

ALEXANDRIA, VA. THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1874

The Louisville Courier-Journal in an editorial upon the late vet. of Gen. Keuper of this State says: "Those who burst his effigy in Petersburg will yet regret their ebullition of passion and will honor him for the courage and manhood with which he has discharged an exceedingly delicate and painful duty. He has risen above the clamors around him to the heights of a wise statesmanship. He does what is most difficult for any one to do—sacrificed personal feeling to public duty—and his vindication will yet come, as it always comes to those who adhere unflinchingly to the dictates of principle."

Capt. John Frey, special agent of the Post-office Department, and his assistant, E. Lewis, aided by W. T. Henderson, special agent from Baltimore, have succeeded in tracing numerous recent robberies of letters, &c., from the mails leaving Richmond, northward, to Andrew Harris, colored, mail driver for Garber's express. He was arrested by Capt. Frey, who found on his person four large packages of letters. His room was searched and checks, drafts and money orders, to a large amount were found. The losses by these robberies aggregate about $200,000, although most of the paper stolen was useless to the robber.

In the U. S. Senate, yesterday, the Chair laid before the Senate a communication in the form of a petition, signed by Mrs. P. R. Lawrence and others, announcing that a band of praying women would soon visit Washington, and requesting that a committee consisting of Messrs. Carpenter, Chandler and Sprague be appointed to receive them at the bar of the Senate. The Baltimore American says: "As the gentlemen named as the committee are not of such habits as would lead anyone to impute to them anti-liquor principles, the petition is very probably a joke."

The "volcanic eruption" in North Carolina has ended in smoke. The New York Graphic significantly suggests: "Montes pariturius nascentur ridiculus mas." It has been suggested that somebody, fleeing from the clutches of the internal revenue law, built a fire on the top of the mountain, which, if true, would upset all the fine theory of the New York Herald as to the cause of the "eruption."

Charles H. Long has been appointed postmaster at Green Mount, Rockingham county, Va., vice Samuel Long, resigned. Mary E. Harvey is re-appointed postmaster at New Brighton, Fauquier county, Va., under her married name, superseding her maiden name, Mary E. Wren, by which she heretofore held the office.

At Culpeper Court-House, on Tuesday last, William Jones, colored, the murderer of the young man W. C. Dirkin, in Culpeper county, Va., was brought into court, where he made a public confession of the murder of Dirkin. The court-house was packed with spectators, who expressed their surprise in various exclamations.

As the home ice crop has failed and is liable to frequent failures, the question of the production of that essential article of luxury, if not necessity, becomes an important one. At the late Vienna Exhibition improved machines for making ice were shown, some of which are spoken of as likely to be successful.

Capt. Gen. Jovellar, in Cuba, has suspended temporarily the inauguration of the law exacting one-fourth duties in gold, which was to take effect on the 1st of April. He has approved the law authorizing the circulation of foreign doubloons at $17, and American twenty dollar pieces at $21.

In a desultory discussion in the U. S. Senate yesterday, on the finance question, Mr. Thurman, of Ohio, said that he was convinced that one principal cause of the stagnation of the business of the country was the uncertainty what Congress would do.

LONDON QUARTERLY REVIEW.—The Leonard Scott Publishing Co.'s reprint of the London Quarterly Review for January has just reached us.

Three biographical sketches arrest attention; Winkelmann's History of Ancient Art has long been a standard authority; but few have known the career of the author, as given in the pages of this review—painful in its outset, tragical at its close. In a review of "The Personal Recollections" of Mrs. Somerville, we have the outline of another life, one of repose and peace, contrasting strongly with the troubled story of the other. John Stuart Mill is the subject of another biographical article, in which the development of his mind is illustrated by reference to the works produced at the different stages of his career.

Other articles are: "Simplification of the Law," "Sacerdotalism, Ancient and Modern," treating on the history and growth of Protestant confessions, and other ritualistic observances; "Lombard Street," showing the importance of the Cash Reserve of the banking department of the Bank of England, as the ultimate safety-fund of the English mercantile system; "The Despotism of the Future," of universal interest in these days when the labor question is being agitated all over the world; "Prosper Merimee's Lettres a une Iconoclaste," which have created such an extraordinary sensation in Paris; "Russian Songs and Folk-Tales," illustrating Slavonic Mythology and Russian Social Life; and "The Difficulties of the Liberal Party."

Scribner's Monthly Magazine for April, and Scribner's Illustrated Magazine for Girls and Boys, for April, have been published. They are handsomely illustrated with numerous engravings, and contain many excellent articles. These periodicals are winning favor with the reading public.

The northern book publishers who visited Richmond, to consult with the Virginia State Board in reference to text books in the public schools, yesterday received their contracts for supplying the same for three years.

At the Methodist Protestant Conference, held in Georgetown, yesterday, among the appointments was E. R. McGregor for Alexandria, Virginia.

Rev. Alfred Holmead was accidentally thrown from a street car in Washington, on Tuesday night, and considerably injured.

The reports as to the condition of the growing wheat crop in Virginia are very favorable.

The Connecticut election comes off next month.

NEWS OF THE DAY

"To show the very age and body of the Tones"

A fire occurred in Nashville, Tenn., on the 17th in the warehouse of the Tennessee Chair Manufacturing Company, which was filled with furniture, all of which was totally destroyed. The fire spread to the adjoining buildings of Greenfield, Ashwell & Smeed, furniture dealers, which were also totally destroyed, and the mattress manufactory of E. H. Miller, which was partially crushed by falling walls, and the rear portion burned. All the buildings burned were owned by Mrs. W. T. Allison. The loss is about $35,000. The Chair Manufacturing Company loss about $40,000; insured for $20,000; Greenfield, Ashwell & Smeed loss $18,000; insured for $14,000. E. H. Miller loss $8,000; insured for $1,000. The buildings were insured for about $15,000.

A special to the St. Louis Democrat from Sodalia says reports have reached there that the notorious Younger brothers, who are supposed to have been engaged in the Iowa railroad train robbery some months ago, were attacked on Tuesday at Monegar Springs, St. Clair county, in Missouri, by a party of detectives, and a desperate conflict ensued, in which the Younger brothers and two detectives were killed.

Dr. Paul Schloeppe was arrested in Baltimore yesterday, on the charge of being a common swindler. Numerous papers, including several railroad passes, were found on his person, all bearing the name of J. P. Schulenberg. The accused was committed for the action of the grand jury.

In Cuba, where a generous inflation policy prevails, the finances of the country are in a deplorable condition; exchange goes up and currency steadily depreciates.

Colonel Bentz, of the Ordnance Department, and Second Comptroller Broadhead, were examined in the Howard Court of Inquiry yesterday.

Hon. A. B. Hart, Governor of Florida, after a lingering illness, died at his residence, in Jacksonville, yesterday, at 7 p. m.

There are one hundred and fifty Granges in the State of New York.

The California Senate passed a Compulsory Education bill yesterday.

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT

CHICAGO, March 18.—A committee of ladies waited upon Mayor Colvin to-day, and endeavored to persuade him to veto the ordinance passed by the city council on Monday night allowing saloons to be kept open on Sundays. The mayor received the ladies with the greatest politeness, but firmly declined to veto the ordinance, saying the repeal of the ordinance closing the saloons on Sundays was one of the main issues upon which he was elected; that he had pledged himself repeatedly during the canvass to use his influence for such repeal, and he could not now honorably repudiate those promises.

COLUMBUS, March 18.—Notwithstanding a heavy rain four companies of crusaders engaged in street work to-day, visiting the saloons and manufacturing establishments.

LONDON COUNTY ITEMS.—[From the London Mirror].—At a meeting of the Leeburg Council, held last Friday night, a resolution was adopted tendering the thanks of the Council to the Board of Supervisors for their grant to the town of the right to erect a Town Hall, and Market House on the northwest corner of the Court House square, the site formerly occupied by the old Market House, but requesting the withdrawal of the bill now before the Legislature in reference to said grant on account of opposition expressed on the part of some of the citizens.

The good people of Parcellville are still waiting for the engine. The rails on the W. & O. road are laid to within less than half a mile of the station. A few more ties and the thing will be done, to that point. The next step in its westward course, is Round Hill. We hope it may not have to be said when "the harvest is over and the summer is ended," that it is not yet there.

Rev. Dr. Follansbee having been returned for another year to his old field of labor, occupied the pulpit of the M. E. Church South, in Leesburg, on Sunday morning last. Dr. F. is an estimable christian gentleman—a zealous laborer in his Master's vineyard, and his return has given general satisfaction to the congregation among whom he is sent to minister. Last week we had the biggest blow of wind of the season. It commenced on Saturday night the 14th, and for eight long days it kept up one continual howl. Sunday it toned down and the day was delightful. Monday it snowed and rained, and Tuesday it was disagreeable.

John Murphy, who a fortnight ago tried to put an end to his existence by putting a bullet in his skull, "still lives." His physician has discontinued his visits, and John bids fair soon to be himself some more—and will the legation under his last will and testament, "if he died," go about the streets.

Stone breaking has been commenced on the Leeburg and the Aldie turnpike, and the indications now are that by the close of summer we will have a first-class macadamized road. We wish there were more of them in the county.

J. Mort. Kilgour, esq., has been chosen to address the Franklin Literary Society of Randolph and Macon College, at the annual commencement in June next.

LAW.—Among the bills and resolutions that have passed the Legislature recently, received the approval of the Governor, and thereby become laws, are the following:

To amend the Code in reference to sales under Judgments, warrants, or decrees for debts contracted prior to April 10, 1865.

To amend the Code concerning the Board of Visitors of the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College and the Board of Curators of the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute.

To provide for the payment of the indebtedness of Harrisburg township, in the county of Rockingham.

To authorize the Shenandoah Valley Agricultural Society to borrow money.

To authorize the appointment of trustees for benevolent societies having no lands.

Proposing amendments to the State Constitution in relation to county organization.

To provide for registration of the voters of the city of Lynchburg.

FROM RICHMOND.

RICHMOND, March 18.—The feature of the day was the reception by the Legislature of the Maryland Boundary Commissioners, an account of which was telegraphed.

In the Senate bills were introduced in relation to allowance to clerks of Circuit Courts; to incorporate the Southern Settlement Society; to provide for the appointment of fish commissioners for the State; and to incorporate the Masonic and Old Fellows' Temple Association of Fredericksburg.

A resolution was adopted providing for the keeping of the archives of the Southern Historical Society in the Capitol building.

The Immigration bill, heretofore engrossed, was reconsidered, amended, and again ordered to be engrossed.

A bill to prescribe how hypothecations of products and commodities shall be made, and to prohibit the hypothecation of consignments except on conditions, was passed.

The bill in reference to the jurisdiction of County Courts was discussed until adjournment.

In the House of Delegates, after the reception of the Maryland Boundary Commissioners, the tax bill was taken up and further discussed.

While Frank Moss, colored, of Buckingham, was elucidating a financial problem, Mr. Riddleberger, of Shenandoah, rose and asked: "Will the member give way for me to offer a resolution?"

Moss, pausing, said: "As it is the member from Shenandoah, I will."

Mr. Riddleberger then said: "Mr. Speaker, I offer the following:—Resolved, That Frank Moss, delegate from Buckingham, be expelled from this House as a nuisance."

The Speaker put the question and there were four affirmative votes.

The debate then proceeded. The bill which to day passed the Senate to prescribe how hypothecations of products and commodities shall be made, and to prohibit the hypothecation of consignments except on conditions, it is estimated will capitalize in the State two and a half millions of dollars. The primary lien it gives is a new feature here; its object being mainly to attract capital. Hypothecations by agents of all consignments except by consent of the owner is prohibited, save only to the extent of advancement made to the consignee, who shall assent to writing to the quantity of the consignments to be hypothecated. Revenue to the State by way of license tax on warehouses will amount to not less than $20,000, and if the number of warehouses and houses of manufacturers who will pay the license tax to get the benefits of this act be as many in the State as estimated, the revenue will amount to $30,000.

Mr. O'Neal has introduced in the House of Delegates a bill to extend the corporate powers of the German Banking Company, of Alexandria, and the same gentleman has also introduced a bill to incorporate the Virginia Turnpike Company, having for its object the construction of a turnpike from Alexandria to some point on the Potomac at or above the Long Bridge.

The House, yesterday, refused to refer a resolution providing that all moneys now in the treasury or hereafter received, from whatever source, not otherwise appropriated and not necessary to defray the current expenses of the State government, be constituted a part of the sinking fund for the redemption of the State debt ascertained in the act of March 30, 1871, commonly known as the funding bill, and that the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund designating the moneys to be transferred to invest such moneys transferred to said fund in bonds of the State of Virginia at their present market value.

The introduction of the resolution caused a long and animated debate Mr. Stuart, of Augusta, announcing that it brought squarely before the House the question of repudiation, by announcing that no interest on the debt will be paid, and that it would do more to lower the credit and injure the character of the State than anything that could be done.

Mr. Dooly said that the resolution was in effect a repudiation of the unfunded debt—that portion of the debt which had heretofore been especially favored by the opponents of the funding bill.

Mr. Griffith, the mover of the resolution, said that the effect would not be to depreciate the unfunded debt, but to redeem it at its market value.

The Whig this morning devotes more than two columns to a report of this debate, which if continued will prolong it an infinitum, not to say ad nauseam—for if it is so pleasant to see one's name in print, how much more so to see one's views—corrected and revised by the reporter.

John W. Wall, sergeant-at-arms of the House has been detained for several days from the active performance of his duties by severe indisposition.

A meeting of the bar of this city was held to-day, at which appropriate resolutions were adopted and feeling tributes paid by several of the lawyers to the memory of the late Judge Joyner.

FOREIGN NEWS.

LONDON, March 18.—A meeting of the Louisiana bondholders was held to-day and resolution adopted denouncing the funding bill of the late session of the Legislature as arbitrary, unjust and injudicious, and calculated to shake confidence in all American securities. The meeting resolved to take measures to resist carrying the bill into effect.

The Queen has politely expressed her highest admiration and warmest thanks for the gallantry displayed by the British troops in the recent engagements with the Ashantees.

A committee has been appointed to investigate the charges preferred against Dr. Kenely, counsel for the Tiebhorne claimant. Mr. Whalley, M. P., demands that a similar committee be appointed to investigate the charges against Mr. Hawkins, Q. C., prosecuting attorney.

Stanley writes to the Daily News that after a careful investigation he is convinced that Dr. Livingston is dead.

VERMONT, March 18.—After a long debate in the Assembly to-day the resolution offered by the L. F., censuring the Government for its action in reference to the nomination of mayors of cities, was defeated by a majority of 62.

BAYONNE, March 18.—The Carlist forces, under General Sebals, entered Oler without opposition.

LI-BON, March 18.—The mail steamer from Rio has arrived, with dates to the 23d of February. The probable accession of General Mitre to the Presidency of the Argentine republic has increased the fears of a war between that country and Brazil. It is thought a rupture between the Argentine republic and Chile is imminent.

SWEDEN ON THE SOUTHERN PLANTATIONS.—A little hint on immigration is afforded by the statement of a Georgia paper that in 1871 about one hundred and fifty Swedes were taken to Jones county in that State to replace colored laborers. Their passage to this country was paid for on condition that they should work not less than one year and refund the passage money at time of final settlement. They worked faithfully for the time stipulated in the contract, but then refused to work on the plantations, and went off to towns and cities in northern Georgia and States further North. Of all the one hundred and fifty only one man remains in Jones county, but the experiment showed that colored labor is not indispensable to the cultivation of southern plantations.

Heroism at Sea

[From the New York Evening Post.] On Saturday we referred briefly to the rescue of the crew of the Norwegian brig Fodin by the Cunard steamer Algeria. The following account by an eye-witness is interesting: "The Cunard steamship Algeria, Captain Lott, on her recent trip from this port to Liverpool, experienced a gale of unusual magnitude and duration. Beginning on the morning of the 23d, the gale continued with increasing fury until the 7th ult. The seas following the steamship threatened her destruction, and the whole situation was one of grave apprehension as to the possible result.

"On the 26th ultimo, in the midst of the wildest period of the storm, when the officers were strapped to the bridge and the quarter-masters the wheel, signals of distress were seen and a dismantled brig discovered in a sinking condition. Without a moment's hesitation, Captain Lott ordered 'all hands on deck,' and began the difficult operation of 'wearing' ship so as to bring her into communication with the shipwrecked sailors. Signals of encouragement were given to cheer the survivors on the disabled vessel, if, indeed, the waves permitted. Making a clean breach over her, had spared any of the crew.

"After an hour passed in bringing the steamship within reach of the vessel, it was decided to send out a lifeboat, and Captain Lott, from the bridge, addressed the steamship crew, telling them that certain discoveries in a sinking condition that he would not order any boat off, but if there were any willing to volunteer he would permit them to go. Instantly a boat's crew were formed, headed by Third Officer William Frederick Hartford, with Bowman William White and six brave men. The boat was launched with great difficulty, amid the roaring of the wind and the raging of the waves. In the launching the boat was thrice capsize by the careening of the steamer, and Hartford had his right hand nearly drawn from his wrist, his leg being caught in the tackle, but he grasped the tiller with his left, and in a moment the boat had passed up on a mountain wave most high, and was then carried out of sight. All hearts went up in prayer for that gallant crew, for it was growing dark and the storm seemed to gain fury at every moment.

"An hour was passed in breathless suspense, when the life boat came in view again, riding like a seagull over the waves. As it neared the steamer the anxious watchers saw that it contained eight rescued sailors and two dogs. It was at this moment that the crew of the steamer discovered that the boat was not empty, and that it was manned by the crew of the steamer. At one moment they were as high as the yards, and the next they sank apparently into the depths of the sea.

"Man ropes were thrown over the steamer's side, and as the lifeboat was carried by the waves near the ship, Captain Lott ordered the crew to mark the ship for their lives, as by a Providence as marked as that by which the steamer had been driven out of its course by the gale towards the fendering ship, the distance between the steamer and the lifeboat was so reduced that the men were enabled to grasp the ropes and were hoisted on deck exhausted and bruised.

"One poor man alone fell between the boat and the steamer and was cruelly crushed, his collar bone and several ribs having been broken. Exhausted, he lost his hold and sank. Drawing along the steamer's side by the waves, his body was thrown around him, but failed to raise him. Three times did he fall back, and he passed beyond the reach of all but one man—William White, one of the rescuing crew—rolling his body down, cast a rope around the sinking man and he was drawn on deck."

TRUST DEEDS.—Since the Code of 1849 our statute law has furnished the form of a trust deed which is silent as to the terms upon which the property conveyed by the deed is to be sold, if a sale becomes necessary; but the statute declares that sales under such deeds shall be for cash. The Supreme Court of Appeals has recently decided in the case of Greenleaf v. Seigfried that a court of equity cannot direct property to be sold on time, when the trust deed provides for a cash sale, without the consent of the parties interested. Since 1849 nearly all trust deeds have been written according to the form prescribed by the statute, and the property therefore must be sold for cash, if a sale takes place, unless the parties interested consent to have it otherwise.—Charlottesville Jeffersonian.

THE EDUCATIONAL BUREAU.—We copy the following from a recent Washington correspondent of the Memphis Ledger: "The Bureau of Education, under General Eaton's direction, has grown almost to the proportions of a department, and it entirely occupies a large four-story brick building opposite the Patent office, and worthy of a visit. I spent one entire morning there and found not only an accurate and comprehensive system of arranging educational statistics, but much to interest and instruct. A large clerical force, male and female, is employed, and at present is unusually busy in preparing the next annual report of Commissioner Eaton. He supervises each division in person, besides doing a heavy amount of work in his own office."

THE STATE DEBT AND FOREIGN BONDHOLDERS.—And now, the foreign holders are after Virginia and the Southern States for a speedy settlement of their claims. They are interested in the sum of $1,000,000. They have formed an association in London called a "Council of Foreign Bondholders," whose objects are stated by themselves to be for the "vindication and protection of the rights and interests of the holders of foreign bonds, and the maintenance of the public credit of foreign governments by its propagation of sound doctrines with respect to the punctual fulfillment of their financial engagements, especially toward foreign creditors."

IMPORTANT DECISION.—In Judge Hughes' court, on Monday, in the case of George W. Anderson an order was made deciding that the State court where a creditor's bill was filed subsequent to Anderson's adjudication in bankruptcy has no jurisdiction, but that the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction over all such matters. Also, awarding a restraining order forbidding the creditors from further proceeding in the State court.

VALLEY RAILROAD.—The connection between the Valley railroad and the Chesapeake & Ohio at Staunton was completed yesterday, and the first train will run through to-day.

OBITUARY. "All that live must die, Passing through nature to eternity."

Died, at her house, "Belle Grove," near Paris, Fauquier county, on Saturday morning, the 15th inst., Mrs. ELIZABETH S. EDMONDS, in the 65th year of her age. When once taken from our midst whose virtues like those of the subject of this short obituary notice, graced, elevated, adorned and made bright every relation in life, no words of unmeaning panegyric can heal the sorrow of our hearts. Mrs. Edmonds' life was one of practical Christianity, and although it seems hard to know that she will never again hear her dear voice, always so full of comfort and sympathy, yet it is a melancholy pleasure to believe that with faith she has overcome the sharpness of death, and has on y made the glorious exchange of her earthly home for that bright mansion in the skies prepared for the blessed. How sweet the assurance that God has called her noble spirit from this world to dwell with Him in glory, and to place upon her head the crown of righteousness. I. E. P.

He died, February 24th, in this city, MANNIE E., wife of S. S. HOOVER, of this city.

The subject of this notice was a member of the Presbyterian Church for many years, and none who knew her faith and patience doubted her right to be called "a child of God." To a lovely person and most attractive manner, she was a model of uncommon strength of taste the most refined, a gentle, joyous humor, and a tender sweetness in her intercourse with her family, which made her the idol of her household.

Her lingering illness was marked by the patient gentleness with which it was borne, and the constant reference to the grace which alone sustained her. But as the end drew near, her faith increased, and she entered the dark valley even with words which cheered the hearts of those who surrounded her. Her last agony is written in the deep and heart-breaking grief of those who remain to mourn that the light has gone out which once brightened their happy home.

At 10 1/2 p. m., on the 18th inst., JULIA ROSE, wife of John Birrell, and daughter of the late Michael and Catherine Purcell, in the 31d year of her age. Her friends are invited to attend her funeral, from her late residence, 100 Commerce street, on Friday afternoon, at two o'clock. Her life was a continual self-sacrifice.
