WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 7, 1858.

THE LITTLE COURTESIES OF LIFE.

"A kindly word, a pleasant smile, are better far than gold."

A friend, some time since, came to us and expressed great amazement at what he regarded as an act of unkindness on the part of a gifted and accomplished gentleman to whom he had rendered a valuable service. He was quite excited at the time, not that he cared so much for the circumstance, but because it was calculated to dim the high picture which he had formed in his mind of the nature of the man. He had set him up as the model of a Christian gentleman, the very embodiment of a finished, polished, graceful and dignified character. And yet, to his surprise, he found that he lacked one of the great essentials, namely, common courtesy, or ordinary good nature. In other words, he had either refused or declined to answer a note that had been declined to him on his business, and this refusal was kept for days, until it became necessary to refresh his memory and offer one or two sharp admonitory remarks. But this was no extraordinary case. It is but one of thousands. The little courtesies of daily life, the kindly and graceful amenities which are so admirably calculated to sweeten the relations between man and man, and to impart a genial spirit to our social every day intercourse, are too frequently neglected. We either forget, or we overlook them. We do not sufficiently appreciate self-respect, or the feelings and good wishes of others. This is the more culpable, for courtesy and kindness are at the command of all classes—the poor as well as rich, the humble as well as the elevated. There are some persons who are so elevated, that it is worth while to note or to think it worth while to reply to a note or an invitation, unless some other person is matter be involved. There are others again, who never omit such an act of courtesy and duty. In the first case, misunderstandings, irritations and unkindnesses will inevitably occur, and in the last, all these will be avoided. Some one has observed, truly and forcibly, that the little courtesies of life should be regarded as among the minor virtues, and their practice should be encouraged and cultivated from early youth. What, indeed, could be more delightful than the interchange of civility, kindness, and good will, on all proper occasions between friends and neighbors? What is so calculated to soften the rugged path of existence, and to give to the human heart agreeable feelings? Some time since a gentleman and lady were betrothed, and the proposed union was looked upon in the most approving manner by the parents of both parties.

It so happened that the former had occasion to visit Europe, and to remain abroad a something like six months. He wrote home elaborately, or a few words, by every packet; but during the whole of this period, he received but three letters in reply, and of a character so brief, as to show that the fair correspondent took very little interest either in the subject or the object to whom the epistles were addressed. The effect was to annoy, irritate, create a coolness, and finally to break off the match. The truth is, no one likes to be treated either with indifference or contempt. A sense of self-pride revolts against such conduct. The courtesy we extend to others, we naturally and properly desire to see extended to ourselves in return. Reciprocity is the very soul of amonny, friendship, and good feeling. A sensitive individual will be aggrieved and wounded, as by an open and studied insult. By courtesy, we do not mean affectation, hollow pretence, shallow hypocrisy, and artificial manners. On the contrary, these are all miserable counterfeits. But we refer to a genial, generous, and kindly spirit, a sense of appreciation, a recognition of equality, a truthful air, and a frank and manly bearing. Not a day goes by, in which all these qualities cannot be exhibited more or less, especially in the sphere, and among the friends with whom we move and mingle. There is, on the other hand, nothing more unworthy, unmanly, plebeian and mean, than a disposition to please over and insult, not directed, perhaps, but indirectly, towards those who in some sense may seem to depend upon us, or whom, in the exercise of a false pride, we may imagine we can outrage with impunity. The little courtesies of life never shine so sweetly or brightly, as when they are manifested by the rich towards the poor, or by the powerful towards the weak. They then become a grace and embellishment of the character, and while they adorn the one party with a moral lustre, they kindle in the hearts of the other, will, but kindness, affection, and good-will. But courtesy is never out of use. It is never thrown away. It always has its effect, and sometimes it tells far more efficiently than formal services, or in heavy obligations.—Philadelphian Inquirer.

LABLACHE'S ABSENCE OF MIND. Few are there in the world who are not acquainted with the talents of Lablache, but his occasional absence of mind is not so universally known. When last at Naples he was sent for to the palace, entered the waiting room, and, till called to his Majesty, conversed with the courtiers in attendance. Having a cold in his head he requested permission to keep on his hat. Getting into full discourse, he was suddenly startled by the gentleman in waiting crying out: "His Majesty demands the presence of Signor Lablache." In his eagerness to obey the royal summons he forgot the hat he had on his head, and, snatching up another, thus entered the King's cabinet. Being received with a most hearty laugh, Lablache was confounded, but at length recovered himself, and respectfully asked his Majesty what had excited his hilarity. "My dear Lablache," replied the King, "pray tell me of the two hats you have got with you in your own, that on your head or that in your hand? Or, perhaps, you have brought both as a measure of precaution, in case you should leave me behind you?" "Ah! maledetto!" distasteful, on discovering his entourage, "two hats are, indeed, too many for a man who has no head."—Courier Francaise.

MARYLAND STATE LOTTERIES.—R. FRANCE & CO., MANAGERS.—CAUTION NOTICE.—Persons living at a distance should be extremely cautious of whom they order Lottery Tickets or Certificates of Packages of Tickets. The country is full of swindlers, who are holding out to get persons to invest money in them.—Capital Prizes of from $50,000 to $100,000 head their schemes—with tickets at one Dollar.—$100,000 Capital Prizes are offered. Tickets $5. All such in every instance, are frauds; and if received, will be a waste of money. Beware of all Lotteries where the Capital Prize is unusually large. In every instance where large prizes are offered for a small cost of tickets, put it down as a certain fraud. The Kentucky State Lottery for the benefit of the Shelby College, under our management, is the only Lottery in the United States which is legally decided by the Maryland Drawings; all other Lotteries which purport to be decided by the Maryland Drawings, are frauds. Purchase in the Maryland State Lotteries, then you are sure of being right. And in ordering in the Maryland Lotteries, you are sure of fair and honest drawings. One thing look to in Baltimore, do not from any printer or dealer in tickets, but from our Printed Certificates of packages. The Managers' Certificates have the numbers printed, and have the lithographed signature of R. France & Co. No one has a right to send his individual certificates, and if he does it he is a fraud at the bottom of it. R. FRANCE & CO., Managers of Maryland State Lotteries, feb 15-3mo

HOWARD ASSOCIATION, PHILADELPHIA.—A benevolent Institution, established by special endorsement for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with contagious and epidemic diseases, such as Spasmodic Cholera, Cholera, Typhoid, Typhus, and other diseases, and for the relief of the aged, infirm, and indigent. The Association, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by sexual diseases, and the deceptions practised upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon as a charitable act, worthy of their name, to open a Dispensary for the treatment of all classes of diseases, in the city of Alexandria, and to give Medical advice gratis, to all who apply by letter with a description of their condition, (age, occupation, habits of life, &c.) and in cases of extreme poverty, to furnish Medicines free of charge. It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved modern treatment. The Directors, on a review of the past, feel assured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort, have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with renewed zeal, to this very important but much despised cause. This published by the Association, a Report on Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, &c. (in a sealed letter envelope) free of charge, on receipt of two stamps for postage. Address, for Report or treatment, Dr. GEORGE R. CALHOUN, Consulting Surgeon, Howard Association, No. 2 south Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa. By order of the Directors, EZRA D. HEARTWELL, President. GEORGE FAIRBANK, Secretary. Philadelphia, sep 4-41100wvly
