

ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA. TUESDAY, MAY 13, 1876.

It is understood that the U. S. Senate will decide that it has jurisdiction in the case of Belknap, and that the question that those who hold and vote that the Senate has no jurisdiction are not competent to sit as members of the impeachment court, is dismissed by reason that a majority deciding that the Senate has jurisdiction, all the members are then sworn to decide upon the evidence offered in support of the charges, which duty, it is supposed, the opponents of jurisdiction are competent to perform.

The course pursued by Mr. Washburn in withdrawing from the contest for the House of Delegates, and by Messrs. Hunt and Catton in urging their friends to support their successful competitors, Major Corse and Col. Marye, for Treasurer and Clerk of the Corporation Court, in order that the unity and harmony of the party may be sustained, is admired and approved by all Conservatives, as secured for them the esteem and respect of all their political associates, and will not be forgotten.

The two tickets to be voted for on the 25th instant appear again in to-day's paper. The names of those on the Conservative ticket were put there by the recognized majority of the voters of the party, and in the usual way; they are those of good and true men, who have the honor and the interest of the city at heart, and they should, and doubtless will, receive the undivided support of every man who ever did or ever will profess to be a Conservative.

The storm of yesterday, though so slight here as to be barely noticed, was very severe in other sections of the country, in some places being accompanied with hail, and doing considerable damage. Though the sun was shining here at one o'clock p. m., at the same hour, in Washington, the rain was falling in torrents, and the lightning was terrific.

A special dispatch received at Boston from London says that England's last note on the Winoles case abandons the objection to his surrender based upon the British act, and argues that the treaty itself gives the implied stipulation that the prisoner is liable to trial only on the extradition offense.

Sir Edward Thornton having declined to receive any compensation for his services as umpire in the settlement of the claims between this country and Mexico, it is suggested by Secretary Fish that a suitable testimonial be presented to him by the two countries, and it is supposed the suggestion will be adopted.

The Richmond State says: "In Staunton, Danville, Alexandria, and Richmond, in fact, all along the line they are now making fight, not as Rads, but as Independents, 'Citizens,' and 'the People's.' They would divide us now and beat us with a straight-out ticket in November."

The account of the races of the Warrenton Riding Club, last Friday afternoon, published in Saturday's Gazette, was written by our correspondent Chasseur, and was so eagerly sought after that the entire edition containing it was rapidly exhausted.

The changes in the Cabinet mentioned in yesterday's Gazette were made, it is understood, by the President, in order to secure the vote of Pennsylvania for Conkling—his candidate for the governorship.

The Committee on Gas of the City Council of Baltimore have reported in favor of lighting the streets of that city with gasoline, in consequence of the high price of gas.

The Senate, yesterday, confirmed the new appointments for the British Mission and the Cabinet, and also that of Mr. Broxton, for the Montevideo consulate.

The President, yesterday, received a cable dispatch from London, announcing the death in that city, on Sunday night, of the infant child of his daughter, Mrs. Sartoris.

The Baltimore American says: Ex-Senator McDonald, of Arkansas, testified yesterday before a House committee that he paid John Delano, son of ex-Secretary Delano, the sum of $5,000 while he was Chief Clerk of the Interior Department. The payment was made through a party named Shaffer, who went to London and negotiated the sale of the Flagstaff Mine, located in Utah. The service Delano rendered the owners of the mine was to win the patent until the sale was consummated, thereby saving the payment of taxes, which is not required until the patent is issued. McDonald swore he did not know what the money was to be used for at the time, but was subsequently informed by Shaffer.

LAPLAND mothers are not in the habit of staying at home with their babies. The Laps are a very religious people, and take long journeys to hear their pastors. As soon as the family arrive at the little wooden church, and the reindeer are secured, the father shovels a snug little bed in the snow, and the mother wraps the baby in skins and deposits it therein. Then the father pities the snow around it, and the dog is set on guard, while the parents go devoutly into the church. Often as many as thirty babies may be seen laid away in the snow about a church.

STAY OF PROCEEDINGS.—In the habeas corpus case of Richard S. Parks, lately Common Pleas Attorney for Page county, who was a short time ago convicted by the United States Court at Harrisonburg of forging the signature of a registrar in bankruptcy, Judge Bond, in the United States Circuit Court, at Richmond, last Saturday, issued an order for a stay of proceedings for forty days.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Fredericksburg News says: J. J. Mason's many friends in Fredericksburg were shocked last Saturday to hear that he had been paralyzed that morning at 4 o'clock. To-day we are glad to learn that the attack was very slight, and Dr. Ashton's timely arrival relieved all apprehensions of danger. He was never speechless nor insensible, as at first reported, and his friends anticipated a speedy recovery.

A violent storm visited Winchester last Saturday night, and during its continuance several houses were struck; among them the residence of the late Judge J. S. Carson, which was entirely destroyed, the only thing saved being a portion of the furniture. The barn of Mr. J. Coe was also destroyed, together with four valuable cows.

The harvesting of the wheat crop has already commenced in Texas, and flour made from the new wheat has just been received at St. Louis. The crop is represented as being the most abundant ever raised in Texas, whilst the quality is excellent. The wheat prospect in Maryland and Virginia is also better than for some years.

During the storm in Washington, yesterday afternoon, a colored woman, named Ann Briscoe, residing at the corner of Eighteenth and B streets northwest, was struck and instantly killed by lightning.

FOREIGN NEWS.

In the British House of Commons yesterday Mr. Disraeli, in reply to the question whether he intended to advise the Queen to extend mercy to the imprisoned Fenians, said that, considering all the circumstances, he could not now recommend the granting of amnesty. An excited debate followed, participated in by several English and Irish members, and the subject was finally dropped. Notice was given that the question would be asked whether the Government intended by the correspondence in the Winslow extradition case before the House before final action was had in the matter. Prince Jerome Napoleon, recently elected a member of the French Chamber of Deputies, has written a letter to his constituents at Ajaccio, in which he says the Republic is an accomplished fact, and that he accepts it loyally and unreservedly. It is generally believed in London that Winslow will be further recommended to-day, and a feeling is said to be growing that the Government will not adhere to its present position in the matter. The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British-herop prospects, says the aspect of the country, although not alarming, is not calculated to afford any much satisfaction. In the French Assembly yesterday M. Victor Hugo offered a motion for complete amnesty, and made a powerful speech in favor of it, but it was rejected almost unanimously. The German squadron has sailed from Wilhelmshafen for the Mediterranean. Queen Christina has arrived at the Escurial. The Spanish Government has granted the Carlist exiles a further, but final delay for submission. An Austrian gentleman has refused the appointment of ambassador to France on the ground that it is improper to maintain an embassy in a republican country. The London Daily Telegraph's special dispatch from Berlin says intelligence has been received in official quarters there from Constantinople, which indicates that the Sultan will probably be compelled to abdicate the throne very shortly.

The New York Herald says it appears in evidence that A. G. Cattell, the friend of Robeson, purchased a cottage at Long Branch for the Secretary of the Navy, that E. G. Cattell loaned money to Robeson and borrowed money, and, we suppose, loaned more than he borrowed, because he now has Robeson's note for eight thousand dollars. The Long Branch place Cattell regards as worth thirteen thousand dollars—a figure so low that it will surprise holders of seaside cottages. This addition of dollars in money and twenty-one thousand dollars in the Cattells. It appears, furthermore, that Robeson so favored the Cattells that they made three hundred thousand dollars in "commissions" out of naval supplies alone. This does not count the money A. G. Cattell made out of the Syndicate in London. It appears in evidence that one firm which had furnished live oak to the Navy Department for half a century was compelled to pay the Cattells fifty thousand dollars as "commissions." Two things are apparent in this—first, the princely generosity of Robeson in allowing the Cattells to make three hundred thousand dollars; and, second, the unparalleled meanness of the Cattells in only giving him twenty-one thousand dollars in property and notes.

A SAD AFFAIR.—Saturday a man named McKinsley, of Philadelphia, who was superintending the erection of gas works at Spring City, received a dispatch telling him to hurry home with all speed if he would see his wife alive. He telegraphed to Reading, and had the conductor of the express train which left Pottsville at 2:30 p. m., instructed to stop for him at Royer's Ford. This train did stop for him, and as he was about to cross the up-track to get on board, the train which reaches Pottsville at 7:40 came dashing along at nearly full speed. The unfortunate man got safely across the track, but s meeting, probably the current speeding train. In an instant he was a headless and mutilated corpse. When picked up his heart was exposed, and for a short time its action could be seen. The body was taken home on No. 6 train, but before the train reached Philadelphia the man's wife had died. So she never knew of his death, or he of hers.

QUICK TRIP TO THE PACIFIC.—A special train will leave New York on Thursday, June 1st, and arrive in San Francisco on the following Sunday in time for dinner. The train will consist of two cars—one a Pullman palace, and the other a hotel car. The tickets, which sell for $500, are elegantly bound in solid sterling silver of unique workmanship and superb finish, being in the form of a book, each leaf of which constitutes a coupon good for the different stages of the trip. The silver case is not taken up but is retained by the holder. The tickets are limited to sixteen, and each entitles the holder to passage to San Francisco on the special fast train; one double berth on Pullman palace car; meals en route, on the palace hotel car, a la carte, and one week's board at the Grand Palace Hotel, San Francisco; first class return ticket from San Francisco to New York, good until used.

Just before Admiral Nelson went to sea for the last time, he spoke to the painter West of his "Death of Wolfe," and asked him why he did not produce more pictures like that. "Because, my lord," responded the painter, "there are no more subjects." "D—n it," said the sailor, "I didn't think of that," and asked him to take a glass of champagne. "But, my lord, I fear your intemperity will furnish me with another such subject; and if it should, I shall certainly avail myself of it." "Will you?" said Nelson, pouring out bumpers, and touching his glass violently against West's; "will you, Mr. West? Then I hope I shall die in the next battle." He sailed a few days after, and within a year West had in his easel the "Death of Nelson."

The New York World has been purchased by William H. Fry Hurlbert, and Mr. Stanton Marble will retire from its editorship.

General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

In the M. E. Church General Conference in Baltimore, yesterday, a subsidy of $2,000 was granted to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Bishop Ames announced that the Rev. James A. Duncan, D. D., of the M. E. Church South, wished to resign his office.

The Russian department has begun to put its exhibits into place. Several fine samples of multiple mantels and vases were arranged yesterday morning. The Chinese goods are being rapidly put into position. Some vases and other porcelain articles prove to be badly broken. The attendance yesterday was larger than any day last week. The Main Building was filled with visitors. Several excursion parties from New York and other cities arrived yesterday and there were from 30,000 to 35,000 persons within the inclosure. The paid visitors on Saturday numbered 18,182. The Brewster's building, northeast of Agricultural Hall, as finished, and will be opened in a few days. At the annual meeting of the Philadelphia Classis of the Reformed Church held yesterday, resolutions were passed endorsing the action of the Centennial Commission in closing the buildings and grounds on Sunday.

The Centennial.

The President's COURTEOUS ACT TO A SICK LADY.—A lady writes as follows from Washington: In the Patent Office there is a very pretty widow, recently appointed to a clerkship. Fate has been good to her in every way, and now, crowning her other misfortunes, her health is failing; a terrible cough haunts her, sometimes producing hemorrhage which alarms everybody else more than the plucky little woman herself. As pretty widows will always have beaux in abundance, our little widow often drives out with her admirers, and Saturday afternoon she started to ride to Arlington. (I'm not sure it was Saturday, but we'll "play" it was.) Reaching the Long Bridge over the Potomac that terrible cough began; there was no stopping it, so the poor little lady was very weak when the bridge was passed. There is a little boy here, and stopping his horses, her friend gave her the reins and rushed into the house for lemons, which she coughed, the reins were slipping from her nerveless fingers, the horses were restive, and she was looking with weak terror for her friends to come, when President Grant came down to the scene. His quick eye comprehended the situation. He threw his reins to his groom, leaped from his buggy, and, telling our little widow to give herself no uneasiness, the President of the United States stood there and held the horses till relieved by the widow's assistant escort. Meantime the bright blood was dying the lady's handkerchief—mats of gratitude were all she could give. The President ejaculated in tender tones than one would think, "What if my Nellie should ever suffer so!" Then, giving her his card and a bidding her to come to him for any service he might render, our silent President drove off over the bridge.—Balt. American.

END OF THE WORLD IN 1876.—The Chicago Times has the following:

News of the approaching end of the world is always interesting, and many a time and often have the Adventists figured out the date of the end of all things here below; and though the predictions have invariably failed, their renewed zeal to time has always been the cause of interest and discussion. The universalist church which Elder Thurman predicted for 1876 did not come off, but the prophecies have been looked upon anew and an error in the computation corrected. The Adventists of New York have arranged for the second coming of Christ during 1876. The prophecy of Daniel says that the world will end in just 1335 years from the time when the daily sacrifices shall be taken away and the abomination that maketh desolate be set up. The abomination that maketh desolate, however, is the Roman Catholic Church which the Adventists understand to have dated from 541, when the Emperor Justinian gave the religion of Rome its Papal character. This followed the period of 1290 years, spoken of in the prophecy, bringing the time up to 1831 when the last prophetic year of Europe began from the Bishop of Rome as much power as Justinian had given him. To this 1290 years the prophecy added, "a man and a figure" meaning forty-five years, thus fixing the end of the world at 1876. The end has got to come this year, and it is lamented that the New York Adventists are not able to fix the month and day. The catastrophe is to come like a thief in the night. It behooves every prudent citizen, therefore, to make the necessary preparations, and to put his house in order.

A DREADFUL CASE.—On Friday evening a farmer named John Goodwin, residing near Hewlett's Station, Hanover county, suspecting something wrong from the appearance of his 18 year old daughter, extracted from her a confession which implicated in her transgression a negro man named Bill Gooding, a former slave of the first named. Mr. Goodwin thereupon armed himself with a pistol and went to the cabin occupied by the colored man and called for him. When the latter made his appearance at the door he said, "Do you want me to come to the house and remove that tobacco?" Goodwin excitedly replied, "No, G—d—n you; you have ruined me," and drawing his pistol fired two balls into the other's body. He ran a few steps and then fell dead. The neighbors, on hearing the story, were very much excited. An inquest was held Sunday, and the evidence of various parties being heard a verdict was returned justifying the action of John Goodwin. Of course, this does not legally relieve him, and he may be arrested and tried for a few years for murder. It was rumored that a similar accident once befell another daughter, who was sent away on the discovery of her fault. Also that in consequence thereof a brother of the girl killed himself.—Richmond News.

A FRIGHTFUL SPECTACLE.—A ten mule team, drawing lumber, while coming from the vicinity of the lake this morning, went over the arched near the head of King's canyon. The driver sprang from the saddle, thereby saving his life. He then stood still, a horrified speechless witness to one of the most terrible scenes possible to imagine. The mules, wagon and lumber pitched downward to one level, and, rolling down, nearly to thousand feet into the bottom of the gorge, wild cries from the crushed and mangled animals rending the air as they were hurled madly down the steep mountain-side, until, when nearing the bottom, and die becoming extinct, the agonizing sounds ceased, and all became silent in death. The man said that after the first hundred feet had been passed the entire mass became hidden in a great cloud of sn-w torn up and scattered through the air, but that he could distinctly hear all sounds proceeding from the white cloud as it rolled swiftly, until it struck the bottom of the canyon with a crash like that of an earthquake.—Nevada (Cal.) Tribune, May 5.

WHAT TO PLANT ON THE LAWN.—Mr. P. T. Quinn is writing a series of practical papers on Rural Topics in Scribner. In the June number, speaking of garden decoration, he says:—The following lists will be found to embrace the most desirable varieties for lawn and garden planting:

Hardy Shrubs.—Double Flowering Almond, white and red; Altheas, in sorts; Durzina, double flowering; Durzina Graecis; Durzina Fortuna; Forsythia, Hydrangea Pannicula Grand flora extra; Philadelphus, Snowball, Spiraea, in all sorts (all fine); Weigelia, in sorts.

Hardy Herbaceous Plants.—Dielytra Spectabilis; Perennial Pinks, in great variety; Campanula, Spirea Japonica, Paeonias, Hollyhocks, etc., etc.

Bedding Plants.—For summer flowers, Fuchsias, Geraniums, Gladioli, Heliotropes, Lobelias, Nemesias, Paeonias, Salvia, Sweet Alyssum, in variety; Verbena, Roses, Tea and Monthly; Pansies, Fervetiv, and Ageratum.

Plants for Palaces.—Achyranthus, Alternanthera, Cannas, Centaurea, Coleus, Guaphalium, Caladium, etc.

Choice Climbers.—For summer, Cobaea Scandens, Murrandia, Laphosperum, Akebia Quinata, hardy Bignonias, Clematis, in great variety; Wisterias and Honeysuckles, in sorts.

From this comparatively limited assortment, the amateur can select such varieties to start with as his space will admit of, and, from year to year, increase the number and kinds without any danger of exhausting the list. Another and important matter to consider is, that to thrive, flowers need a light, moist, and fresh soil, and it is only when planted under such favorable conditions to a southern or south-eastern exposure, that the plants will make a rank growth and bloom freely through the season.

The acreage of oats in Georgia this year is thirty five per cent. greater than that of last year.

The following sections of the law are published for the information of all concerned: "Section 1.
