

Palmetto Oil cures everything. G. W. Morgan has money to loan. The Mohongo sailed for San Diego yesterday.

The telegraph line was not in working order last night.

The Pacific leaves for San Francisco and way ports to-day. Passengers will take the 4 P. M. train.

Remember that Mr. Saxton's entertainment comes off next Saturday evening in Turner's Hall.

Mr. S. Levy, the commission merchant, will ship a large quantity of fallow to San Francisco to-day.

Splendid five-acre lots for $650. Located one mile this side of the race track. Apply to Kimball & Bancroft.

"Spanish Joe," arrested on suspicion of having committed the recent robbery at Anaheim, has been discharged.

The Kalorama sails to-day. Passengers will take the 10 A. M. train, instead of that at 4 P. M., as previously announced.

Sheriff Rowland, with the remainder of the party who kept Vasquez company to San Francisco, returned by the coast stage line yesterday.

Adolph Portugal is doing a rushing business now-a-days. He has one of the most complete stocks in the city, and sells at the most reasonable figures.

Milauonowitz, charged with unlawfully taking water from a zanja, was yesterday before Justice Gray. His case was continued until this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

We have a few of the HERALD pamphlets still remaining. Those who wish copies to send to their friends should secure them at once, before the edition is exhausted.

Attention is directed to an advertisement in another part of the paper, which announces the military ball to come off on Tuesday evening of next week. A grand affair is expected.

George Baker, the well known hack driver, was united in matrimonial bonds to Miss Felicia D. Ouge last Sunday. The knot was tied by one of the Fathers in the Catholic Church.

We wish the newly made unit much sunshine and pleasant weather through life.

Examinations were conducted yesterday in Miss Porter's school, Alameda street, and Mr. Sullivan's school, San Pedro street. We understand that they passed off quite successfully.

This morning the examination was taken up in Miss Bent's department, Eighth street, and Miss Baker's school, Spring street. In the afternoon the schools of Mrs. Dubois and Miss Luckey will receive their share of attention.

Banks, who was arrested on a peace-warrant sworn out before Justice Gray last Saturday, put in his appearance in Court yesterday and secured a continuance of the case until Saturday next. Both parties in the difficulty are farmers living some thirty miles from the city.

Through this affair they will lose much valuable time, some money and a great deal of their amiable temper. Better quit fighting and join the Grange.

Mr. W. T. Farris, of Florence, brought to our sanctum yesterday two large bunches of currants grown on his place, which were the finest we have ever seen, without an exception.

The specimens came from bunches of the cherry currant variety, three years old, and the branches were heavily laden with large, luscious fruit nearly the size of the cherry, from which its name is derived. Mr. Farris can challenge the world on his currants, with good assurance of carrying off the palm.

The new mining discoveries north of the city are attracting much attention. Mr. Bell informed us yesterday that the members of the company owning the claims have paid in their first assessments, and work will now be commenced in good earnest to ascertain the value of the leads. Thus far the indications have been all that can be desired, and there can scarcely be a doubt but that there is an immense mass of ore in the ledges containing gold and silver in paying quantities. We may expect to have a quartz mill in operation there within six months.

THE PUENTE RANCH TRAGEDY.

Final Particulars.—Inquest on the Body of El Gordo.—The Condition of Mr. Turner and Wife.—Another Letter from the Monte Boys.

Aside from the reports already furnished our readers, there are no developments concerning the robbery at Puente Ranch which throw any light on the subject. A jury summoned by Coroner Richardson proceeded to the place of the tragedy last Saturday, and after hearing evidence, returned a verdict stating that the deceased was named Jesus Romo, aged about twenty-two years, a native of Sonora, Mexico, and that he came to his death by hanging, at the hands of a party or parties unknown.

CONSTABLE B. R. BRYANT, Of the Monte, testified that on Friday he went in search of the man Romo, together with a posse of men from the Monte. They found him concealed at the junction of Puente creek and San Gabriel river, and after wounding him took him prisoner. Afterwards the Mexican was taken to the house of Mr. Turner and there identified as the man who had attempted the murder and robbery, starting with the prisoner for El Monte, he was overtaken by a party of masked men after going a short distance, and the man taken from his custody. He knew nothing more of the affair. Had heard in the evening that a man was hung near the place.

Ramone Moreno also testified, but could furnish no evidence against the men who had executed Romo.

From the facts elicited the jury concluded its sitting, with the result given. The verdict was signed by T. Jeff. White, John B. McMurry, C. M. Small, Thomas J. Bedford, Ernest Neitzke and T. H. Kelly.

It is said that Romo disclaimed having any hand in the Overend massacre.

THE VICTIMS OF THE ASSAULT. Mr. Turner continues to improve, and is very near convalescent. Mrs. Turner was confined Saturday, giving birth to a dead child. This was apprehended by the physicians as the very least possible result of the terrible assault which Mrs. Turner's system sustained. The lady's condition is now quite favorable, and her speedy recovery is almost assured. Dr. Bryant of the Monte is in attendance.

FROM THE MONTE BOYS.

EL MONTE, June 7th.

EDITOR HERALD: In your comments on the capture of El Gordo, you said "that a reward had been offered," etc. Not one of the Monte boys or men have received, nor would they take, one cent of reward; nor was it offered them. They captured the assassin, found the money and stolen goods and delivered the prisoner to the officer, the goods and money to Mr. Lomfaum, one of the proprietors of the story, and went home and had no hand whatever with Judge Lynch. Reward was not the incentive which actuated them, but the hellish deed which had been committed upon our friend and neighbor. We had no reward except the reward of satisfaction, which we fully realized in the capture of El Gordo, and his judgment and execution. We captured and delivered the man up, and there were enough, without us to execute the law of Judge Lynch.

MONTE BOYS.

Benefit to Miss Anna Elzer.

To-morrow evening the Fabbris will furnish their farewell entertainment in the city, at the same time tendering a benefit to the young and talented Anna Elzer. The troupe will be materially assisted by some of our amateurs, who have kindly volunteered their services. An attractive programme has been arranged, including "Dor Freischutz," a romantic opera to be presented in costume; "La Traviata," which will be brought out even more fully and brilliantly than on last Saturday evening, and a fine selection of songs, ballads, etc. Prof. Mulder Fabris, Mr. Mendel Meyer and Señor Aravelo will furnish a trio concertants for piano, violin and guitar, which promises to be a rare musical treat. Miss Elzer has already established herself as a favorite in the estimation of all who were present at the previous entertainment, and we bespeak for her a hearty expression of regard from our citizens to-morrow evening.

LETTER FROM COMPTON.

A Traveler with His Eyes Open.—Wheat Fields.—Grangers.—The Co-operative Store Movement.

EDITOR HERALD: Having been out among the Grangers, I thought perhaps a few items might be of interest to the many readers of the HERALD. I am pleased to report that I find unprecedented prosperity among the farmers as far as I have been throughout the county. Finer crops of corn, barley, rye and wheat it has scarce ever been my good fortune to see; and right here let me express my surprise at having so often heard the remark that wheat could not be successfully grown in Los Angeles county. Around the foot hills above old Los Nietos, I saw fine fields of wheat, looking splendid and not having the least been affected with rust.

AROUND SPADRA

There are fields of wheat that I think will make from forty to fifty bushels per acre. After what I have seen in my travels through this county, I am astonished to think that we import nearly all the flour we use. Of course in my travels I have heard the old complaint of "hard times," but, sir, it does seem to me that the farmers ought to be able this year to clear their farms of debt and once more get their names off the retail merchant's books, and to be able at the close of this season to give one long, loud shout of liberty. I find the Grangers all looking with anxiety and expectation to this co-operative movement, that is now underway in your city.

MEN OF CAPITAL.

Men of small means, and widows and young girls have taken stock (of course widows and young ladies are zealous "Patrons of Husbandry"). The Grangers have for a long time been doing "wind work;" now they propose to do work of a more substantial nature. Already there is a "troubling of the waters," and where we have heretofore been treated with a careless indifference we are now treated with marked respect. There have been some very sudden conversions, and middlemen are now anxious to establish the fact that they have always been

"THE FARMER'S FRIEND."

We can't see it, gentlemen; we can't see it. And now we propose to put a "Methodist test;" Prove your faith by your works. Some have done so. Two enterprising merchants of Spadra, being Grangers, each took stock in the co-operative store, thereby proving themselves the farmer's friends.

Compton Grange, and, in fact, this fine neighborhood, is in a prosperous condition. We have, of course, a few old fogies in our settlement, who think we should do as our grandfathers did, but taken as a whole there are as many "live men" in this section of country as any place of the same size in the State of California, and yet there is room for more. We need here, as all over the county, hard-headed, honest-hearted tillers of the soil. This county is well supplied with lawyers, doctors and preachers. What we need now is material for Grangers. A hint to the wise is sufficient. Pardon this long letter, and I will not do so any more.

GRANGER.

Compton, June 6, 1874.

Serious Accident.

Yesterday afternoon another serious accident happened at the Marysville Flouring Mills. J. H. Lee, the engineer, was engaged at the rear of the boilers on the brick-work of the arch, about six feet from the ground, making some repairs. The iron plates, weighing about one hundred pounds each, which cover the man-holes of the boilers, were down on the edge of the wall, and while Lee was moving about one of his feet caught under these irons, and himself and the two iron plates were precipitated to the ground below. Lee fell partially on his hands and knees, and one of the iron plates struck edgewise across his left hand in a diagonal line, bruising and cutting it in a horrible manner.—[Marysville Appeal.

A Long Walk for a Woman.

A woman passed through Truckee at 5 o'clock yesterday morning who has walked the entire distance from Kansas City. She has followed the railroad track closely, and has had some fifty days in making the trip. Nearly every conductor and brakeman on the road between Omaha and Truckee have observed her. She was very reticent in conversation, but claimed to have a respectable husband and some property in California, whom she was seeking. Numerous offers were made her of a ride on the freight trains, all of which she promptly refused. She declined trusting herself to the dangers and uncertainties of railway travel, and walked every step of the way. Her dress consisted of a pair of loose Turkish drawers made of canvass, similar in texture to that used by miners for hose in hydraulicing. A wool sack protected her neck and chest, and a small white shawl was wrapped around her shoulders. In height and size she was rather below the medium. Her features were rather coarse, and, as may be supposed, severely bronzed by exposure to the sun and weather. The distance from Winnemucca to Wadsworth—109 miles—was covered in four days, at the rate of thirty-four miles in a day. She made no halt in passing through Truckee. A great many persons here were aware of her coming, but thought she would not make her grand entry until about the middle of the forenoon yesterday, but the walk of this remarkable pedestrian was "mysterious and past finding out," and she strode on ahead of time, arriving here at such an early hour that scarcely a dozen were able to take observations of the event. It had been the intention to give made woman a sort of triumphant reception in Truckee (and surely the occasion warranted it), but she stole the march on us and passed along rapidly, silently and determinedly, as if bent on an important mission, the fulfillment of which admitted of no delay, circumlocution, speech-making or public receptions. The case is, we venture to say, one of the most singular on record. It has more significance than the forthcoming of the transit of Venus, or the petty walks of such pedestrians as Weston. What will be the fate of that truant husband of hers when she gets her hands fairly locked in his hair it is not difficult to conjecture. Better would it have been for him had he never been born. There will not be rocks nor mountains enough in California to cover him from her enraged sight.—[Truckee Republican, June 4th.

THE CONVERSATION CLASS OF MINNEAPOLIS

has been discussing the merits of Tennyson as a poet. One member, who rejoices in the title of "Professor," informed his hearers that Tennyson "is a third-class poet," and that in his estimation Dickens was a far greater poet than the author of "In Memoriam." "A poet," said the learned Professor, "should have a great soul. Tennyson is a very small pattern of a man. He fell in love when he fifteen years old, and has continued so ever since. Out of eighty-four poems he has written, sixty-seven are on love." Another thought "Tennyson did his best in a can and iron strain," and when somebody suggested a likeness between the Laureate and Wordsworth, he retorted that "Tennyson is about as much like Wordsworth as a jeweler is like a blacksmith." A reverend gentleman admired Tennyson because he had "a little of the spread-eagle style about him, while a doctor thought him "superficial, like our society," and unable to do anything better than the Idyls. He added that "The Princess" reminded him of the rag-tag and bob-tail thoughts of a man of talent in a delirium."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIPIFAX.

This remarkable curative herbal preparation is entirely unlike and greatly superior to any other recuperant ever discovered.

It strengthens the living vital nervous principle, and gives energy to the muscles, nerves, filaments, membranes, and all tissues of the internal organs.

PIPIFAX—Keeps the skin in a supple condition; the cuticle pliant; the pores open; and brings the blood to the surface; thereby enabling the system to counteract these baneful atmospheric influences.

PIPIFAX—Passes through the blood, carries off by perspiration and other excretions the effete and injurious materials of the body. It is soothing, alterative and defecative. Used methodically and rationally, and fed by suitable diet, it produces most important changes in the system, contributing to the reconstruction of tissues, and removes vitiated matter which has become not only useless but injurious. No other article has ever been introduced which combines in such an extraordinary degree the principles of an efficient antibilious agent and tonic. Try it and be convinced.
