through our Minister, who had used his good offices several times already to procure changes in the Captain General, by the substituting a mild viceroy for one more bloodthirsty. The trouble was with the volunteers resident in Cuba, who by social wheedling or terrorizing such new Captain General, made him an adjunct to their spirit of massacre.

The Secretary said, without restraint, that these volunteers in Cuba ought to be politically extinguished and classed at Madrid as worse than the insurgents. They had given the home Government, which was well intentioned, as much perplexity as the reckless friends of Cuba had given the United States.

Mr. Fish believed that the existing Government in Spain was liberal and humane. The summary executions at Santiago might have been delayed had our Consul at that point, A. N. Young, of Kentucky, been at his post. Young, however, was either at the York House in Washington City, or somewhere between here and New York at the time. Mr. Hall, Acting Consul General at Havana, had no communications with Santiago in order to stop these murders. Moreover, only one of the four victims claimed to be an American. Ryan was probably a naturalized citizen, but the State Department could not act on hearsay. Nothing had been heard from Madrid since Saturday, and there was no probability of more information in a documentary form on which the Secretary could act, for ten days to come.

THE CUBAN QUESTION.

The following is a portion of an article which appears in the New York Herald of the 13th Nov., on the Cuban question:

There are crimes which outrage humanity and exhaust the patience of the civilized world—crimes which, by their enormity, prompt the uprising of vigilance committees and the swift punishment of the offenders without the tardy process of the machinery of the law.
