A CARD. ALEXANDRIA, VA., April 27, 1867. James A. English, Esq. SIR.—On examining the books of the Treasurer of the Corporation for 1861, from the time you entered on the duties of the Auditor, to the time you vacated the office, I find the Corporation denominated by the Auditor $1,800 in due bills of denomination of 1's and 2's, signed by me as Auditor. I cannot find any vouchers or warrants in relation to the issue of these notes; but my impression now is, that they were issued by order of Finance Committee in place of like amount of mutilated notes destroyed. The Corporation getting the benefit of the amount. Yours, Respectfully, JOHN B. SMOOT.

I suppose that the above note from John B. Smoot, Esq., Chairman of the Finance Committee of Council for 1861, will relieve the minds of those persons who were so anxious on Tuesday evening last, in Council, to ascertain by what authority I had signed certain due bills referred to in the debate of said Council, and who those who were engaged in it will be more careful in future how they speak of others during their absence.
