

ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA. SATURDAY, APRIL 24.

The Marlboro' (Md.) Prince Georgian in its account of the injury done by the late cold weather says: "From all the information we can glean from our planters attending court, the tobacco plants have not suffered so severely as we had feared. Some beds are injured, and the more prudent are already re-sowing or sowing new beds. The young clover, especially that which had just sprouted and was coming up, is killed outright, which is a great loss, as it is now too late to sow again, and that crop must suffer a serious injury."

The Staunton (Va.) Vindicator says: "The forward wheat is injured, but to what extent cannot be estimated. About $20,000 spent in cloverseed in this county faded in a night. The heads of the various divisions of the Interior Department waited on President Grant yesterday, and assured him that as far as the reports reflecting upon Secretary Delano's administration claim to be founded upon information derived from the Department, they are utterly false. The President was very emphatic in commendation of Mr. Delano.

When the operation was performed it was ascertained that the leaden missile had become attached to one of the bones of the skull.

The practical operation of the compulsory education law in New York has developed the fact that most of the absenteeism in the public schools is caused by truancy. Teachers are instructed to report all absentees to the truancy department, and an agent specially employed for the purpose of investigating every case. The result is an increased attendance at all the public schools.

"To show the very age and body of the Times"

The Treasury Department at Washington is in possession of the decree issued at Caracas, Venezuela, closing the ports of Maracaibo and La Vela del Coro to foreign commerce. The object of the decree is officially stated to be to prevent unlawful trade with Guayana and to punish that place for past offenses. A custom house has been established at Porto Cabello in pursuance of the policy of the decree. As the exports from Maracaibo to the United States for the year ending September, 1874, amounted to $4,198,168, including more than 20,000,000 pounds of coffee, the change may effect considerably the interests of merchants in this country.

Landerbrun had formerly been a strong friend of the miners and furnished them with muskets, but latter, becoming disgusted with their excesses, abandoned their cause.

TERRIBLE DISASTERS

THREE STEAMERS BURNED.

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.—About four p. m. a fire broke out in the blacksmith shop of the steamboat John Kyle, which was lying at the foot of Poydras street. The Kyle lay between the Leslie Taylor below and the Exporter above. The Charles Bodman lay above and next to the Exporter. Soon after the alarm was given the tug boat Ella Wood came up and commenced throwing water on the burning vessel, but without effect. Captain Hutchinson, of the Kyle, was standing on the forward deck when the fire broke out. He promptly notified all on board to leave, as it was apparent from the first that the boat could not be saved. Captain Hutchinson thinks every one on the Kyle was saved. Wm. Brown, the chief clerk, who opened the safe and took out the money and papers, was the last to leave the Kyle, which had in the meantime been set adrift. In escaping he was enveloped in flames and severely if not dangerously burned over the face and hands. His eyelashes and mustache were singed off. He, however, jumped into the river and swam ashore, and was at once taken to a hotel where he was attended by a physician.

Captain Hutchinson says the cabin of the Kyle was hatched in flames in less than two minutes from the time the first alarm was given. When the Kyle was out loose the eddy drifted her up stream, and those on shore seeing the danger cast off the hawsers by which the Exporter and Bodman were tied up. This act proved disastrous. The Kyle drifted against the Exporter and Bodman, and all three boats drifted into the stream. So rapid was the progress of the flames that the Exporter took fire the moment the Kyle touched her. The people on board the Exporter, having no other refuge, jumped on the Bodman. This boat in less than a minute after the Exporter also caught fire, and the three burning vessels drifted together into the stream, where they were soon burned to the water's edge.

Many persons who had gone on the Exporter and Bodman as spectators were on board when the boats drifted into the stream, and had to jump overboard. Some of them were rescued, but a larger number are believed to have been drowned. The number lost is estimated at from twenty to one hundred. The commander of the United States steamer Kansas promptly sent out his boats, one of which rescued thirteen persons. The jolting tug boats made no efforts to rescue those on the burning boats. There was an excursion party from Cincinnati at Pittsburgh, many of whom, it is feared, are lost. The Bodman arrived this morning and had discharged most of her cargo.

The Exporter was to leave this evening, and had about 400 tons of freight on board, all of which was lost. Captain Shinkle, of the Bodman, was much burned about the face and hands. A son of Captain Shinkle is reported among the lost. The Exporter was owned by James Reese, sr., of Pittsburgh, and valued at $45,000. The John Kyle was owned by Captain John Kyle and P. S. and W. J. D. Vidson and valued at $60,000. The Charles Bodman was owned by Captain O. P. Shinkle and others, of Cincinnati, and valued at $75,000. All supposed to be insured in Western offices.

On board the Exporter was Captain Reese, the owner, from Pittsburgh, who, with his family and a number of friends from that city, were here on a pleasure excursion. The ladies of the party were all ashore except Mrs. Reese and daughter and one other lady. Mrs. Reese and the other lady were saved, but the daughter was drowned. The hulls of the Exporter and Charles Bodman were towed across the river to Coyle's coal yard, while that of the John Kyle floated down a couple of miles and sank.

WHAT IT WILL SAVE.—During its late session the General Assembly adopted two sets of amendments to the constitution. The first adds petit larceny to the list of crimes, the penalty for which is disqualification for voting and holding office, and authorizes the imposition of a poll tax to be paid before a citizen can exercise the right of suffrage. The second set provides for Biennial sessions of the General Assembly, the reduction of fifty-four in the number of members of the two houses, and a salary instead of a per diem compensation.

If these amendments are ratified by the next Legislature and confirmed by the people they will save to the State upwards of $150,000 annually. The reduction of members will be a saving of $40,000, and the biennial sessions, with the consequent saving of officers' salaries and public printing, will be a saving of some $70,000 more.

Chronology of the Kings and Queens of England from William the Conqueror to Victoria.

BY ALF ED ANDREWS.

Ten hundred sixty six the Conquering William came? "Put out your fire and light!" will ever shroud his name. Thence, in twice five hundred eighty-seven, We set to forest-routin' Rats given. Time bit is one thousand and one hundred years Roll on, and leaved Henry's crown appears. Next, in eleven hundred thirty-five, To hold a conquered throne see Stephen strive. He dies; and, in eleven hundred fifty-four, A thyrus crown the second Henry wore. By Richard in eleven hundred eighty-nine, The Crusade banners waved in Palestine. Twelve hundred years elapse, excepting one, And King and bushie for h' worthless joint! In twice six hundred and sixteen the brand of power is clutched by the Third Henry's hand. Edward I the First, we England's monarch view— In Richard in the year twelve hundred eighty-nine, Edward the Fifth and Richard both we see. Enthroned in fourteen hundred, adding eighty-five, Henry the Seventh made sweet peace revive. Henry the Eighth in fifteen hundred ninety, See Luther's torch through Papal darkness shine. Edward the Sixth, the short-lived boon of heaven, Appears in fifteen hundred and forty-seven. In fifteen hundred fifty-three, the flame Of Mary's fury glows with Mary's name. Edith's reign, so golden to the State, Begins in fifteen hundred fifty-eight; By her bequeathed, the British scepter claims, In sixteen hundred three, the Scottish James. He dies, and sixteen hundred twenty-five, See at high empire the First Charles arrive. A stormy interregnum then appears, And civil war for nearly two years. A space in which the 'b' and dextrous hand Of Cromwell ruled but could not calm the land. This passed, and sixteen hundred sixty came. Sixty, graceless Charles, the second of his name. In sixteen hundred eighty-five, York's Duke, The James the second, the loosed scepter took; In sixteen hundred ninety, wanting one, William and Mary shored a happy throne. Then over Anna, in seventeen hundred two, The hand of time the regal mantle threw. Arrived at seventeen hundred and fourteen, In Britain's George the first the crown is seen. By seven hundred twenty-seven the date, And George the second holds the throne of Sts; and His grandson, George the Third, of royal name, In seventeen hundred sixty King became. In eighteen hundred two by George the Fourth, His Consort Queen by millions stripped her crown. He dies, and eighteen hundred thirty is the date When sailor William mounts the throne of State. We see, in eighteen hundred thirty-seven, To England's throne the young Victoria given; And eighteen hundred forty is the date When Queen Victoria shares the married state; Prince Albert's blessed with England's honored choice.

And in their off-spring may they both rejoice, Long may the Crown with rays unvaried shine, And distant ages bless the favorite, prosperous line.

FAIRFAX COUNTY ITEMS.—At the last term of the County Court the following named freeholders were appointed commissioners to lay off the county into road districts, under the new road law, viz: Centerville District, C. F. Ford, Thomas N. Stewart, and Simpson L. Pumper; Lee, R. L. Relford, John R. Hill, and Eos Fairfax; Mt. Vernon, E. E. Mason, N. W. Pearson, and R. W. Gaylord; Falls Church, Amos Burch, Christian Newman, and Robt. E. R. Berts; Providence, Jonathan Margarity, O. E. Hine, and B. Canfield; Draucsville, W. B. Averille, Charles L. Stewart, and Alfred Leigh.

W. B. Lewis, tax collector of Providence Township, remarked that he had just travelled for nearly two days for that purpose and had only collected $175, and that was from a colored citizen, a laborer at Landley. The reason of this stringency of the tax market is partly that the people are laboring under a misapprehension that the time for the payment of taxes was extended to June first instead of only to April first.

The dwarf pears and the cherries were pretty effectually killed for this season by the unreasonable cold weather, but so far as we can judge the peaches are mainly safe, though it is possible after the fruit is just formed the injury to the germ is such that it may drop off before maturing. It will take time to tell this. The apples are all right. They were not far enough advanced.
