Ways that are Dark.
[From the New York Herald.]

We will speak first of South Carolina, and we call the attention of the republican leaders to the following facts in relation to their course and responsibilities in that State bearing on the election and the count, and showing clearly to everybody that the election machinery has been constituted and is used there by the republicans in a suspiciously unfair and partisan manner. Governor Chamberlain being a candidate for re-election, he so managed the appointment of the ninety six Commissioners of Election in the counties that seventy were his open partisans, many of them actually candidates for election to the Legislature, while forty are office-holders, who hold their places by Chamberlain's appointment. Such gross and blatant partisanism in offices which are judicial will make it difficult for the republicans to rebut charges of fraud in the local count, or of tampering with the vote after it is counted, if such are made. Already we hear of one case where a republican commissioner, being charged with delivering the county returns and ballots to the Returning Board at Columbia, has failed to deliver them and has kept them in his possession at Columbia for several days. This man is not only election commissioner, but candidate for the Legislature; he is a publican out-and-out, a hot partisan of Chamberlain. Complaint of his conduct has been made by the democrats, but has received no attention from Chamberlain or the Returning Board. Is it not extremely imprudent for the republicans to tolerate such a gross abuse of trust? How can they answer for it to the country hereafter?

But this is not all. The State Returning Board, framed by republican authority, consists of five persons, all republicans and four of them candidates for election, and assuming therefore to sit in judgment on their own cases, and with out permitting even a single member to the other side. This Returning Board is formed strictly according to law; but its character is so monstrously unjust, the indecency of a final count thus constituted is so great that it will be impossible for the republican leaders in South Carolina to stand alone, but all over the country, to avoid the odium of tampering with it. The conduct of this Board does not entirely satisfy the public. The whole course of the election in South Carolina suggests the republican leaders to the most embarrassing suspicions of fraud. They sent troops to the State without public or satisfactory proof of disorder; Chamberlain has on his ticket men notoriously unscrupulous and corrupt; his own nomination was brought about by an arrangement with a corruptionist, who had threatened exposures, and who is himself on the ticket. Moses and Whipper, the judges whom Chamberlain himself had denunciated as infamous, were somehow conciliated to his support and became his advocates on the stump. Chamberlain for days after the election professed to have no returns, though the State is small and all the counties easily accessible, and even now he telegraphs only, "All is safe," though transcripts of the official returns have been public for several days and show a democratic majority.

We turn next to Louisiana. There, too, the republicans sent troops and authorized Packard, candidate for Governor, and until long after his nomination a United States Marshal, to make arbitrary arrests on the eve of the election, which was done; but the election day passed in entire peace. It is charged by the democrats that in some democratic parishes the Commissioners of Election were withdrawn by Governor Kellogg, so that the voters could not cast a vote according to legal forms. It is notorious that in Louisiana, as in South Carolina, the whole power and influence of the federal government were used to favor the republican party. And now there, as in South Carolina, while transcripts of the county votes are easily accessible, and have, in fact, been published, Packard and Kellogg continue to assert that they have no returns, but that "the State is all right for Hayes and Packard." The vote is now to be handled by the Returning Board. The present members of this Board were constituted by a republican House, in 1875, of having fraudulently manipulated the vote of 1874. The formal votes in which this was obviously done were these:

Who read said committee has unanimously reported that the Returning Board of that State, in tampering and manipulating, and in applying an erroneous law, by wrongfully applying persons were awarded seats in the House of Representatives to which they were not entitled, and persons entitled to seats were deprived of them.

Resolved That it is recommended to the House of Representatives in Louisiana to take immediate steps to remedy said injustice and to place the persons rightfully entitled in their seats.

The "unanimous report" finding fraud was signed by Mr. Wheeler, now republican candidate for the Vice Presidency. A. N. is this all. Of the members of this Board, so condemned out still holding office, one, Wells is now, by President Grant's appointment and a republican Senate's confirmation, Surveyor of the Port of New Orleans. Another, Anderson, was rewarded by having a relative appointed cadet at West Point. Two others received their reward from Governor Kellogg in local sin-cures for relatives. The democratic member resigned. It is now proposed to fill one vacancy in the Board by the appointment of Flanders, a Federal office holder, Assistant United States Treasurer, the manager for Packard in the last Louisiana republican convention, and who brought about his nomination for Governor.

Can the nation's republican party afford to countenance and to take advantage of such methods as these, no matter how strictly they may be according to the letter of the law? Can it afford to be put before the country as the aider and abettor in such manifestly unjust, such glaringly indecent proceedings? And can it afford to declare, by the help of returning boards of such a nature as we have heard of, that its candidate is elected, unless this shall be shown to the entire satisfaction of both parties? We believe not. If its leaders hope for a political future, if they have any regard for the esteem of the nation, they must to-day prefer that Mr. Tilden shall be returned. It is almost impossible for them, under the circumstances, to obtain a verdict favorable to their candidate which shall not bear the fatal taint of fraud; and we solemnly warn them that it is quite impossible in such a case for them to escape the indignation of the North, which will cling to them and inevitably sweep them out of political life. To satisfy the public mind that no wrong is done, where so many circumstances point to a deliberate intention of wrong, is very difficult for them. To count their candidate in without so satisfying the public mind and disarming suspicion is to court disgrace, and at the next election to meet an irresistible burst of popular indignation.
