TECHNICALITIES.—I once heard a pretty good thing in the Supreme Judicial Court at Portland. The case was one of severe assault upon the first officer of a Yankee barque, by one of the crew, which assault occurred on shore. Judge S. was upon the bench. He was a very small man, very neat in dress, and very fastidious; resting firmly upon his judicial dignity; a first class lawyer, and withal inclined to be self sufficient and crusty. No attorney at the bar ever ventured to take liberties with Judge S.

The principal witness in the present case was an old weather-beaten sailor named Jack Miller. Now Jack was called to testify against his shipmate, as he had witnessed the assault, and had interfered to terminate it; but he was anxious to tell as little against his chum as possible, and, furthermore, to soften down and excuse what he did tell; and this led him to be a little rambling in his testimony. The judge had been making notes with a pencil, and as Jack was wandering off into unnecessary explanation, he lifted his head, and evidently forgetting for the moment the exact standing of the witness, with his mind partially upon his notes, he testily exclaimed, "Come, witness—ad rem, ad propositum! Don't wander so."

The witness stopped, and then winked and looked wonderingly. He repeated the abstruse words to himself as nearly as he could pronounce them, and then, with earnest simplicity asked—
"Your honor, what does them words mean?"
"Never mind," returned the judge, with a wave of the hand. "They are technical terms, used in law, not for men in your position to understand."

There was a titter in the court room as poor Jack turned, rather crest fallen, back to the examining counsel. Pretty soon the witness sought to explain that his shipmate, when he made the assault, was not his shipmate. Said he, half to the counsel, and half to the jury.
"Tom was pootty hard on for it. He'd splice the main brace, an' doubled the tub, and tapped the admiral more'n—"
The little smooth head of Judge S.—bobbed up at this point.
"Stop witness; I don't comprehend. What do you mean, by 'doubling the tub,' 'tapping the admiral,' and other equally ambiguous expressions?"

Jack's eyes snapped just a single spark, and then his face was as calm and serene as the bark of an old galleon oak.
"Why, your honor," he replied with patronizing respect and deference, "them's technical terms, used on shipboard, which I aren't expected as men in yer honor's position would understand."
While his honor was subsiding, a titter broke loose in the court room, which would have stelled a roar, if the sheriff had not sternly bitten his lips and loudly commanded "order!"

THE WIDOW'S VICTIMS.—There appears on a certain day, in each of the daily papers an advertisement setting forth that a "young widow, of refinement, education, beauty and wealth, intends to make the tour of the continent, and wishes to engage, as a companion and protector, a young gentleman of refinement and cultivation, who will receive a liberal salary and have all his expenses paid." That brings a crowd of the prettiest young men in town to the office of the "Employment Bureau" man who acts as her agent. Each takes him aside and says quite confidentially, "My dear fellow, if you get this engagement for me, I will give you (twenty five or fifty dollars, as the case might be.)" Then the agent says, "My dear fellow, I don't think I ought to do it, but still, I like your looks and think the lady will—yes, I am sure she will, and I have influence with her; so just take a note from me, see her, and come back." Each understands that "come back" it means "come down after the engagement is obtained." Each and all see her in turn, in a magnificent brown stone mansion, and they find her very pretty, very smart; and when she seems to take a great fancy to each in his order, and engages him as her companion at a splendid salary, each pronounces her an exceedingly charming woman, and himself one of the best and best men alive. She engages them all, and they all return and pay the agent his handsome fee. The next day the office is closed, the rent has been about due, and it is a blaze of professional glory, "bliking" even the landlord and the man from whom he hired his furniture. As for the beautiful young widow, the places which she knew her know her no more. She only engaged board for a week in the brown stone mansion, and left before the week was up.—Chicago Tribune.

STANDARD PERIODICALS FOR 1870.
Published by the LEONARD SCOTT PUBLISHING CO., New York. Indispensable to all desirous of being well informed on the great subjects of the day.
"The Edinburgh Review"—This is the oldest of the series. In its matured state it still follows in the path marked out by Brougham, Jeffrey, Sydney Smith and Lord Holland, its original founders and first contributors.
"The London Quarterly Review" which commences its 12th volume with the January number, was set on foot as a rival to the Edinburgh. It resolutely maintains its opposition in politics, and shows equal vigor in its literary department.
"The Westminster Review" has just closed its 92d volume. In point of literary ability this Review is fast rising to a level with its competitors. It is the advocate of political and religious liberalism.
"The North British Review" now in its 51st volume, occupies a very high position in periodical literature. Passing beyond the narrow formalism of schools and parties, it appeals to a wider range of sympathies and a higher integrity of conviction.
"Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine" was commenced 62 years ago. Equalling the quarters in its literary and scientific departments, it has won a wide reputation for the narratives and sketches which it publishes.
TERMS FOR 1870.—For any one of the Reviews, $4 per annum; for any two of the Reviews, $7; for any three of the Reviews, $10; for all four of the Reviews, $12; for Blackwood's Magazine, $4; for Blackwood and one Review, $7; for Blackwood and any two of the Reviews, $10; for Blackwood and three of the Reviews, $13; for Blackwood and the four Reviews, $15.
Single numbers of a Review, $1; single numbers of Blackwood, 35 cents.
The Reviews are published quarterly; Blackwood's Magazine is monthly. Volumes complete in January.
CLUBS.—A discount of twenty per cent will be allowed to clubs of four or more persons, when the periodicals are sent to one address.
POSTAGE.—The postage on current subscriptions to any part of the United States is two cents a number, to be prepaid at the office of delivery. For back numbers the postage is double.
PREMIUMS TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS.—New subscribers to any of the above periodicals for 1870 will be entitled to receive one of the Four Reviews for 1869. New subscribers to all the five may receive Blackwood or two of the Reviews for 1869.
BACK NUMBERS.—Subscribers may, by applying early, obtain back sets of the Reviews from January, 1865, to December, 1869, and of Blackwood's Magazine from January, 1866, to December, 1869, at half the current subscription price.
Neither premiums to subscribers, nor discount to clubs, nor reduced prices for back numbers, can be allowed, unless the money is remitted direct to the publishers. No premiums can be given to clubs.
The January numbers will be printed from new type, and arrangements have been made which, it is hoped, will secure regular and early publication.
THE LEONARD SCOTT PUBLISH'G CO.,
110 Fulton street, New York.

THE LEONARD SCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY also publishes THE FARMER'S GUIDE to Scientific and Practical Agriculture. By Henry Stephens, F. R. S., Edinburgh, and the late J. P. Norton, Professor of Scientific Agriculture in Yale College, New Haven. 2 vols. Royal octavo. 1869 pages and numerous engravings.—
Price $7. By mail, postpaid, $8.
