Insanity and Suicide.

There are as many degrees of insanity as there are varieties of suicides.

The degree of insanity under which the individual is laboring may be determined by the act committed.

Those who are afflicted with the most desperate degree of insanity, which we will designate as the first degree, generally make an attempt upon their life.

It is a fact generally conceded that if Gov. Booth's election to the U. S. Senate was placed before the people of California, he would receive two-thirds of the votes of the people.

Aleek Stephens—A Bill to regulate Railroads in California—A Bill to expedite the survey of private land claims—A Bill to sell grazing lands—The Contract and Finance Company to be investigated.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. Alexander H. Stephens, Representative from Georgia, was received by the President in the office of the White House yesterday morning.

In the House, Mr. Kendall introduced a bill to regulate and make uniform the charges on railroads in relation to California.

Houghton will renew his efforts in favor of a bill to expedite the survey of private land claims; also a bill to sell grazing lands; also a bill to regulate and make uniform the charges on railroads in relation to California.

Page proposes to urge a bill for the establishment of some government printing office for printing agricultural and mineral lands, in order to avoid unnecessary contests as to the mineral or non-mineral character of lands.

Littell announces his intention to urge a thorough investigation of the Contract and Finance Company matter; also a bill to admit grain in bag manner; also a bill to regulate and make uniform the charges on railroads in relation to California.

The State Department has received no advice relative to the situation in Havana.

The London Times publishes the official list of the British subjects taken prisoners on the Virginia, and afterwards on the Santiago de Cuba.

The Times, in commenting on the act, says the British government while demanding the surrender of the survivors, must carefully avoid committing itself to the position that the seizure was illegal.

The Department of State has no information to communicate concerning the arrangement for the surrender of the Virginia and her surviving passengers and crew to the United States naval forces.

Nothing was received up to a late hour this evening to cause the impression that any part of the protocol will not be carried into effect.

The statement is unreservedly made that the Spanish officials are acting in good faith.

Captain-General Jovellar, Bolog Order to Deliver up the Virginia, Resigns—Spain Acting in Good Faith. The London "Times," on the Virginia Capture.

HAVANA, Dec. 4. Captain-General Jovellar telegraphed to the Madrid government to-night the following: "The Madrid government peremptorily orders the Captain-General to deliver up the Virginia." General Jovellar respectfully resigns his position, and demands that another person be sent to take his place who can carry out the orders of the government.

The Madrid government, in the excited state of public opinion, and the impossibility of overcoming the existing difficulties, General Jovellar submits that his manifesto was prepared, asking for delay, during which an opportunity might be given for reflecting on the Madrid government.

He begs to assure the Madrid government that the patriotic spirit of the great national party in Cuba; the order from Madrid, immediately to be executed, deprives him of the new resource which he hoped to have for upholding the authority and interest of the country.

He begs to assure the Madrid government that he may comprehend the difficulties of the situation and do justice to the order and perseverance with which he began his labors, and which had already begun to produce fruit.

The Captain-General describes the situation on the island and declares that the impression produced by the news of the arrangement which had been made between Spain and the United States can be compared with that produced in Spain by the treaty at Bayonne, which led to the war of Independence against Napoleon.

He begs to assure the Madrid government that the immediate execution of the order will cause a frightful commotion throughout the island which would be sure to result in a catastrophe.

The Spanish are unwilling to surrender the Virginia directly to the United States, but will surrender her to some neutral power.

The Description of an Eye-Witness.

Horrible Details—Men Brutally Shot and Horribly Mutilated—Outraged by the Devil.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5. A New York special says the officers of the Morning Star, the vessel which arrived in New York yesterday morning from Santiago de Cuba, in which port she was lying when the Virginus was brought in, give graphic accounts of the massacre of the prisoners.

Mr. Coffin, second mate of the Morning Star, witnessed the execution of the victims. The first lot, consisting of Captain Frey and 36 of his crew, were laid out at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

They were ranged facing the wall, and at sufficient distances from it to give them room to fall forward. Captain Frey having asked for a glass of water, one was handed him by Charles Bell, steward of the Morning Star.

Frey then walked from the end of the line to the center, and calmly awaited his fate. He was the only man that fell dead at the first volley, notwithstanding the fact that the firing party were only 10 feet distant. Then ensued a horrible scene. The Spanish butchers advanced to where the wounded men lay writhing and groaning in agony, and placing the muzzles of their guns in some instances to the mouths of their victims, pulled the triggers, shattering their heads into fragments.

Other dying men grasped the weapons thrust at them, with despairing grip, and shot after shot was put into their bodies before death quieted them. All the bodies were tumbled into carts and taken at once to the cemetery.

Mr. Coffin says that this batch of victims, at least, seemed to have no notion of the fate that awaited them.

They walked along quietly, singing, chatting, laughing and smoking, as if on a pleasure trip.

On the following morning twelve Cubans were led to the slaughter, and similar disgusting scenes were enacted. The moment the preliminary order was given, the twelve turned their heads as if in obedience to a preconcerted agreement, and throwing their hands aloft shouted, "Viva Cuba's Libertad." This finished the executions that day.

The British war vessel Niobe, and her commander Lorraine, left Jamaica in such haste that several of her crew who were ashore on leave were left behind. He hardly stopped to cast anchor at Santiago de Cuba, before he hastened ashore and protested against the killing of any more of the Virginus crew. General Burriel answered him sardonically in a letter, saying that all the executions that had been ordered would be immediately proceeded with. Commander Lorraine instantly returned reply that in the absence of an American man-of-war he would protect not only the interest of his own country, but those of the United States, and that if Burriel harmed a hair of another prisoner, he would bombard the city. It was generally believed at Santiago de Cuba, that this action of the British Commander saved the lives of the rest of the Virginus crew. Commander Lorraine, afterwards obtained five copies of the process of the Court Martial, condemning them to death, two of which he intended to transmit to our government, and two others to his own. Varano Cespedes del Sol and Ryan were shot early in the morning. The latter showing extraordinary coolness and courage. He marched along as gaily as if going to his wedding. A priest advanced to his side when the place of slaughter was reached, and offered the religious services of his office, but Ryan waived him off. The officers of the Morning Star say it is not true that the inhabitants of Santiago de Cuba were wild with joy, but on the contrary, they were exceedingly silent, and made no demonstrations whatever.

THE MESSAGE ON THE VIRGINUS.

The steamer Virginus was, on the 25th day of September, 1870, duly registered at the port of New York as a part of the commercial marine of the United States. On the 4th of October, 1870, having her certificate in the usual form, she sailed from the port of New York and has not since been within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States. On the 31st of October last, while sailing under the American flag on the high seas, she was forcibly seized by a Spanish gunboat, the Tornado, and was carried into the port of Santiago de Cuba, where many of her passengers and crew were inhumanly shot, and so, at least as related to those who were citizens of the United States, were without due process of law put to death. It is a well asserted principle, asserted by the United States from the beginning of our national independence, and recognized by Great Britain and other maritime Powers, and stated by the American people, that the United States, in a resolution passed unanimously on the 16th of June, 1858, that American vessels on the high seas in time of peace, bearing the American flag, remain under the protection of the United States, and that the United States, in a resolution passed unanimously on the 16th of June, 1858, that American vessels on the high seas in time of peace, bearing the American flag, remain under the protection of the United States, and that the United States, in a resolution passed unanimously on the 16th of June, 1858, that American vessels on the high seas in time of peace, bearing the American flag, remain under the protection of the United States.

SACRAMENTO. Governor Booth's Message—J. C. Bonte Chaplain of the Senate.

Governor Booth's message was sent to the Senate this afternoon.

Nothing new in the Senatorial contest.

The Legislature yesterday, after much debate, elected Rev. J. C. Bonte, of Sacramento, Chaplain of the Senate.

[SECOND DISPATCH.] Governor Booth's message was presented to-day and is published. He refers briefly to the Modec war, and pays a tribute to soldiers who fell in the lava beds; congratulates the people on their happy exemption from the financial panic, such as afflicted the people of the east. He says the finances of the State have been economically managed. He recommended State aid to private charities, and that deficiencies in the military fund be supplied by liberal appropriations. He recommends the repeal of the law for State land agency; thinks the words white and colored ought to be stricken out of the State school law, and equal school rights extended to all children. He recommends also an enlargement of the powers of the local authorities of San Francisco in order to rid the Legislature of the special legislation relative to affairs of that city. Says that our treaty with China ought to be re-adjusted so as to restrain further immigration from that country; also recommends legislation for the adjustment and uniformity of fares and of rights on railroads in the State; says the carrying of concealed weapons should be again prohibited by law; favors the system of compulsory education; says the Legislature should not adjourn without enacting that population shall be the basis of State representation, and calls special attention of the Legislature to the subject of irrigation. The Governor also favors legislation with a view to secure a minority representation in the Legislature.

Special Notices.

Having just returned with a very large stock of California and Eastern jewelry which we purchased from first hand—the manufacturers—we propose to sell very low prices. We have a large stock of everything in our line. We sell Yandersley's, Gorham & Co's solid silver ware, and Rogers & Bros' silver plated ware, for whom we are authorized agents for Southern California and get our goods direct from them. The public should be sure to see that all silver ware is stamped Rogers & Bro., as there is a quantity of goods in the market bearing similar trade marks, using the name Rogers & Bro. in various ways, and so appearing so nearly genuine that unless by paying particular attention they are liable to be deceived. There is no ware manufactured by Rogers & Bro. except that which bears their trade mark to the letter. But there are several companies manufacturing cheap ware, and by copying our designs, they will see that the trade mark reads differently, and is not made by Rogers & Bro., which is the acknowledged standard plate ware, and as we have handled the same for ten years we can recommend it. We are also sole agents for Black's Patent Interchangeable Spheroidal Pocket Spectacles, which are guaranteed to improve the sight, and never injure the eyes, as they are all accurately ground, and so appearing so nearly genuine that unless by paying particular attention they are liable to be deceived.
