THE STORY OF A HOTEL BILL.—We find this amusing story in the New York correspondence of the Boston Herald.

"Not long ago, a young lady who had come here from New England with her mother, with the view of taking lessons in music, went to one of the up-town houses to stay for a week or two, until she could procure board in a private family. The morning that she was to leave she sent for the bill for herself and mother—a lady of nearly sixty, who occupied room No. 45, a fronting that of her daughter. Miss— was surprised to find that her bill amounted to $175, because she knew it ought not to be more than $50 or $70 at the outside. As no items were given she returned the bill to the office with a request that the items should be inserted. The bill went back, with two or three specifications, and 'sundries' set down at $70. Once more she returned the account, demanding to know what the 'sundries' might be. The clerk explained to the servant, that 'sundries' was the polite term for 'drinks,' which so enraged the young lady that she demanded to see the extraordinary account in person. He made himself visible in due season, and the delicate, spiritual-looking girl confronted him by asking if he supposed she had drunk in eight or nine days $70 worth of liquor, as may be imagined he was somewhat abashed and said with confusion: 'I beg pardon, Miss; it's a mere clerical error. This is 44; the drinks should have been charged to No. 45—the next door, you see—a room occupied by an old fellow who drinks like a fish.' 'Permit me to introduce you to the old fellow,' replied Miss—, pushing open the door, standing ajar and revealing to his confounded gaze one of the gentlest and saintliest-looking old ladies he had ever beheld. The clerk said nothing, but dashed down the stairs, and in a minute a receipted bill was once more returned, but with the 'sundries' omitted."

THE NEWSPAPER BUSINESS.—The Nashville newspapers have determined to increase their rates of subscription, having found that at the present rates they are not doing so well as they wished. Few enterprises are as expensive as newspapers and few are so laborious, troublesome and unremunerative. Great as was the cost of publishing them before the war, it is much greater since. The price of printing paper has increased considerably. Composition, which means type setting, is almost double what it was, while to the one item of telegraphing must be added two hundred per cent. on old figures. Except in large cities, where the almost infinitesimal profit on each issue counts up by means of an extended circulation and liberal advertising, the publication of newspapers entails a loss upon the publishers. Nothing is more prevalent than unreasonable complaint about the price of newspaper subscriptions. Many persons, indeed, appear to think that they ought not only to have the privilege of directing the course of the newspaper they take, but that it ought to be furnished to them for nothing. A long observation and experience have satisfied us that there is no class who confer so many benefits upon the public and are so poorly rewarded as newspaper men.—Richmond Whip.

A COW-ARDLY SENSATION.—[From the Democrat Tribune.]—A cow was the cause of a most remarkable instance of devastation a few days since. Breaking into the yard of Mr. Lambert's dwelling, and putting her head into an empty barrel in an exploring tour for any contents it might contain, she was unable to extract herself and soon became thoroughly frightened and began to rush wildly around. In this condition she forced her way into the woodshed, and thence into the kitchen, and thence into the dining-room of the house, becoming all the while more furious. From this room she made her way into the parlor, throwing down and trampling under foot everything that came in her way. Mrs. Lambert aroused her husband, who arose and went for help. The cow next rushed into the bedroom, where Mrs. Lambert, with a little baby and one child, occupied a bed, and another child was in a crib in front of it. The enraged animal mounted the bed, but help arrived, and not an instant too soon. The window was raised from the outside, and Mr. McKenzie attempted to enter when the barrel gave him a blow which knocked him back against the fence. The children were all in the room and passed through the window end Mrs. Lambert soon followed. "The door of the bedroom was then closed and the cow was left to herself. At last she became quiet and the barrel fell from her head; the doors were opened and she walked out. The furniture, which was very nice, is fearfully demoralized. The plastering was knocked from the walls and the panels of the doors broken out."
