

THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 23, 1858.

IN HIS SEA.

Dr. Greenwood, on the "Poetry and Mystery of the Sea," writes. "What is there more sublime than the trackless desert, all-surrounding unfeeling sea? What is there more fearfully sublime than the calm, gently heaving, silent sea? What is there more terribly sublime than the angry, dashing, foaming sea?"

"And oh! yet more affecting to the heart and mysterious to the mind, what companies of human beings are bucked up in that wide, weltering, unsearchable grave of the sea?—Where are the bodies of those lost ones over whom the melancholy waves alone have been chanting requiem? What shrouds were wrapped round the limbs of beauty, and of manhood, and of placid infancy when they were laid on the dark floor of that secret tomb? Where are the bones, that of the brave and the timid, the good and the bad, the parent, the child, the wife, the husband, the brother, the sister, the lover, which have been tossed and scattered and buried by the washing, wasting, wandering sea?—The journeying winds may sigh as year after year they pass over their beds. The solitary rain-cloud may weep in darkness over the mingled remains which lie strewn in that unvisited cemetery. But who shall tell the bereaved to what spot their affections may cling? And where shall human tears be shed throughout that solemn requiem? It is mystery all. When shall it be resolved? Who shall find it out? Who but He to whom the wildest waves listen reverently, and to whom all nature bows: He who shall one day speak, and be heard in ocean's profoundest caves; to show up the deep, even the lowest deep, shall give up its dead, and the souls shall sink, and the bones be rolled together like a snow, and there shall be no more sea!"

Neighbor T.—had a social party at his house a few evenings since, and the "dear boy," Charles, a five-year old colt, was favored with permission to be seen in the parlor. "Pa" is somewhat proud of his boy, and Charles was of course, elaborately gotten up for so great an occasion. Among other liberties, the little fellow's hair was treated to a liberal supply of eau de cologne, to his huge gratification. As he entered the parlor, and made his bow to the ladies and gentlemen—"Look here, to me, he proudly, "if any of you smells a smell, that's me!"

The effect was decided, and Charles, having thus in one brief sentence delivered an illustrative essay on human vanity, was the hero of the evening.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF DR. WEBSTER, A SCOTCH MINISTER.—In 1774, Dr. Webster was a popular preacher of the Kirk of Scotland, in Edinburgh. Business brought him to London, and one day, when passing the House of Lords, his curiosity induced him to make an effort to step in and see them. None were admitted without an order, except nobleman's servants. Webster being ignorant of the rule, requested admittance.

"What lord do you belong to?" said the doorkeeper. "To the Lord Jehovah," replied Webster. "The Lord Jehovah," repeated the keeper, "I have kept here seven years, but I have never heard of such a lord." "Jack," said he to his fellow-keeper on the front steps, "there's a chap who says he belongs to Lord Jehovah; don't you know such a lord?"

"Never heard of him," says Jack. "But," says Webster, (willing to keep up the illusion), "there is such a lord." "Pars' em in," said Jack, "I'll pose it's some poor Scotch lord."

This occurred at a period when there was not one in twenty of all the manufacturing and rural districts in England, who could read the Bible or write his own name. Sabbath schools were introduced in 1788, and the people are now intelligent and happy, and can not only read and write, but have found out what the "Lord Jehovah" is.—Grand Thorough.

COMMUNICATED. I saw in the Gazette a short time since, an extract from a sermon preached by a Reverend gentleman, which was thought to be strong in figure, but if the following contained in a sermon preached in a neighboring County, a week ago, does not eclipse it or any other that has ever been delivered in this region, I am much mistaken. On last Sunday, there was preached in a not distant county, a sermon, and the minister, when speaking of Satan's power over sinners, said—

"He would lash them with the rugged hooks of black damnation, and draw them through the slippery pangs of hell, run them through with the red hot plough of the wrath of God, and burn their guilty souls with the iron hooked harrows of vengeance."

TO MRS. MARIA BUTTOLPH and Mr. DORSEY GARDNER.—Takes notice, that on the first day of the next November term of the County Court for Alexandria, the Alexandria, Loudoun and Hampshire Railroad Company will apply to the said Court, for the appointment of Commissioners, for the purpose of ascertaining a just compensation for a certain lot of ground belonging to you, at the intersection of Princess street, being on the east side of Fairfax street, and on the north side of Prince street in the city of Alexandria, which said lot is proposed to be taken by the said Company, for its purposes.
