

The Army of the Cumberland.

[From the Washington Chronicle.]

Things are unchanged, with the exception that the Confederates have removed their artillery from Lookout Mountain, where they have had about ten pieces in position, and appear to have somewhat withdrawn their forces. It is supposed they will concentrate their artillery on Mission Ridge. Some of the Confederate pieces are heavy, and all seem to carry well. They held both Lookout Mountain and Mission Ridge, from which they throw shells on both the 4th and 5th instant. On the latter day about 150 shells were thrown. They, however, inflicted no damage beyond wounding three men, and killing one horse.

The Federal forces have several lines of entrenchments, and extensive earthworks are still going up. The plan of the Confederates appears not to make an attack in front, but to compel them to abandon Chattanooga by simply holding them in their present position, with their army in their front, annoying them with their artillery, and breaking their lines of communication by cavalry raids in their rear.

MY SISTER SLEEPS.

My sister sleeps—lovely blossom of Heaven, Ah why wert thou summoned so early away:
Why so soon was the bond of our sisterhood given.

And I left alone on the cold earth to stay; Why wert thou not spared to delight and to cheer

My desolate heart midst depression and gloom;
Why thy love breathing counsels to gladden my ear.

With thy smiles and thy songs to enliven my home?

Sleep on my sweet Sister! it is better to rest In the halls of the dead, than to linger in life, Where the brain and the bosom with pain are oppressed,
And the soul is beleaguered by sorrow and strife.

Sleep on! though no blossoms your home are perfuming
There is calmness and freedom from discord and care.

The lovely and beautiful days are coming,
And in my pale vesture I soon shall be there.

The banquet tendered by the merchants and lawyers of New York to the Admiral and officers of the Russian fleet, took place on Monday at the Astor House with more than usual eclat.
Among the invited guests was Henry Winter Davis, of Baltimore, whose response to the second regular toast—

"The President of the United States, the elected leader of the Nation, which is solving the problem of self government and freedom,"— is thus alluded to by the Daily News: Mr.
Davis responded to this toast. He paid a high compliment to the resolution and sagacity of the Executive. None would speak with higher reverence of that officer than himself.— Mr. Davis then paid a high eulogium to the character of the people. He desired to know where personal liberty had been violated in this country. He differed from the words of the toast; the problem of self-government was no experiment—it was a reality. The speaker then drew a parallel between the changes that had taken place in European countries, compared with the stability of American institutions. He concluded his address with a high eulogium on Russian power, which, he said, was equalled only by American freedom—a general pitching into European Powers, an Abolition review of the present war, and a general invocation of Providential blessings on the head of the President."

Alabama papers of a late date say that a conflict of authority has taken place between the State and Confederate authorities in Butler county, Alabama, which has caused great excitement among the people. The town of Greenville is especially excited. The provost guard had been fired upon, and one person killed.

In Rochester, N. Y. last week, as a mother and her daughter were walking in Exchange st., a young fellow (a soldier it is said,) walked up and took the girl from her mother, put her into a hack, and drove off. The mother made such defence as she could, striking out with her umbrella, seriously damaging the girl's millinery, and made such an outcry that she was finally put into a carriage and taken home.
The young 'una proceeded to a minister or a magistrate and were duly married.

The government is providing amply for the protection of its property in Washington from fire. Two thousand feet of new hose has been ordered for the three steam fire-engines it has in that city.

Wm. Lomax, jr., a young Boston lawyer charged with forgery, plead guilty on Monday.

A RUNAWAY MATCH.—Yesterday morning, Mr. J. A. Douglass, from Alexandria, arrived in this city in pursuit of his daughter, who had eloped with a young man named B. F. Langley, to be married. The parent stated that the daughter is a minor; but he would not have cared so much if the young man had suited him. The marriage took place on Sunday afternoon, and the father met his daughter and her husband at noon yesterday, on the corner of Seventh street and the avenue. The meeting was an excited one, the father demanding his daughter and the husband freezing to his wife. Quite a crowd assembled around them, and took sides respectively for the father and the husband. The police came and dispersed the crowd, and the husband and wife departed in the direction of the Alexandria boat landing, followed by the excited parent.

In the afternoon, after the police had dispersed the crowd, and the father, husband and daughter had started as if to go to the steamboat wharf, Mr. B. F. Langley was arrested in the Seventh Ward for "taking possession of a girl by marriage under age," which case was dismissed by Justice Boswell, and the bride, Isabella Langley, was arrested for "absconding from her father," and she was returned to her father. So the case stands for the present.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer states that the U. S. National debt now amounts to twelve hundred and twenty two millions seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars; and that Mr. Chittenden, the Register of the Treasury, stated in a speech in Washington, that on Monday three hundred and fifty thousand dollars worth of United States bonds were issued to foreign brokers, and the U. S Government has money now on hand with which to pay the entire army for the month of November, which money was furnished by foreign capitalists.

The New York correspondents of the Philadelphia Enquirer says:—"There are symptoms of renewed trouble among some of the working classes, and the trouble is of such a character that it may lead to serious riots if not nipped in the bud. A body of men, nearly two hundred in number, just after dark, last night assembled in front of the Sugar warehouse of Messrs. Moller, Hogg & Martin, No.
33 Corlears street, near the East River, and threatened to burn down the building, as well as to attack a number of workmen that were just leaving it for home. The police fortunately arrived at the warehouse in season to save it;" and other riotous demonstrations are reported.

The Cumberland Coal and Iron Company, have gained their suit against the Hoffman Mining Co., which has been long pending before the Maryland courts. The stock has advanced 10 per cent.

The Theatre last night was again crowded to its utmost capacity, and the performance passed off to the entire satisfaction of all present. The bill for to-night is a fine one.

Heavy firing, in the direction of Manassas, was heard yesterday evening and this morning.

By the 1st of November the Invalid Corps will number 12,000 men. They will fill the places of 10,000 men who are being sent to their respective regiments in the field.

SEVERAL GENTLEMEN can be accommodated with LODGINGS, at No. 142 Duke street.
