Relics of Napoleon the First.

The Paris International states that a few days ago the Emperor received from Baron Oebenau Feldschlar, son of the guardian of the Duke de Reichstadt about 120 objects which once belonged to the great Napoleon. These were bequeathed by the Emperor to his son. They consist of:

Three uniforms, one of the National Guard, the second of infantry grenadiers of the National Guard, and the third of the infantry chasseurs of the Guard. On each of these is the plate of the grand eagle of the Legion of Honor.

A much worn black coat used by the Emperor when he wished to go incognito from the Tuileries. Napoleon at St. Helena not wishing to receive clothing from the English, had his old French garments mended till they were shabby.

A capote of green cloth with two rows of buttons. This was the last dress which the Emperor wore before he retired to the bed from which he never arose.

An old round hat with a very low crown, smaller below than above.

A blue cloak embroidered with gold on the collar. This cloak, which he wore on the field of battle, covered the bed of state on which he was laid after his death, and on his coffin.—When laid out on the state-bed the English garrison defiled through the room, each soldier saluting the corpse, and each pressing with respect the cold hand. A sergeant accompanied by a son of seven years, knelt at the feet of the dead, and exclaimed, weeping, "My son, there is what was Napoleon the Great!"

A three-cornered hat, lined with green taffety and wadded. This head dress, celebrated as the helmet of the conquered hero of Pavia, is in a very bad condition, but very imposing by association. It seems as if no one could look at it without beholding under the little cockade the countenance before which all the flags of Europe had bowed.

A gray capote, so much worn that it can hardly be touched. This article of Napoleon's dress is very curious, and it is probable that the Emperor attached a certain importance to its possession. With it he left the island of Elba and traversed France; he wore it at Waterloo; and had borne it at Lutten.

A pair of silver spoons.
Two silver bottles which held water, used on hunting excursions.
A telescope, a lavabo, and field dressing case, all of silver.

The cordons and jewelry of the orders which decorated the dress of the Emperor.
Abdominal, or confectionary box, full of pieces of Hygiene.

Two boxes full of snuff boxes, with pictures of the Bonaparte and Bourbon families. On one is the portrait of Madame la Comtesse de Provence; on another those of Louis XVI. of the Queen, and of M^{me} la Dauphine. Many are also adorned with antique medals, and there is the head of Alexander the Great in one, who the Emperor frequently used.

The alarm clock of Frederick the Great. Napoleon obtained this at Berlin, and when in the field always had it in his tent.

A carved clock of wood, gilt. A singular circumstance makes this object very valuable. It stopped one hour before the death of the Emperor, and has never gone since, though it was wound up a few minutes before, and had never hitherto been out of order. It still shows the instant when it stopped. The fact is amply confirmed.

Articles of the toilette, brushes, &c.
Torn boots. Napoleon did not wish to wear English boots, and his companions in exile did their best to manufacture them for him.

A piece of the shirt, stained with blood, resulting from the post-mortem examination to which the corpse was subjected.

A medallion containing dark brown hair which had begun to turn gray.

Finally the beard and moustache of the Emperor, which had, during his illness, grown to be an inch in length, and which were shaved off and preserved by M. Marchand.

Such are the objects, says M. Delrieux, which compose the imperial reliquaire.

CASE OF SUICIDE.—A Mr. Sneed, of Union City, and who was well known to the citizens of Memphis, committed suicide by taking laudanum a few days ago, under the following peculiar circumstances: Sneed was a man forty years old, and had recently married a young lady of Union City. Having occasion to visit Mobile on business, on his return he pressed his wife fondly in his bosom, kissed her, and expressed satisfaction in knowing that he was the only man that had ever enjoyed that privilege. Upon which his wife replied, "you are very much mistaken; I have kissed divers and sundry men in my life." Sneed replied in a kind tone: "You told me I was the only one, and I believed you." To this his wife made answer, "I told you that I loved —" I have kissed and hugged him often, and felt just as free with him as if we had been married." After this cruel confession, Sneed wandered about town like one deranged. He disappeared on Friday morning, and was found a short time afterwards dead, having committed suicide by taking laudanum.

SOMETHING NEW.—Solomon tells us in the good book, that there is "nothing new under the sun," but Solomon had not then seen the last number of the Lexington Gazette, which does contain something new. A bill in chancery, with answer and decree, all in poetry.—The "divine afflatus" must have been strong in the breast of our friend J. D. Davidson, not to have been stifled by the oppressive atmosphere of a chancery court, and Judge Sheffy himself has evidently been softened by the memories of his earlier years, when he sanctions a procedure so irregular and contrary to all precedent. His endorsement of the bill, answer and decree, shows that he has himself caught the contagion. Here it is:

"Enter this Decree
As a curiosity—
But not as a precedent.

RODONDA ISLAND GUANO.
THE CHEAPEST AND BEST FERTILIZER
IN THE COUNTRY.

The "Rondona" is a Pure Natural Guano—not a "mixture" or a "manipulation."
It is one hundred per cent cheaper in price than any fertilizer in the market, and nearly two hundred per cent cheaper than Peruvian Guano.

The results of Rondona Guano, in the sale of upwards of 3,000 tons in this country during the past eighteen months, is attested by numerous testimonials of many of the most intelligent and practical farmers of Maryland and Virginia, showing that it is superior to many of the fertilizers now offered to the public, and equal to any "costing double the money."

This Guano is inspected, analyzed and weighed by the Maryland State Guano Inspector.
I invite attention to the numerous analyses and certificates of "Rondona," at my counting room, No. 18, Union What, Alexandria, Va.

CHICKENS AND TURKEYS.
A Certain Preventive of Chicken Cholera.
Will prevent disease in all kinds of fowl, and promote an increase of fat. Read the following:
Jefferson, Frederick co., Md.,
July 22d, 1867.
Messrs. Clotworthy & Co.:
Gents—The wonderful cures which have been made by your Poulterer's Friend cannot fail to interest all who raise poultry. A gentleman from this village has been experimenting on chickens with the gapes. He tried your Poulterer's Friend, according to the directions, and it had the desired effect in removing the worm, and effectually relieving the chickens at once. Since then I have had several calls for it, and it has been used extensively with the same result. It is of incalculable value to all who raise poultry.
Respectfully,

YOUNG MEN,
Especially, who have become the victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of Young Men of the most excellent talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have embraced listening Senators with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstasy the living lyre, may call with full confidence.
