THE STORY OF A 'REBEL' SONG.—[From the N. Y. World.]—"Stonewall Jackson's Way" was written at Oakland, Allegheny county, Md., almost within hearing of the guns of Antietam. About ten days after that battle it first appeared in print in the columns of the Baltimore Republican, headed (by the author) "Fanny on the Body of a Sergeant of the Old Stonewall Brigade, Killed at Winchester." The original copy had dropped from his pocket in the heart of the Federal encampment at Antietam, he being then special correspondent of a Northern journal.

Taken from the Republican, the song was at once set to music and published simultaneously by two music dealers in Baltimore, but with different airs. The one to which it was popularly sung throughout Virginia, and especially in the Confederate army in the Valley, was composed by young Frederick Benteen, a remarkable musical genius, whose early death was not only a private but a public loss. "The sympathizers" of Baltimore caught the tune as eagerly as they had that of "My Maryland," but their enthusiasm met with a rude check at the hands of the reigning provost marshal, who seized and burned the sheets, destroyed the plates, and cauterized the wound inflicted upon loyal hearts by applying a red hot oath of allegiance to several of the seditioners of the city. But the song had already gone through "the lines." It was reprinted in Richmond and sung by every woman and child in the Valley of Virginia—especially by the admirers of General Jeb Stuart, with whom it was a favorite ditty. Once the author, in passing alone and by night from General Breckinridge's army (then lying near Woodstock) to Richmond, was arrested at Gordonsville as a Federal spy, and while guarded by two sentries in the public room of an inn was recognized by a stranger as "the man who wrote 'Stonewall Jackson's Way'."

In every printed collection of the poems and songs of the war this one has been awarded a prominent place, and almost every compiler has sought for information concerning its origin and authorship. At one time the title of the song was used as a handy newspaper phrase to describe the characteristic exploits of its hero; and "Stonewall Jackson's Way" appeared at the head of reports and editorials in the Southern press.

As an example of the interest it aroused, we may mention that Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, in his lively lecture on the "Songs of the War," spoke of "Stonewall Jackson's Way" as by far the best song that had come from the rebel side. Another writer (Mr. Richard Grant White, cites it as a fine example of the true and stirring ballad, comparing it with Whitier's well-known "Barbara Freiche." A leading New York journal once characterized it as "a ballad that will live as long as the war is remembered; and Putnam's Monthly has twice pointed to it as a genuine inspiration. Nor has its fame been confined to this country. A literary nobleman in England wrote to an American poet, requesting him to procure if possible an autograph copy of the song.

In every place it has appeared anonymously, except in Miss Mason's compilation, published in Baltimore. By her it is erroneously ascribed to one "De Riviere." Of course, its text, by frequent reprinting, has suffered much damage at the hands of printers and proof-readers. With the exception of the original draft in the Old Republican and copy furnished long afterwards to the New York Round Table, the one here given is the only correct copy ever printed.

In Virginia the authorship has commonly been attributed to a very uncertain "lady."—The legitimate parent of the song is a well-known journalist and magazine writer, former of Baltimore, whose name is familiar to the readers of the Atlantic Monthly; and many ladies and gentlemen of that city are cognizant of the facts here first made public, setting forth the true story of "Stonewall Jackson's Way."

STONEWALL JACKSON'S WAY.
Come, stack arms, men! Pile on the rails,
Stir up the camp fire bright!
No matter if the cañon falls—
We'll make a roaring night.
Here Shenandoah browses along,
There burly blue Ridge cohorts strong,
To swell the brigade's rousing song
Of Stonewall Jackson's way.

We see him now; the queer, slouched hat
Cocked 'er his eyes askew,
The shrewd dry smile; the speech so pat,
So calm, so blunt, so true!
The cute old Elder knows them well;
Says he, "That's Bagg—he's fond of shell;
Lord save his soul! We'll give him"—well!
That's Stonewall Jackson's way.

Silence! Ground arms! Kneel all! Caps off!
Old "Blue-light" goes to pray,
Strangle the fool that dares to scoff—
Attention! It's his way.
Appealing from his native sod,
In forna caupera, to Gero;
"Lay bare Thine arm! Stretch forth Thy rodd
Amen!"—that's Stonewall's way.

He's in the saddle now; Fall in!
Steady! In the blue brigade,
Hill's at the ford—cut off. We'll win
His way out, ball and blade.
What matter if our shoes are worn?
What matter if our feet are torn?
Quick step! We're with him before morn!
That's Stonewall Jackson's way.

The sun's bright lanes rout the mists
Of morning; and by George!
Here's Longstreet struggling in the lists,
Hemmed in an ugly gorge.
Pope and his Yankees—whipped before,
"Bay'nets and rapids!"—hear Stonewall roar,
Charge, Stuart! Pay off Ashby's score!
In Stonewall Jackson's way!

Ab, maiden I wait, and watch, and yearn,
For news of Stonewall's band;
Ab, widow I read with eyes that burn,
The ring upon thy hand;
Ab, wife I see on, hope on, pray on!
Thy life shall not be all forlorn,
The foe had better ne'er be born,
That gets in Stonewall's way.

Though comparatively young at his death,
He was old in his ways, and in the affection of his men.

DRUGS, CHEMICALS, &c.

SWEET QUININE
Is a Recent Improvement.
Replaces the use of the BITTER SULPHATE QUININE, with which all are familiar. Dose for dose it is WARRANTED
Fully equal in every way to Bitter Quinine. And, like it, is the one Great, Positive and Unfailing CURE for all DISEASES OF MALARIOUS ORIGIN.
Fever and Ague,
Intermittent Fever,
Chill Fever,
Remittent Fever,
Bilious Fever,
Dumb Ague,
and the long train of disorders following these when neglected.

SWEET QUININE
is made solely from Peruvian Bark (so is Bitter Quinine), therefore it is of Vegetable origin, and not a Mineral Poison, but on the contrary is proved to be one of the elements found in the blood of all healthy persons.

SWEET QUININE
acts as an antidote to, as well as a cure for, malarial or miasmatic poison, the absorption of which by the lungs causes Intermittent Fevers, &c. The only advantage claimed for over the use of old Bitter Quinine is the entire absence of that intense, persistent bitterness, which in the latter is an insurmountable obstacle to its use with most persons, and always with children.

SWEET QUININE
is in two forms—In Powder, for the use of Physicians and Druggists, and Fluid, for use in the family and for the general public.
