

Governor Stafford, of Arizona, is in town.

Askin & Metzger have received a new carriage.

The Recorder's office is receiving a coat of paint and whitewash.

A number of shade trees have been planted in front of the Synagogue.

The steamer California, carrying freight only, is due at Wilmington today.

Four car-loads of miscellaneous freight were received at the depot yesterday.

The tickets for the school exhibition next Wednesday evening are meeting with a lively sale.

Mr. Gillette, the County Recorder, is enlarging and improving his residence on Hill street.

Justice Gray, who has been on the sick list for a few days, is recovering, and will soon be about again.

A small brick building is being erected in the rear of McDonald's restaurant, on Commercial street.

The citizens of El Monte will apply to the State for assistance to confine the San Gabriel river to its channel.

The Sheriff's sale of property for delinquent taxes proceeded as usual. The sale begins again to-day at 11 o'clock.

The grangers of Florence were to hold a harvest feast yesterday, but owing to the prevalence of scarlatina it was postponed.

The parlor entertainment advertised to come off at the Turner Hall this evening is postponed until the latter part of next week.

Everet Chamberlain, of the Chicago Times, has presented the library with a copy of his interesting work on Chicago and its suburbs.

The Los Angeles District Agricultural Society representatives at the agricultural meeting called together by the State Board of Agriculture at Sacramento.

Yesterday was put down as a dull day by our merchants; the threatening aspect of the weather in the morning probably induced country people to remain at home. To-day we shall see them in town in force.

The WEEKLY HERALD, containing the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors, court record, and a great variety of local and miscellaneous news, was issued yesterday. Extra copies can be obtained at the office.

A couple of savage dogs attacked a man on horseback on Spring street, and were driven off with difficulty. There are a few valuable dogs in the city, but for every one there are a score of worthless curs that ought to be made into sausage at once.

Newmark's communication in relation to the duties on wines, published a few days since in the HERALD, is attracting attention in the State wine-growers meeting at Sacramento, and was considered of sufficient importance to warrant its reference to a special committee.

On Wednesday last, Willie Farris of Florence settlement shot and killed, at a distance of fifty yards, and with small shot, a large bald-headed eagle. It measures seven feet from tip to tip of the wings, and weighed fifty pounds. That may have been a good shot, but it is treating the great American bird very cruelly.

The articles of association of the Los Angeles City and County Printing and Publishing Company have been filed in the office of the Secretary of State. The capital stock is fifteen thousand dollars, and the directors are P. F. Temple, Prudent Beaudry, F. W. Lord, John S. Thompson, Thos. W. Garey, J. W. Potts and J. Bixby.

M. G. Mappa, Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue for this city, has received a communication from the Collector informing him that the provision of the revenue law requiring dealers in furs to sell from the original stamped packages will be rigidly enforced on and after April 1st, and requesting him to notify dealers to that effect. Fancy juries will have to take a back seat hereafter.

Board of Supervisors.

The Board met yesterday and completed the list of grand jurors for the coming year, after which the following general business was transacted:

The bill of Mr. Donaldson for road work was read and referred to the Committee on Roads with the request that they have the bill tented.

The petition asking that Cornelius Gratton be appointed janitor of the Court-house was read and laid on the table.

A petition asking that guideboards be put up on the roads of the county was read and referred to the Commissioner on Roads.

In reference to the petition asking for the opening of a certain road to La Ballona, all parties interested were requested to appear at the next meeting of the Board. The same action was taken in the case of the petition asking for a road from Florence to Los Angeles.

Board adjourned to meet on the first Monday in April.

Blown to Atoms.

On last Friday evening, says the Houghton (Mich.) Mining Gazette extra of February 15th, at about 7:30 o'clock a terrible accident occurred at the Phoenix mine in Keweenaw county, two miles from Keweenaw, the origin of which will probably never be known. Four miners and a subordinate underground officer were preparing in an apartment of a building on the location occupied by the mining captain as his office, a quantity of dynamite, to use that night in making a "sand blast" in the mine. The men were taking the dynamite—100 pounds—from its original package, and transferring it to a bag, when the explosion took place. Besides the dynamite there were three kegs of powder in the room. Three of the men were handling the explosive, the fourth was holding a lighted candle, while the fifth man stood looking on when the explosion occurred. The house was shattered to atoms and the men literally blown to pieces. Captain John Hoatson, underground superintendent of the mine, was in the office, an adjoining room, at the time, seated at his desk, and was struck by some of the flying missiles on the left side of the head and face, receiving such injuries that he died this (Sunday) morning.

There are 250 Granges of Husbandry in Kentucky.

Agricultural Society Matters.

Pursuant to adjournment the State Board of Agriculture met at the Secretary's office at the Pavilion at 3 P. M. yesterday.

President Carey in the chair. Present—Directors Chamberlain, J. J. Green, C. Green, Hamilton, Younger, Cox and Biggs. Reading of the minutes dispensed with.

The Building Committee through their Chairman, Cox, reported progress and asked for further time, which was granted.

The Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations reported progress and was granted further time.

Peter Brandow, suspended at the last State Fair, was reinstated.

A communication from Cyrus Jones & Co. was read and filed.

The Secretary was instructed to answer a communication of Healdsburg Grange No. 18, P. of H., relative to the Board, and the following resolutions in reply to that Grange were ordered transmitted to it and also published:

Whereas, Healdsburg Grange No. 18, P. of H., has caused to be sent abroad a circular containing vague, unfounded charges against the State Agricultural Society and its Board of Directors, which the Board unqualifiedly deny in every part and word; therefore be resolved, in order to satisfy Grange and in answer to its wholly unwarranted attack, as follows:

As to the charge concerning the mismanagement of the affairs of the State Agricultural Society, we deny that any of the avowed objects of the society have been neglected or neglected; and the contrary, the fullest extent each purpose of the society has been fostered and encouraged to the full ability of the association.

And further, as to the alleged mismanagement of the affairs of the society, the Board points with pride to the persons employed and standing of the members of the Board as a complete reply to the untruthful and unwarranted attack of Grange No. 18. That the books of the society have been open to examination, and complete exhibits of its financial affairs have been published, showing the administration to have been discreet and successful in paying off debts long since contracted, awarding liberal premiums and acquiring valuable property.

That the agricultural, mechanical and household arts and the farming interests have in no sense been made secondary considerations, nor has the society conducted "horse-racing" so as to make it "one grand carnival of pool-selling and gambling." The figures quoted by Grange No. 18 from our report of 1872, when properly stated, make the following showing:

Total expenditures.....$47,831 16

Amount of premiums in cash and silver medals..... 9,887 15

Of which $7,294 was cash..... 12,222 00

Amount paid in racing purses..... 10,711 00

Of which amount there was received from business men to purchase, post-privileges and rent of stand..... 10,711 00

Which leaves $1,711 as all the money of the society actually spent for racing premiums. As a further proof that a society money has not been squandered, we cite the fact that the receipts at the Park, separate and distinct from the Pavilion receipts, for the exhibition of 1872, were $15,337 50, thus showing a clear gain of $13,626 50 from the Park attractions, which was used in advancing all the interests of the society. The receipts of the Pavilion during the same period were $8,993 50.

That in relation to speed trials and exhibitions the Board has followed the established custom of the society for years and the manifest demand of public opinion, as exhibited in the success which has met the same. When public sentiment and patronage shall be sufficient to enable the society to accomplish its ends without the attractions of the track, the policy of abolishing all speed exhibitions may be timely considered. That the erection of the grand stand, to which Grange No. 18 strenuously objects, is not to be wholly for racing purposes, but is to be used, in common with the general use of the Park, as a stock ground, and for viewing in comfort the daily stock parades and other exhibitions, which have at late fairs been attended by the people in numbers that have not been equalled in the history of the State.

That in relation to the fact that the alleged liability of contamination of the people by attendance on the State Fairs, we indignantly repudiate the aspersion impliedly cast upon the people of California by Grange No. 18, and repel with pride to the fact admitted by all observant visitors from abroad, that the assemblage of people at the State Fairs of California is more orderly and reputable than those gathered on most great public occasions and festivals in other States; and that the ill-dressed and disreputable persons hanging upon the outskirts of great assemblages are less in number and kept in closer check than in any other State in the Union, and in proof of this we cite the conduct of the last State Fair especially. Finally, we call attention to the fact that upon our Board, out of ten members, seven are practical and extensive farmers and stockraisers, and no member of the Board has ever exhibited a horse at a speed programme in any race anywhere. That the attendance at these fairs has rapidly increased and the exhibition in all its departments greatly advanced, the exhibition of stock in 1873 having been proven to be the best, most varied and extensive ever made in the Union, and the exhibition of agricultural implements and machines being the best yet given; and as a last reply to Grange No. 18, we refer to the fact that the Board of Supervisors, in its report of 1872, has recommended that the State Board of Agriculture be organized, and that the Secretary be appointed by the Board.

Adopted March 5, 1874, and signed by all the members of the Board present.

R. S. CAREY,

FREDERICK COX,

COLEMAN YOUNGER,

THOS. L. CHAMBERLAIN,

T. J. GREEN,

CHRIS. GREEN,

MARION BIGGS,

ROBERT HAMILTON,

ROBERT BECK, Secretary.

[Sac. Union, March 4th.

The Sonoma Democrat of February 27th says that Lynch, a veteran publisher and editor, died at Ukiah City on Friday, the 20th inst. Mr. Lynch was formerly of Plumas county, where he published the Standard. He established the Mendocino Democrat, afterwards the Independent Democrat at Mendocino City. At the time of his death he was publishing the Dispatch at Ukiah City. Mr. Lynch was a clear and forcible writer, in his best days he had no superior in his line in the State.

The Mendocino Murder.

UKIAH, February 25.—On last Monday Deputy Sheriff L. Stanley arrived in this town, having in charge Mr. Alexander and his partner, Giger, of Sheswood valley, in arrest for the murder of Mrs. Strong. The body of the unfortunate lady was found by an Indian last Saturday. It was discovered in a deep gorge in the mountains, three miles from her house. In concealing the body the murderers had deposited it in a crevice in the bed of a stream. This stream, swollen by the late storms, covered the body with a depth of several feet of water. The place of concealment was also under a fall in the creek of some fifteen feet, so that the creek in full volume shot clear over the body, and continued to hide it from view when the first search was made. At the time of the finding only the feet remained exposed, the body being weighed down with stones. In the first search this dark gorge was thoroughly examined, but told no tale of the horrible deed, with which it is now so gloomily associated, and the very spot of the finding was sounded with long poles.

At last the water subsided, and a straying Indian making his way from the mouth of the gorge saw the exposed feet of the body, and continued to hide it from view when the first search was made. At the time of the finding only the feet remained exposed, the body being weighed down with stones. In the first search this dark gorge was thoroughly examined, but told no tale of the horrible deed, with which it is now so gloomily associated, and the very spot of the finding was sounded with long poles.

Upon attempting to remove the body it was found to be held in place by large stones, the body and contents united effort of two men with a crowbar to remove it. A night-dress, a calico wrapper, shoes and stockings was all the apparel it had on. An examination showed that death had been caused by a gunshot wound in the neck. The ball had entered the back and left side of the head, passing through and fracturing the skull over the right eye, and remaining just under the frontal bone. Thus, after several days of expectation and excited search by a large number of people from all parts of the country, persisted in through storm and snow, by camping out in the inhospitable mountains, the truth is realized that a cold-blooded and atrocious murder had been committed. The victim of this terrible depravity and fiendish malice was an old lady of 50 years, who was taken from her bed at night, forced to travel over the mountains through the most pitiless storm of the season, and amid the terrors of the night and the solitude murdered in cowardly heartlessness, and her body laid away as described.

From the statement of Deputy Sheriff Stanley, it appears that the first thing found to indicate the direction taken by the murderers was a comb, found near where the horse had been shot. This gave a slight clue, but proved to be of much service. Upon finding the comb, the Sheriff related, the Sheriff placed a guard over it, he himself remaining all night with the suspected parties. These parties are the same who caused the arrest of Mr. Strong last summer on a charge of grand larceny in stealing a cow, and securing his conviction and sentence to the State Prison. Suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summoning the jury he placed the best men of the place on the jury as a precaution against hanging by the mob. This was a wise precaution as it proved, for had they been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, a suspicion was also strengthened by the rumor that in the search one of these men, when near the spot of concealment, asked the other, "Is she still concealed?"

Sunday morning the Deputy Sheriff summoned a coroner's jury, and left to make the arrests, which he did without difficulty. In summon