

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1875.

THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNORSHIP.—The Conservative caucus of the Legislature last night nominated, and the Legislature to day elected Judge Henry W. Thomas, of Fairfax, as present a member of the State Senate, Lieutenant Governor, to succeed Colonel R. E. Withers, who goes to the U. S. Senate, and whose resignation of the office of Lieutenant Governor takes effect on the 1st proximo. The selection of Judge Thomas is a most admirable one, as he will bring to the discharge of the duties of the position ability and long experience.

ARLINGTON.—The Petersburg Index Appeal says: "Senator Johnston is resolved to make another manly effort to induce the Federal Government to do justice to the heirs of Mrs. General Lee, by rendering fair compensation for the property at Arlington, which, against every provision and precedent of law, was confiscated during the recent war. There was never any shadow of right in the Government's claim to the estate, except some pretense of unpaid taxes; and we have the assurance of Gen. Lee himself, that the offer to pay the taxes assessed against Arlington was made at the time by an authorized agent of Mrs. Lee. It is a crying shame that this righteous claim should still be rejected by the Government of the great United States. If the Radicals in power have any regard for their own good name and the verdict of history, they should by all means at once pay for this property, and not leave the act of justice to be done by their Democratic successors in authority." Justice is slow but sure.

Last night's "filibustering" in the House of Representatives on the part of the Democrats, says the Washington correspondent of the Baltimore American, holds the key to all the Southern reports, as, under Speaker Blaine's ruling, any bill on these subjects must be passed before 12 o'clock to-day, because at that time the first of the last six days' session intervenes, and a motion to suspend the rules will have precedence of all other motions. "For instance, a Democrat so disposed could move to suspend the rules to paint the Capitol black or white if the chairman of any committee who had the floor would surrender it to him for that purpose. Unless Republicans choose to risk political bills to a two-thirds vote, which they know they cannot get, the only way to pass the Southern bills by a majority vote will be to continue to-day's legislative session to March 4th; otherwise they must pass the political bills before to-morrow noon, if adjournment ensues, or fail."

The death of Col. Thomas H. Wynne, a member of the State Senate from Richmond and Henrico county, was announced in yesterday's Gazette. At the time of his death Col. Wynne was in the 56th year of his age. He was a native of Richmond, and early in life discovered a taste for mechanical engineering. He had been president of the City Council; was for several years superintendent and president of the Richmond and Petersburg Railroad Company, and was at the time of his death a State Senator. At the conclusion of the late war he re-established the "Ex-miner" newspaper. Col. Wynne was enthusiastically devoted to the preservation of the historic records of his native State, and in collecting them he spent much time. He issued five or more volumes of such works, including the Bland Papers, the Westover Manuscripts, Colonial Records, History of the Bolling family, Williamsburg, etc., etc. His death is a loss to his family, his friends, and the State.

A United States steamer, in getting out of Plymouth harbor, Massachusetts, the other morning, discovered a signal of distress flying from Duxbury Pier light, and bore down upon it. The captain found it surrounded by huge masses of ice, but succeeded in getting within talking distance, when he was informed that no communication with any one had been had by the keeper and his wife since December last, and that the wood was all gone and only a pint of water a day had been used for the previous ten days. After two hours' hard work, wood and water were furnished, and the steamer went on its way. It would be difficult to find a more uncomfortable place than a light-house in such a predicament.

The Richmond Whig says that the rejection, by the House of Delegates, of a motion to extend the present session of the General Assembly means nothing. "The House is only a little coy in doing what is certain to be done. It does not require a prophet or the son of a prophet to foretell that within the next four days the session will be extended. If such had been the deliberate and agreed purpose since the commencement of the session, things could not have been more skillfully ordered to that end." It will be seen that the session has been extended for thirty days from the 1st proximo, and had the constitution allowed, how much longer no man knows.

It will be seen that the Road bill has passed the Senate. The general provisions of the bill are the same as those of the old law of 1860, with an amendment allowing the Board of Supervisors of any county to adopt a mixed system of contract and labor, limiting the labor to three days, and the taxation to five cents on the hundred dollars; the county judge being authorized, upon the petition of fifty freeholders, to annul and set aside the action of the supervisors, if he thinks proper. The amendment carries the bill back to the House.

There is great complaint of the scarcity of butter in Richmond.

SCENE IN THE HOUSE.—A member of the House of Representatives, yesterday was guilty of the use of very blasphemous language. During the discussion of the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, Mr. Luttrell, of California, charged that Mr. Perry, the marshal for Alabama, had issued three hundred warrants for the arrest of Democrats, and had sent them to the closest districts. Some of them had been assigned to the Republican candidate for Congress (Mr. Pelham) in the Third district of Alabama.

A number of Republicans demand the reading of the affidavit. Mr. Luttrell said he preferred to state its substance. Cries of "Read!" "Read!" Mr. Spear, of Pennsylvania, said the whole object of demanding the reading was to take Mr. Luttrell off the floor. Cries of "Read!" "Read!" Mr. Luttrell. You may call "read," "read," until you are hoarse, but that won't alter the fact.

Mr. G. F. Hoar made the point of order, which was sustained, that the gentleman had a right to withdraw a written paper. Mr. Garfield moved that the committee rise for the purpose of closing debate. Mr. Pelham, of Alabama. I hope that will not be done. There has been no chance to reply to the remarks of Mr. Luttrell. The committee decided to rise. Mr. Pelham, (in his seat.) "God damn, it; you won't give us a chance."

In the Conservative Legislative Caucus on Tuesday night, upon the first ballot for Lieutenant-Governor the score stood as follows:—Taliaferro, of Gloucester, 22; R. A. Richardson, of Smyth, 23; Coghill, of Amherst, 21; Thomas, of Fairfax, 31; and scattering votes for Wynne, Moffett, Early, Ould, Boeck, J. H. Lacy and Bolivar Christian, who were not in nomination under the rule. Coghill was dropped as the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes. On the second ballot the vote stood: Taliaferro, 31; Richardson, 21; Thomas, 40; and several scattering. Before the third ballot was taken Coghill, Lampkin, of Pittsylvania, and Wynne were placed in nomination and Richardson dropped. The result of the ballot was announced as follows: Taliaferro, 20; Coghill, 23; Thomas, 26; Wynne, 16; and Lampkin, 14.

There is a movement on foot in Charlottesville to get the Virginia Midland railroad company to build a freight depot in that place at some point near the Lynchburg junction. The Jeffersonian says: "Under the existing arrangement, goods shipped from the North by this route to Charlottesville have to be transhipped at Gordonsville, where they are subjected to the local tariff of the C. & O. road, besides being liable to undue detention. It is also true that goods may be shipped to points south of this place and there shipped back again at less rate than is now paid upon a direct shipment. The freight on goods from Baltimore has long been onerous to the merchants here, and if relief can be had in this way, we do not see why they should not have it."

The State Senate has passed the bill amending the "Hypothecation Warehouse act" the effect of which is to permit all tobacco manufactured or unmanufactured, whether inspected or not, and whether in a public or private warehouse, to be hypothecated on the same footing as other commodities. This, it is claimed by its patrons, will make collateralists out of tobacco to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars, and is designed for the special benefit of farmers and commercial men.

Geo. Scribner, living near Earlsville, in Albemarle co., was shot, on Monday, by Pat Scanlon in the thigh, inflicting a serious wound. Scanlon escaped. It appears Scanlon went to Scribner's to borrow mules, and being refused on account of previous bad treatment of them, went later to Scribner's to borrow a gun from Mrs. Scribner to kill turkeys. He then went to Wood's where young Scribner was at work, and shot him without warning.

Mr. Stuart, of Augusta, has introduced in the House of Delegates a bill similar to that passed last year, constituting the Governor, Treasurer, Auditors, &c., a board of commissioners with authority to pay such interest on the public debt as the condition of the treasury during the current year may, in their judgment, warrant.

Lobbying is reported active in Richmond. The Enquirer says: "There was more button-holing, a larger crowd and more confidential conversations in the rotunda of the Capitol yesterday than there has been any day since the General Assembly met." The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, it is said, has an axe to grind.

In England there seems to be some "discrimination on account of color." In the reported settlement of the difficulty between England and Spain, growing out of the Virginia Affair, Lord Derby is said to have accepted on behalf of his Government £500 indemnity for each white man killed and £300 for each negro killed.

The President sent to the Senate yesterday the nomination of Harvey Jewell to be a Judge of the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims, in place of Ryerson, resigned. Jewell is a brother of the Postmaster General, and was formerly Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

The tax bill passed by the House of Representatives Tuesday will raise $34,000,000, in round numbers, as follows: From whiskey, $12,000,000; from sugar, $8,000,000; renewal of horizontal tax, $8,000,000; tobacco, $4,000,000; cigars, $2,000,000.

The Northern bondholders of the Fredericksburg, Orange and Charlottesville Railroad Company, have instituted suit in the Circuit Court of the city of Richmond for the purpose of foreclosing the mortgage executed by the company on the road, and to satisfy, by sale of the road, the bonds secured in the mortgage.

It appears that out of a sum total of $36,486,629 appropriated for river and harbor improvements from 1866 to 1874, inclusive, but $4,682,445 have been for improvements south of the Potomac and Ohio rivers. In the same time the single State of Michigan has received nearly if not quite as much.

A. S. Gray, has been confirmed by the Senate as U. S. Marshal for the Western district of Virginia.

The Senate Committee on Claims has decided adversely to the memorial of Commissioner Douglas to be relieved of responsibility for $20,000 embezzled by one of his employees when he was a revenue collector in Pennsylvania.

The English propose to move street cars by clock-work. The cars are to be of the lightest possible construction, and are to be fitted with Sheffield springs, having a force of nine hundred pounds each and wound up by stationary engines.

The joint committee on constitutional amendments have agreed to report a proposition to authorize the General Assembly to grant exemption for seven years from taxation to all new manufactures established within the State.

A telegram from Paris announces that the National Assembly yesterday took final action on the bill for the organization of a Senate, and it was passed by a majority of over two hundred.

The Ohio State Temperance Convention met at Columbus yesterday, and nominated a full ticket for State officers.

The banking house of Hart, Cauchy & Co., of Pittsburgh, suspended yesterday. Liabilities not stated.

The Ohio House of Representatives yesterday passed the bill providing for compulsory education.

We have received a pamphlet copy of the able and eloquent speech of Senator Gordon, of Georgia, on Louisiana affairs.

Two gentlemen of wealth—one from New York, the other from Norfolk—are in Richmond with a view of purchasing real estate.

The lower branch of the Pennsylvania Legislature passed a bill yesterday repealing the local option law.

The Graham Investigation. The Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections met Monday afternoon. Mr. Graham contended that if any act of which the Senate could take cognizance had been committed, it was anterior to the organization of the present Senate. He charged that of the forty-two senators now serving only twenty or twenty-one of them were members of the Senate when the cadetship sale is said to have occurred; therefore, the Senate as now constituted, admitting the truth of the testimony given before the Naval Committee, that no State law had been violated.

On this point Col. Penn differed with him, and referred to the Code providing for the punishment of those concerned in bribery. Mr. Graham responded that in procuring the cadetship from Stowell for Schoolcraft he was merely acting as the attorney of Dr. Beattie. Col. Penn rejoined that it was no part of the privilege of an attorney to bribe a public functionary.

After a full discussion of the legal points proposed by Mr. Graham, they were all overruled by vote of the committee. Col. Penn submitted the draft of a report which he proposed the committee should make to the Senate. It laid down the proposition that if Senator Graham's sworn statement, made by him before the Committee on Naval Affairs at Washington, be true, then he is guilty of bribing a member of Congress. If it be not true, he is guilty of swearing falsely, and in either event has violated the privileges of the Senate, and ought to be expelled.

Mr. Graham again asked for time, and without acting upon Mr. Penn's proposed report, the committee adjourned to meet again yesterday.

Mr. Graham was represented by his counsel, who asked that the case be continued until to-morrow, to which the majority of the committee objected, but finally they agreed. The case was continued until to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, with the express understanding that the counsel would be prepared to go on with it.—Richmond Whig of yesterday.

WONDERFUL SPECTACLE.—An interesting description of a burning well in Pennsylvania is given by Wm. J. Cummings, of Tarentova, as seen on the night of the 23d of February. The well is about seven miles from Tarentova, on the farm of Mr. Wm. Hervey, and is owned by Mr. Hervey and others in the oil business. The well is 1145 feet deep, and was bored for oil. It is in a hollow between abrupt hills, but the light from it is visible at a distance of thirteen miles. In the immediate vicinity the illumination of the trees and rocks is grand beyond description. The flame is about forty feet high and fifteen feet broad, and the current rushes from the ground with a rumbling noise. The heat is so great and constant that trees all around are budding and grass is growing freely. Within sixty feet of the flame the heat is 140 degrees. One could see to read by the light a quarter of a mile distant, and if interrupted by trees, a mile and a half. Hundreds of persons are constantly visiting the marvellous scene. The roaring of the gas as it rushes out and is consumed can be heard four miles.

Negotiations are going on for the purchase of this gas well by Dr. Hosetter, Graff, Bonnett & Co., the Pennsylvania Salt Co., the Columbia Conduit and others, who are studying the problem of utilizing this natural treasure in their various enterprises. The gas is conveyed from the well to the distance of about 150 feet by a six-inch metal pipe, and discharges itself at the end of this pipe with the percussive force of steam. There is another well of less note six miles distant, at a place called Saxeboyn, which also sends out a constant supply of gas. The tools are yet in the Hervey well, which, if drawn out, would no doubt allow a far greater volume of gas to escape.

NARROW-GAUGE RAILROADS.—The Railroad Gazette of February 20, says: "The Narrow Gauge question seems to have been finally settled, the House Committee of Congress on Railroads and Canals having reported in its favor and set forth its advantages with all the emphasis used by the most ignorant and zealous advocates of it a few years ago. The committee having disposed of this technical question so readily, we suggest that it still further favor the engineering and railroad profession by determining once for all, say the best form and weight of rails, the proportions of locomotives, or the best form of steam railroad for New York city traffic. Doubtless when the views of this committee's report reaches the Institution of Civil Engineers in London it will hide its head in shame and decree the destruction of that number of its proceedings which records its discussion on this subject, in which so large a majority of the (supposed) able members taking part were unable to see those enormous advantages of the narrow-gauge which our Congressional Committee in this land of freedom has established. But it is not these Englishmen alone who will be rebuked by this action, but the great body of railroad owners and builders in this country, who, having had the great excellencies of the narrow-gauge forced upon their attention for five years, have meanwhile blindly insisted on building twenty-five thousand miles of standard gauge roads."

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, a memorial of the Good Templars of New York was presented, asking an amendment to the constitution to prevent the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors. A petition was presented signed by 48,883 farmers of the Northwest, asking for an appropriation for the improvement of the Fox and Wisconsin rivers. Mr. Morrill, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported the bill to admit the diamond necklace presented by the Khedive of Egypt to Miss Minnie Sherman Fitch, free of duty. The bill to admit Colorado as a State was taken up. Mr. Hitecock said that the Territory had about 150,000 inhabitants, and 735 miles of completed railroad. After a number of amendments the bill was passed by a party vote, except that Mr. Sprague voted with the Democrats against the bill, and Mr. Kelley voted with the Republicans in favor of the bill. The effect of the amendments will be to send the bill back to the House for concurrence, and it is doubtful whether it will be reached before adjournment. The bill for the admission of New Mexico was also amended and passed. Mr. Morton made an effort to get his bill prescribing the manner of counting the vote for President and Vice-President before the Senate, but the Democrats opposed it and forced an adjournment.

In the House of Representatives a report was submitted from the Committee on Elections declaring that Sheridan was elected Congressman at Large from the State of Louisiana in 1872, and that Pinchback was not elected. A report from the same committee declares that L. C. Ganse was elected from the First District of Arkansas, and that Asa Hodges was not elected. These reports come at too late a day to be of any service to the contestants who gained the seats, except that their pay and mileage will be secured thereby. There was a sharp contest for the floor between the representatives of the Committees on Southern Affairs and Mr. Garfield, which was decided in favor of the latter, and the Sundry Civil bill was taken up in Committee of the Whole. Mr. Garfield made a speech to show that strict economy had been exercised in the appropriations for the past year, and great reductions had been made. Mr. Wood replied briefly. Mr. Beck moved to amend the clause relating to the expenses of courts, and denounced in unqualified terms the conduct of the Attorney General, who had used the Secret Service for the basest purposes. The charges were supported by other members and denied by the paymasters of the Administration. Charges of intimidation of white voters in the South and of using supplies sent by the Government for the relief of sufferers by the flood to secure colored voters, were also preferred against United States Marshals, and an excited discussion ensued, in which Mr. Pelham, of Alabama, was guilty of gross profanity. Pending debate the committee rose. A District Tax bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia and ordered to be printed. At the evening session an unsuccessful attempt was made to resume the consideration of the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, but the friends of the new Election bill voted down the motion. The Democrats then began to filibuster to prevent the consideration of this bill, and at three o'clock this morning no decisive motion was before the House, which was still in session.

PERSONALITIES.—In the House of Representatives, yesterday, Mr. Sypher, of La., obtained leave to make a personal explanation, and said that on Monday night, when the District tax bill was under discussion, the gentleman from Wisconsin had said, (reading from the Record: "I do not believe, in my own experience, that there is any district in the country where property is required to pay $3.50 on the $100 on its cash valuation, unless it may have been in those States which are cursed and crushed, as are the States of the South." Mr. Sypher. I desire to say to the gentleman that taxation in Louisiana is fourteen and a half mills on the dollar. Mr. Eldridge. I do not want to hear from the gentleman from Louisiana. Yesterday, said Mr. Sypher, the gentleman rose to a personal explanation, and under the pretext of correcting his remarks, puts in this dirty fling at me—(again reading: "Unless, indeed, it may be the poor, taxed, cursed, crushed and ruined States of the South, and I doubt if many of them are taxed to that extent."

"If," said Mr. Sypher, "there is any meaner sort than he and his sort— Cries of "oh," "oh," "take it down." Mr. Sypher. If the language is unparliamentary I withdraw it. Mr. Eldridge. I said it, and I mean it. Mr. Sypher. The attacking of a member under cover of a personal explanation, which can only be made by unanimous consent, is cowardly and contemptible. Mr. Eldridge said he did not ask to make a personal explanation. The sub-head "personal explanation" had been put in the Record without his knowledge. He asked what he had said, and which had been incorrectly reported, might be printed as he had spoken it. He meant what he had said.

The State Senate yesterday decided upon Lynchburg, as the place for the location of the proposed new lunatic asylum. The House of Delegates has yet to take action.

The Cabinet has decided not to submit the Pacific Railroad compromise propositions to Congress at present, thinking that all the time will be needed for the appropriation bills.

Major George H. Kyle, of the old and well-known grocery and commission house of Dismore & Kyle, of Baltimore, died day before yesterday.

BIG INVENTION.—Lloyd, the famous map man, has just invented a way of getting a relief plate from steel so as to print Lloyd's Map of the American Continent—showing from ocean to ocean—on one entire sheet of bank note paper, 40x50 inches large, on a lightning press, and colored, sized and varnished for the wall so as to stand washing, and mailing anywhere in the world for 30 cents, or unvarnished for 25 cents. This map shows the whole United States and Territories in a group, from surveys to 1875, with a million places on it, such as towns, cities, villages, mountains, lakes, rivers, streams, gold mines, railway stations, &c. This map should be in every house. Send 30 cents to the Lloyd Map Company, Philadelphia, and you will get a copy by return mail.

VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, on Tuesday, the House bill to provide for working and keeping in order the roads of the Commonwealth was passed by a vote of 24 to 8.

Bills were passed to change the name of the Fredericksburg and Gordonsville Railroad Company to the Potomac, Fredericksburg and Piedmont Railroad Company; and to incorporate the Ladies' Memorial Association of Northumberland county.

In the House of Delegates notice was given of a motion to reconsider the vote by which the House adopted the report of the Committee on Roads, adverse to the petition of the mayor and council of Strasburg, in relation to the Winchester and Strasburg Railroad Company.

The bill to rearrange and increase the number of the judicial circuits of the State was so amended as to create an independent circuit for Accomac and Northampton, and rearrange the 1st and 8th circuits, Surry going from 1st to 8th, and then order 2 to be engrossed.

The House joint resolutions amending sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 10 of article 5 of the Constitution, concerning the legislative department, and adding thereto another section, was taken up. It is proposed to reduce the House to one hundred members, to be elected biennially on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday in November; the Senate to consist of not less than thirty-three nor more than forty members; a re-appointment of senators and delegates at the session of the General Assembly next preceding the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1879, or sooner, and another in 1891, and every tenth year thereafter; no salaried officer of the State government, and no minister of the Gospel or priest shall be eligible to the General Assembly; the General Assembly to meet once in two years and not oftener; that no bill shall become a law unless, on its final passage, the vote be taken by yeas and noes, &c.; the Legislature to provide for the government of cities and towns, and to establish courts therein.

Mr. Round moved to amend so that members of the House be elected at the election on the fourth Thursday of May biennially. Rejected.

Mr. Stuart moved to amend section 4, by adopting a mixed basis of representation of persons and property, on the number of population and the amount of taxes paid the State, deducting therefrom all taxes paid for licenses or law process, provided that no county or city shall have more than three senators and five delegates.

Mr. Griffith moved to postpone the amendment, agreed to, and the House adjourned.

In the Senate, yesterday, a report was adopted that it was inexpedient to legislate on the subject of investigating the affairs of the Albemarle and Chesapeake canal.

A joint resolution directing the Auditor to publish settlements made by officers charged with the collection of the public revenue, etc., etc., was adopted.

The Senate refused to engross the bill to fix the terms of circuit courts.

The Senate agreed to the House joint resolution to extend the session for thirty days from March 1st.

A number of bills were advanced on the calendar. A bill was passed for the encouragement of land purchasers and actual settlers in Virginia, etc.

In the House of Delegates the bill authorizing Portsmouth to increase the salary of its Hastings Court judge was reported upon adversely.

A bill was reported to provide for the payment of interest on the public debt; also a bill in relation to the removal of causes from one court to another, and for a law library for the Court of Appeals at Wytheville.

A joint resolution extending the session for thirty days from March 1st was adopted—yeas 83, nays 23.

The bill for the assessment of taxes on persons, property, etc., and imposing taxes for the support of the government was made the special order for March 1st.

The bill to rearrange and increase the number of circuits in the State was passed.
